3 killed, 38 injured in terror blast in London hotel lobby

LONDON (AP) — A bomb exploded in the lobby of the Hilton Hotel near Buckingham Palace at lunchtime today, killing three persons and seriously injuring 38, police said. A device that appeared to be a second bomb was found later and demolition experts were dismantling it.

"I saw several people thrown to the floor," said one of the wounded, British businessman Edgar Dickinson, 48. "Some of them were screaming. It was like the end of the world. A bright flash and then everything went black."

Associated Newspapers, publisher of the Daily Mail and London Evening News, said an anonymous caller with an Irish accent telephoned 10 minutes before the blast at the Hilton and warned the bomb would go off.

The 28-story hotel, facing Hyde Park and only a few minutes walk from the American Embassy, was filled to capacity with 700 guests at the time of the explosion.

It was the fifth bombing in or near London in the past nine days. In the four previous blasts, one person was killed and 30 were wounded. Police suspect terrorists of the Irish Republic Army are responsible for the wave of bombings.

The main part of today's explosion seemed to come from the center of the lobby by the elevator, one witness said. He said there were about 100 people in the lobby at the time and there appeared to have been no warning.

The witness, Anthony Peters, British Airways manager at the hotel, who escaped injury, said, "There was an almighty explosion. The whole place went black. When I looked up afterwards the impression was of pieces of carpet burning."

Outside the hotel, on Park Lane in the heart of the fashionable West End, a middle-aged nurse, blood spattered over her white uniform, stood shaking beside a wall, mumbling over and over, "it was terrible."

A waiter in red jacket and black pants sat on the curb and said "I saw a woman with both legs blown off below the knee. There was blood and black smoke everywhere."

Other hotel employes herded out of the building said scything glass caused many casualties.

A chef working in kitchens at the top of the hotel said there was a "terrific explosion which shook the whole building. We had no warning.

"We rushed down to the ground floor and could see the front hall wrecked. There were a number of casualties lying on the ground.

Free-lance journalist Sally Mordant, who was passing by the hotel just before the explosion, said "it was a loud bang - everything seemed to happen so suddenly. People of all nationalities were standing around just dazed.

"One minute everyone was walking about normally; the next it was complete chaos."

The explosion was heard over the Mayfair area, and almost immediately, their sirens wailing, ambulances sped to the hotel. Police cordoned off the area.

Woman Manson follower attempts to shoot Ford

President uninjured in incident; report revolver was loaded

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A young woman said to be a follower of convicted murderer Charles Manson pointed a loaded pistol at President Ford today as he shook hands along a Sacramento street, but security men quickly seized her.

The President flinched away, then continued his walk to the California state capitol.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen identified the woman as Lynette Fromme, 27, said to have been one of Manson's followers.

The scene was one of some confusion, but the incident appeared to have been an assassination attempt. The President was unharmed.

"It didn't go off," the red-turbaned woman shouted as Ford's guards seized her.

Nessen said the gun was about two feet from Ford. He said Larry Buendrof, a Secret Service agent walking behind the President, "saw the hand of a woman come up between two people in the crowd." There was a gun in the hand.

"It was established that the gun was a .45, and it was loaded," Nessen said.

A witness to the incident said she heard no click that would have indicated the woman pulled the trigger.

Another witness, Roy Miller, said that as Miss Fromme was wrestled to the ground and handcuffed she cried:

"Don't worry. It didn't go off, fellows, it didn't go off."

Others said the woman also shouted: "He is not a public servant. He is not a public servant."

Agents wrestled her to the ground, seized her weapon and handcuffed her.

A woman who witnessed the incident said that a Secret Service agent had observed the gun and grabbed the woman's hand, raising it aloft.

Sacramento police took custody of the woman, identified by the Secret Service as Lynette Alice Fromme of Sacramento.

The incident occurred as the President strolled from the Senator Hotel toward an appearance at the nearby state capitol, shaking hands with the crowd along the way.

Nessen said it was Secret Service man Buendorf who seized the pistol from Miss Fromme.

Nessen said Buendorf cut his hand, possibly from the firing hammer of the weapon, as he grabbed it from Miss Fromme before forcing her to the ground.

An eyewitness said Ford apparently saw the gun before anyone else, and moved his hand toward it.

"I saw the President shake hands with one person," said Miller, who was standing nearby. "He went over to shake her hand. He saw the gun. He moved to protect against it.

"And then a Secret Service man dove for her right away and wrestled the gun out of her hand and grabbed her," Miller said.

Weekend scorcher predicted

One of the hottest weekends of the year is predicted for the valley by the National Weather Service with temperatures expected to reach 100 at several locations.

The heat will be made more uncomfortable by first stage smog episodes, which may reach 30 parts of ozone per million parts of air here today and Saturday.

A cooling trend is ahead, but is not expected to arrive here until Monday, according to the weatherman.

The mercury hit 96 degrees in West Pomona and 101 at the Ontario airport Thursday. A reading of 98 in Pomona and 101 in Ontario is predicted for today.

Salt Lake City bldg. bombed

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A bomb exploded early today in a 17th floor restroom of the Kennecott Building, causing an estimated $50,000 damage, authorities said. No injuries were reported.

But drop in Chino; Claremont highest

Property taxes up in 8 valley cities

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Property taxes are going up in eight valley communities this year, but in Chino the rates will go down, according to unofficial figures reported today.

Claremont becomes the city with the highest tax over-all tax rate in the entire area, with a typical levy of more than $16 per $100 of assessed valuation, up $1.50 from last year.

This compares with Chino's over-all rate of $11.50.

A home worth $30,000 will be taxed about $1,200 in Claremont, but only $863 in Chino, a difference of $337.

While cities in the West End of San Bernardino County remained relatively stable in their tax rates, the five cities on the Los Angeles County side of the valley all showed substantial increases.

Most of those increases were attributed to the rising cost of education. While school tax rates on the Los Angeles County side were going up by 86 cents to by more than $1.15, the West End managed to hold the line to 10 cents or less, with Chino showing a decrease of more than 10 cents.

Officials also blamed Los Angeles County government for the higher tax rates. The Board of Supervisors approved an increase of nearly 16½ cents per $100 of assessed valuation while supervisors in San Bernardino County were able to hold the same tax rate as last year.

While only one city in the West End — Ontario — raised its tax rate, only one city on the Los Angeles County side — Walnut — was able to cut taxes. Pomona's tax rate of $2.4950 remained the same.

The Claremont rate was the highest by far of any city in the area. School taxes went up $1.16, and city taxes rose 27 cents. The city's tax rate will include more than 78 cents per $100 valuation to pay the county for fire protection during the current year. The city no longer has its own fire department.

Claremont's taxes will rise even more when its share of the county library levy is established later this month.

The steepest cut in Municipal taxes came from Walnut, where the City Council slashed levies by 22 cents. Chino cut city taxes by a half cent. Upland trimmed its rate by about one-quarter cent and Montclair's rate will remain the same.

City taxes will be raised in San Dimas, La Verne, and Ontario.

All cities on the Los Angeles County side will pay a $4.5184 county levy, up 16.41 cents; a flood control district levy of 38.30 cents, up 1.21 cents; an 8-cent county school district levy, nearly double that of last year, a 16-cent rate for the Metropolitan Water District, down 1 cent, and a 7-cent levy for the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, the same as last year.

The tax rates and breakdowns were compiled by deputies for Los Angeles County Auditor Mark H. Bloodgood and San Bernardino County Auditor John Bulman.

Here are the cities with their over-all and individual tax rates, and comparisons with last year's taxes in parentheses:

POMONA: City tax, $2.4950 ($2.4950); school taxes, $5.9107 ($4.7977); Mt. San Antonio College, $.7039 ($.6855), sanitation district 21 $.2545 ($.2599). Total: $14.4772 ($13.2218).

CLAREMONT: City tax, $2.5445, ($2.2724); schools, $7.1857 ($6.1169); Citrus College $.6088 ($.6371); sanitation District 21, $.2545 ($.2599); Total: $16.0042 ($14.5123).

SAN DIMAS: City $.9000 ($.7500); schools, $5.9404 ($5.0568); MSAC $.7039 ($.6855); Consolidated Fire Protection District $.7838 ($.7587); county library $.2792 ($.2607); lighting district $.5000 ($.4500); Consolidated Sewer Maintenance District, $.0663 ($.0661); Sanitation District 22 $.2604 ($.2605); Total: $14.5655 ($13.2536).

LA VERNE: City $2.5237 ($2.2835); schools, $5.9404 ($5.0568); MSAC $.7039 ($.6855); library, $.2792 ($.2607); Sanitation District 21 $.2545 ($.2599). Total: $14.8322 ($13.5117).

WALNUT: City $.6500 ($.8700); schools, $5.9602 ($5.1439); MSAC $.7039 ($.6855); library, $.2792 ($.2607); lighting district, $.4464 ($.5080); sewer district $.0663 ($.0661); Sanitation District 21 $.2545 ($.2599); fire protection district $.7838 ($.7587) Total: $14.2758 ($13.5181).

In San Bernardino County all West End cities will pay a county tax of $3.0034, the same as last year, a Metropolitan Water District tax of $.1600, one cent less than in 1974, a tax of $.5200 to the Chino Basin Municipal Water District, up four cents, and $.2145 to the Chino Basin Water Conservation district, the same as last year.

The rest of the taxes are:

CHINO: City $1.7481 ($1.7531); schools $5.7204 ($5.8271); library, $.1432 ($.1432). Total $11.5098 ($11.5913).

ONTARIO: City $1.8852 ($1.6352); schools, $6.1157 ($6.1447). Total $11.8988 ($11.6478).

UPLAND: City $1.8621 ($1.8650); schools $6.2343 ($6.2193). Total: $11.9943 ($11.9522).

MONTCLAIR: City $1.7430 ($1.7430); schools $6.1157 ($6.1447); library $.1432 ($.1432). Total $11.8998 ($11.8688).

Lest residents feel bad about their property taxes, the highest rate anywhere in the Southland is the Los Virgines district, an unincorporated area in north Los Angeles county, where the levy this year will be in excess of $25 per $100 of assessed valuation.

No charges to be filed on Silver

A deputy district attorney said today he will not file misdemeanor charges against attorney Stephen Silver, who was placed under citizen's arrest by Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire for allegedly disrupting a City Council meeting last month.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Chuck Wolfe said that the charges will not be filed because of a "potential conflict of interest" on the part of the District Attorney's Office, due to its close working relationship with both the city and Pomona Police Department.

Silver, chief salary negotiator for the Pomona Police Officers Association, was placed under citizen's arrest by Lepire at the council meeting of Aug. 18 when he refused to cease speaking in protest of the council's adoption of a wage ordinance granting police a 5 per cent salary increase.

The ordinance was later nullified when a three-year salary agreement was reached between the city and police.

Silver has filed a $1.1 million claim with the city, charging false arrest.

City officials made no comment today on the district attorney's decision not to file charges, but it is expected that the matter will be discussed by the council during an executive session in the near future.

Wolfe stated that the city could go to the state Attorney General's Office to seek prosecution of the charge.

The arrest had been under review by the District Attorney's Office in Pomona for some three weeks.

Girl, 12, going blind, off to see the sights—for last time

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'll go to the end of the world," read the legend on young Cindy Waite's T-shirt.

But first she came to America, to savor the sight of Manhattan's awesome skyscrapers, of the neon-lit, casino-lined Las Vegas strip, of cable cars rumbling up the hills of San Francisco.

Cindy is going blind.

A 12-year-old who has already lost her left eye, Cindy arrived at Kennedy Airport on Thursday, accompanied by her mother Ann Waite, 42, and her sister Dawn, 18, from their native Bournemouth, England.

"I had measles when she was born," Mrs. Waite explained. "It is a congenital disease which has caused cataracts to grow at the back of her eyes."

"Doctors have told her she does not have too much time left before she becomes totally blind," Mrs. Waite said. Eleven operations and thick, horn-rimmed glasses could not preserve Cindy's sight.

"There's nothing that can be done, she said."

So the Waite family went hard to work in February and earned $3,300 for "the best holiday possible," a 17-day, coast-to-coast journey through the United States. Cindy's father, Gordon, stayed home on England's south coast, where he drives a truck with heavy construction equipment.

The first stop on Cindy's itinerary was the Empire State Building. On Sunday the Waites depart for New Orleans, with its French Quarter and blaring jazz bands.

Then on to the Grand Canyon in Arizona and the gaudy world of Nevada gambling houses. Fantasyland and Mickey Mouse at Disneyland. San Francisco's Golden Gate. Then back East to the thundering rush of Niagara Falls.

The Waites return to England on Sept. 20, and Cindy said she would like a second trip; this one around the world like her T-shirt says.

But she knows her sight will not last much longer and already plans to become a social worker aiding the sightless.

"I want to help other people," she said.

First test of state law on farm labor vote due tonight

By JOE BIGHAM
Associated Press Writer

The first state-sanctioned farm labor representation election in California is scheduled tonight, but a court order has cast doubt whether ballots will be counted immediately.

The secret ballot vote was called for Molera Agricultural Group, a Watsonville-area artichoke ranch which employs less than 20 workers, the state Agricultural Labor Relations Board reported Thursday.

Both unions struggling for dominance in farm labor organizing have qualified for the ballot.

The AFL-CIO United Farm Workers filed the original petition Tuesday showing election authorization cards from more than half Molera's workers. The Teamsters Union followed with signatures from at least 28 per cent of the work force.

Under California's new law, the first in the nation to provide farm worker union elections, field hands also have the right to vote for no union representation.

The question of counting Molera's ballots was left in doubt by a temporary restraining order issued in Sacramento County Superior Court late Thursday which prohibits the ALRB from counting ballots if the rancher belongs to the Western Growers Association.

An ALRB spokesman in Salinas did not know whether the Molera ranch is a member of Western Growers, which holds a master contract with the Teamsters covering 30,000 workers at 140 produce ranches, mostly in the Salinas Valley.

The Teamsters filed a "multi-employer" petition this week calling for a single representation unit at all those ranches, and Western Growers filed suit Thursday to make its members a single bargaining unit.

Judge Joseph A. DeCristoforo temporarily barred the ALRB from counting ballots on any Western Growers ranches until all those elections are held. He did not, however, ban separate elections at individual ranches.

The ALRB was ordered to show cause Sept. 16 why the order should not remain in force.

Two or three other elections probably will be scheduled in the San Joaquin Valley and a couple in Southern California on Saturday as the ALRB staff completes processing of the first batch of election petitions filed Tuesday.

Few elections have been held in the fields during the decade the two unions have been competing because farm labor was left out of the National Labor Relations Act adopted in the 1930s to establish industrial union rights and restrictions.

The Cesar Chavez-led UFW won a vote at a major table grape ranch in the mid-1960s, but most contracts since have been based on contentions to growers that one union or the other represented a majority of workers.

UFW: raid crippled union effort

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The United Farm Workers of America contends the Teamsters Union and operators of a Ventura mushroom farm used a Border Patrol raid to undercut UFW organizing efforts.

In an unfair labor practices complaint filed with the state's Agricultural Labor Relations Board Thursday, the UFW said the raid at West Foods, Inc., "wiped out our majority" at the 30-acre farm.

The raid earlier Thursday netted about 30 workers, Eliseo Medina of the UFW said here. He said those arrested included a UFW organizer and one of the observers for the union representation election scheduled Saturday at West Foods.

"Clearly this was done to destroy the majority we had built up," said Medina, director of UFW organizing for Ventura County.

Medina said most of those arrested were illegal aliens.

"But the company and the Teamsters knew they were not legally in the country and never saw fit to say anything up until two days before the election.

Jury sentences killer of five to death

REDDING (AP) — Robert Paul Sander, convicted of five sniper murders at a Northern California motel, has become the 23rd man to face death in the state's gas chamber.

The jury that last week found Sander guilty of the slayings issued a verdict Thursday requiring a mandatory death sentence for the former Cincinnati department store employe.

Sander, 24, was accused of spraying 30-30 rifle fire from a balcony of the Ship Ashore motel-restaurant. The dead included the motel manager and his wife, a maid and a vacationing couple.

Two persons were also wounded in the March 2 shootings at Smith River near the Oregon border.

Sander had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

But jurors rejected his insanity plea Thursday and found that the five murders were connected.

Under California law, that verdict requires the death penalty.

Judge Frank Petersen scheduled formal sentencing for Sept. 22.

Slim and bearded, Sander gazed without apparent emotion as the eight woman, four-man panel was polled on the penalty phase of the trial.

He also showed no emotion when the murder convictions were returned last Thursday night and Friday morning, and when his request to drop his insanity plea was rejected by the court.

He will be sent to San Quentin Prison's death row.

"It doesn't really make me happy to convict somebody, but if anybody was really guilty, it was he," said Robert Weir, Del Norte County district attorney.

Sander's attorney, Philip Schafer, told reporters, "I think I tried hard" and attributed failure to achieve an insanity finding "to my own inadequacies."

Appeal of the verdict to the U.S. Supreme Court is automatic.

Strike threat hanging over movie pay dispute

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spokesman for the 18,000-member International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employes (IATSE) says a walkout could come at any time during bargaining with movie and television producers.

The talks are aimed at averting the strike which would virtually halt production of theatrical and television film productions as well as videotaped TV programs.

The threatened walkout would be Hollywood's first major motion picture and television strike in 30 years.

"Unless there is significant movement on the part of management, it appears the only matter to be decided is when to call the strike," IATSE attorney Leo Geffner said Thurseay.

However, John Pavlick of the Association of Motion Picture and Television Producers (AMPTP) said only that talks were continuing.

Claremont High students need information cards

Each student at Claremont High School must return a parent-signed emergency information card, acknowledgement of receipt of a rights and responsibilities form, and an attendance office registration card before he may pick up his class schedule before school opens.

Official class schedules, identification cards and locker assignments may be picked up as follows:

Seniors — Monday, Sept. 8, 8 to 11 a.m.

Juniors — Monday, Sept. 8, 11 a.m. to noon, 1 to 3 p.m.

Sophomores — Tuesday, Sept. 9, 8 to 11 a.m.

Freshmen and new students — Tuesday, Sept. 9, 11 a.m. to noon, 1 to 3 p.m.

An official class schedule is required for a student to be accepted into a class.

Freshman and new-student orientation will be held Friday, Sept. 5 at 11 a.m., followed by a newcomers barbecue.

Claremont High counselors are available on a drop-in basis from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. through Aug. 31.

The counseling office will be closed Sept. 1 through 9.

YMCA swim classes slated for all ages

Swim classes for all ages will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA beginning Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 8 and 9.

Mother-baby lessons, for youngsters from 3 months to 3 years, will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 10 a.m. or from 6:30 to 7 p.m. The cost for five weeks is $15.

Lessons for children from 3 to 5 will be offered Monday through Friday from 9 to 9:30 a.m. for two weeks, or on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 7:30 p.m. for five weeks. The cost is $15.

Classes for women over 18 will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. for five weeks. The cost is $2 for YMCA members and $10 for nonmembers.

Adult swim classes will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. for five weeks. The cost is $2 for members and $10 for nonmembers.

The YMCA will also offer a senior lifesaving class for persons 15 and over. The class will meet for five weeks on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Persons completing the course will receive a Red Cross Senior Lifesaving Certificate. The cost is $6 for nonmembers, and free to members.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

A REAL LIFT

Shriners carry Maria Alicia Reynosa, 14, right, and Irene, 10, to an airplane in Tucson for a trip to Los Angeles. The Mexican girls, both paralyzed in the legs, will undergo operations. Maria has made three trips to Los Angeles for muscle transplants, and Irene will undergo her fifth operation. Shriners paid for the trip.

The slasher: what's happened to him?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What ever happened to the Slasher, who terrorized this city by slitting the throats of nine men in a two-and-one-half-month period nine months ago?

"Technically, at least, the Slasher was never arrested," Jay Berman of the district attorney's office said Thursday. "The case is still being investigated."

And though the police Slasher Task Force has been cut back "considerably," there still are policemen working full time on the case, said a police spokesman Lt. Dan Cook.

The killings began last Nov. 13. A victim with his throat slashed ear-to-ear turned up about once a week until the end of January, sparking one of the biggest manhunts in this city's history. The first seven murders were in the Skid Row area. Several victims were reportedly homosexuals.

Police have said virtually nothing about the Slasher case since March 17, when public defenders for Vaughn O. Greenwood, then in jail on another charge, obtained a court order forbidding law enforcement officials from mentioning Greenwood in the slashings.

The gag order was sought after published speculation by members of the police force that Greenwood, 31, may have been the Slasher.

Greenwood was arrested Feb. 3 and accused of assault with a deadly weapon in the knife and hatchet attack on two men in the suburban Hollywood Hills. He was convicted July 31 and is to be sentenced Sept. 10.

Attention focused on Greenwood because the last slashing victim was found three days before Greenwood's arrest and because he had been convicted of a slashing attack in Chicago.

Police records in Chicago show Greenwood was convicted of two charges of aggravated battery in a May 1966 slashing and stabbing attack on Mance Porter, 70, who lived at a Skid Row area hotel. Porter's throat was slashed ear-to-ear with a knife, but he lived to testify at the trial.

Court records show that Porter said Greenwood forced him to perform a sex act. Greenwood was released from prison Jan. 3, 1973.

Chicago police homicide Sgt. Rocco Rinaldi said in March that Greenwood was acquitted on two murder charges in June 1965 in the fatal slashing of one Chicago Skid Row drunk and bludgeoning of a second.

Rinaldi said Greenwood and another man were charged but the other man turned state's witness against Greenwood in exchange for a light prison sentence. Greenwood, however, was acquitted.

Neither Greenwood nor anyone else has been charged with any of the Slasher killings.

"The evidence is not sufficient to charge anyone right now," said Berman. "The case is technically unsolved."

Tax boost seen

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The County Supervisors Association of California says the state-federal agreement on Medi-Cal will increase property taxes by $15 million a year.

State and federal officials have said the agreement should save California taxpayers $40 million to $50 million a year.

Million pupils locked out of schools

Teachers in 11 states walking picket lines

By The Associated Press

Nearly a million school children in 11 states were locked out of the classroom again today as teachers, striking for more money and other benefits, paced the picket line while negotiations with school officials remained stalemated.

Scattered settlements were reported Thursday in several states, but teachers were still boycotting classes in parts of California, Delaware, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Washington.

The gripes which kept the teachers out of the classrooms included wages, class size, cost-of-living increases, and fringe benefits.

Hundreds of public school teachers remained on strike today in Berkeley and San Jose, and a statewide teachers association leader warned that similar walkouts might spread throughout the etate.

Meanwhile, negotiators for Los Angeles teachers and the school board reached a tentative agreement, and San Francisco teachers were offered a new contract package as officials tried to head off a strike.

Contract talks in Berkeley, where firemen are also on strike, were recessed early today with no indication of progress. Negotiators said they would meet again soon but declined to say when.

About 90 per cent of Berkeley's 960 teachers are on strike. A few non-striking teachers and substitutes are holding classes in the city's 24 schools. School officials said 5,000 of the district's 14,715 elementary and high school students attended classes Thursday, compared with 6,877 on Wednesday, the first day of the walkout.

An estimated 395 of 410 teachers at 15 schools in San Jose's 10,000-student Berryessa Union School District stayed off the job. Negotiators met in public Thursday, with about 250 persons at the meeting. But the talks broke down in confusion, and bargaining resumed in private, California Teachers Association spokesman Mel Hebert said.

The hardest hit states were Illinois, where 530,000 pupils in Chicago were affected, and Pennsylvania, where more than 200,000 children were out of school.

Chicago's public school system remained closed today for a third straight day, and Chicago Teachers Union negotiators set noon Sunday as a new settlement deadline. If no contract agreement is reached by then, they say the walkout will continue Monday.

The teachers' strike is the fourth in the past seven school years to hit the city's 666 public schools.

After negotiations broke off late Thursday, schools Supt.elect Joseph P. Hannon, who officially takes office later this month, expressed cautious optimism about a possible settlement before the Sunday deadline. Hannon said the two sides were "not very far apart," but he criticized CTU negotiators for turning down the school board's offer Thursday of an interim five-month contract.

CTU President Robert M. Healey, however, termed the five-month proposal "totally unacceptable," saying it included a no-strike clause. Healey said the union had offered to trim $600,000 from its total package proposal.

More than 28,000 teachers were affected after union members voted 21,439 to 2,537 to strike the city's schools on the first scheduled day of classes Wednesday. Prime issues in the dispute are class size, a cost-of-living pay increase and improved fringe benefits.

Hannon said that current salaries for Chicago teachers range from $10,400 a year for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree to $20,996 for a teacher with a doctor's degree and 15 years experience.

More than 22,600 pupils in Louisville, Ky., were bused to school Thursday under a courtordered busing plan. However, the FBI has been ordered to investigate a series of scuffles and confrontations that erupted in Jefferson County on the first day of the desegragation program. Six persons were injured and 13 arrested.

In Pennsylvania, more than 20,808 pupils in 3 school districts were on an extended vacation as strikes spread to 24 more districts. Strikes shut down seven other districts earlier in the week.

About 7,500 teachers were off the job and teachers in another 121 districts worked without contracts. The state has 505 districts.

However, teachers in two districts went back to work. The Keystone Oaks district teachers of Allegheny County approved a new contract while teachers in the Cumberland Valley district returned to work without a contract.

In Rhode Island, school officials from two districts went to court to get the teachers back in the classroom.

Providence Superior Court Judge John Bourcier told teachers in Pawtucket and Cumberland on Thursday to renew bargaining or "I'll have to pass on the law which is that a teacher strike is illegal."

Officials of the two communities had sought back-to-work orders.

Teachers in nine other districts remained idle.

Meanwhile, teachers in Scituate, R.I., settled with the district Thursday on an arbitrator's salary award, allowing 1,800 pupils to return to class. About 68,000 pupils remained affected by walkouts in the state.

In nearby Massachusetts, 900 striking teachers in Lynn have vowed to stay on the picket lines even though the city plans to keep schools open for about 16,000 pupils.

About 1,000 teachers in Boonton, N.J., voted Thursday night to strike in a contract dispute. There are now about 9,900 New Jersey teachers on strike in three districts.

In New York State, striking teachers in the South Colonie School District near Albany were faced with a court order to return to work.

The teachers walked off their job Thursday. It increases to five the number of New York State school districts affected by strikes.

Classes were held at the five districts Thursday with substitute teachers handling more than 41,000 pupils.

A strike at five Roman Catholic schools continued in Brooklyn and Queens, where 270 unionized lay teachers seek 12.2 per cent pay hikes.

No progress was reported in contract negotiations in the New York City public school system, the nation's largest with 60,000 teachers. The teachers have set a deadline for Tuesday when some one million pupils return to classes.

And in Michigan, about 2,000 teachers in three Detroit area school districts with more than 55,000 pupils remained on strike today following a settlement in one district on Thursday. Some 500 teachers in East Detroit agreed on a new contract Thursday and 15,000 pupils will return to school today after a two-day strike.

In Delaware, Atty. Gen. Richard Wier hinted Thursday he might soon bring criminal charges against 1,000 striking teachers and teachers' aides who have defied a court order to return to work.

The teachers voted to strike Tuesday.

FOREST FIRE

A helicopter moves in to remove firefighters from a danger area as forest fire continues to burn near Porterville, where 17,000 acres in the Sierra Nevada have been burned. Some 1,900 men are on the fire line supported by air tankers and helicopters.

Unemployed rate holds steady

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 8.4 per cent unemployment rate held steady in August accompanied by an increase in the number of Americans with jobs, the government said today. But that encouraging sign in the economy was offset by another sharp increase in wholesale prices.

The Labor Department said many factories recalled workers laid off during the depths of the recession, and that total employment rose for the fifth straight month.

But the department also said wholesale prices rose .8 per cent — a .4 per cent drop from their increase in July but an historically large jump nonetheless. The largest increase was for fuels, related products and power which rose 2.9 per cent.

August figures showed an increase in employment of 275,000, meaning that 85.4 million Americans held jobs. Along with employment, the size of the labor force increased in August to 93.1 million, up by 230,000 following a rise of more than 500,000 in July.

The increase in employment occured mostly among adult men, household heads and blue-collar workers, segments of the labor force hardest hit by the recession.

Since reaching a recession low of 83.8 million last March, employment has risen by 1.5 million, the department said.

The encouraging news in the job picture was somewhat offset by another sharp increase in wholesale prices last month.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said wholesales prices rose .8 per cent, a slower pace than the July increase of 1.2 per cent, but still high by historical standards.

The continuing surge in prices at both the wholesale and retail level over the last two months has renewed fears of resurging inflation. However, administration economists insist that while the next few months will continue to bring high prices, the inflation rate will soon moderate.

The number of Americans without jobs in August numbered 7.8 million, unchanged from July but down 410,000 from the peak level reached in the second quarter.

Both the jobless rate and the actual number of unemployed were unchanged from July, a surprise to administration economists who were expecting a slight increase in unemployment.

Government analysists said the jobless rate would have declined last month had the drop in joblessness of adult men not been offset by an increase in teen-age unemployment.

The jobless rate for adult men dropped from 7 per cent to 6.6 per cent. The rate for adult women was little changed over the month at 7.7 per cent.

But in contrast, the jobless rate for teen-agers, which fell in July to 19.1 per cent, rose to 21.1 per cent in August.

The improved job picture for adult men also was reflected in lower unemployment among household heads, down from 6 per cent to 5.5 per cent; blue-collar workers, down from a high of 12 per cent to 11.5 per cent; and married men down from 5.4 to 5 per cent.

The Labor Department reported that employment increased in nearly three-fourths of the 172 industries measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Among the major industry divisions, the largest increases occurred in manufacturing, where employment rose by 210,000. Major gains also were reported in construction, which suffered severely during the recession, and in the service industries.

Joblessness among white workers continued a decline that began last spring, dropping to 7.6 per cent in August. In contrast, the jobless rate for blacks rose in August from 13 to 14 per cent, with most of the increase among black women.

The average length of unemployment was up slightly in August from 15.4 weeks to 15.7 weeks. But the number of persons unemployed 15 weeks or longer decreased by 160,000 last month to 2.8 million. This marked the first real decline in long-term joblessness since unemployment began to rise in late 1973.

GOING BACK HOME

Dino, a 3-year-old cockapoo, was found wandering in Chatsworth Wednesday, with a note attached (below) introducing him and asking for a good home. Thursday, after a picture and story were in a newspaper, his owner, Mrs. Margaret Martin, claimed him at the animal shelter. She couldn't explain the note and who had let him out to wander.

Attempted coup in Sudan fails

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — An abortive coup against President Jaafar el-Numairi ended today in less than two hours with the execution of its leader, an obscure major, Sudanese officials said.

Numairi described the second attempt in six years to overthrow him as "trivial" and the work of officers "so weak they couldn't even control a village."

Spotlight on crime

Pizza sliced 3 ways: holdup, theft, fire

It was a bad night for operators of the Red Devil Pizza, 1005 W. Mission Blvd., Pomona.

First the place was robbed by three armed men shortly before closing time. The trio escaped with a small amount of cash after one, who was armed with a .38-caliber revolver, threatened employe Paul Wiollt with the weapon.

Later the small building was broken into by burglars. They cooked themselves pizzas and after filling up on that, they dumped dough and meat on the floor and trampled it. Next they placed cardboard pizza cartons in the oven and lit it, causing a minor fire which had to be put out by firemen.

Police later arrested two suspects in connection with the burglary. Their identity was not immediately available.

ONTARIO police have recovered approximately 50,000 pounds of aluminum alloy, valued at $25,000, stolen from Elixir Industries at 1380 S. Bon View Avenue in Ontario during the past month.

Elixir Industries has reported a total of 123,000 pounds of the aluminum alloy valued at $55,000 has disappeared from its stock in the past months. Police said two former employes of the metal firm are suspected of the theft.

Ontario Detective Thomas Schoultz said this morning the stolen alloy was discovered in a San Fernando Valley salvage yard several weeks ago with the aid of the Los Angeles police working on other metal thefts throughout southern California.

Shoultz said for nearly two weeks the owners of the metal could not be located. A complicated process of checking the metal alloy heat numbers with metal processing companies led officers to the Ontario firm. The firm, once notified that some of its aluminum stock might be missing by detectives, made a special inventory and came up with the shortage.

Shoultz said that two former employes of the Ontario firm are being sought for questioning in the incident. Company officials told officers that one of the former employes could have a key to the storage yard where the metal is stored.

Shoultz said the stolen metal is described as being in bars, six inches in diameter, between 23 and 25 inches in length. Each bar weighs approximately 57 to 68 pounds each. Elixir Industries reported a total of 2,000 bars missing.

Burglars Thursday night used the company truck to carry off approximately $20,000 in office machinery and tools from Revere Extruders Inc., 3255 Pomona Blvd., POMONA.

Police Officer Douglas Foland said that as of late this morning, neither the stolen flatbed truck nor the loot had been located.

The burglars entered the fence area surrounding the company, obtained the truck and then broke into an office building. Then they loaded the truck and drove away across a field.

Arsonists set fire to a home and a service station in POMONA, causing damage totaling $18,200.

While Louis A. Mazzarini was away from his home at 1003 W. Ninth St., Pomona, early this morning, it was set afire for the second time in four months.

Flames swept through the entire house, causing approximately $18,000 in damage. The living room was heavily charred. Chief John Fowlkes said the house was ransacked before the fire.

The house was burned in a similar fire May 8.

Fires started in a toilet seat cover container and a trash can caused about $200 damage Thursday morning at the Gulf Oil Co., 1693 Garey Ave.

The fires were put out with a garden hose before foremen arrived. William Silva, service station employe, said he had given a restroom key to a boy, approximately 14, just before the fires were discovered.

A 14-year-old Ontario youth suspected of burglarizing a home at 1566 Fuschia St. in ONTARIO Wednesday night, taking a gold pocket watch, a diamond ring, and other items valued at more than $2,300 is in custody of juvenile authorities this morning.

Donald V. Cartmell, 44, of the Fuschia Street home, reported the burglary Wednesday night after he returned home from work. Cartmell said he found not only the items missing but the side of his house covered with broken eggs.

Police said the burglar had entered the home through an open window and ransacked the rooms, taking only the most valuable items. On leaving, he removed a carton of eggs from the refrigerator and threw them at the house, police said.

Detectives during a neighborhood canvas, learned of a youth who had allegedly sold a number of old coins and other items to an Upland coin store. A description of the youth given by neighbors and the Upland store clerk led to the arrest of the juvenile.

Karate chop is talent, says judge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "What I do is artistic, just like singing," says a 16-year-old karate expert who won her legal battle for the right to break bricks in a talent contest.

"I'm going to go out there and give it my all," Linda Salcedo said in an interview Thursday of her plan to compete in the California Teen Pageant finals at Sunol Valley Country Club on Sept. 13.

Miss Salcedo's father Efren had filed a $500,000 suit after pageant sponsor Rose Misuraca of Fremont disqualified Linda because she refused to eliminate the climax of her karate dance in which she snaps two brick slabs with a single righthand chop. Mrs. Misuraca said some judges and parents complained the brick smashing did not constitute talent.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge George W. Phillips Jr. ruled Wednesday in Miss Salcedo's favor, saying it was important for a teen-ager with such skills to take the stage as a performer.

Judge Phillips ruled after viewing color films of the performance that in the dance "the hand is used as an instrument," and said the dance was "an extension of the karate form." He criticizd the pageant, which offers a $300 first prize, as "carelessly organized" and said its rules were "ambiguous and uncertain."

Mrs. Misuraca, who said she would appeal the decision, complained that Linda violated contest rules by using a snare drummer to accompany the smashing and by having her father bring the bricks on stage. The judge said these arguments did not merit disqualification.

"But she really had something against the bricks," said Miss Salcedo, who has been studying karate for eight years and holds a brown-black belt.

Her attorney, Robert Treuhaft, said he believed Miss Salcedo was disqualified because "her talent was something different and these pageants tend to glorify ladylike activities."

Pomona man escapes from fiery collision

A Pomona man suffered only minor injuries in a fiery early-morning crash Thursday in La Verne which demolished his van and heavily damaged a tractor-trailer rig, police reported.

The accident occurred shortly before 4 a.m. at Foothill Boulevard and Fruit Street. Police said the Pomonan, Stephen Pennina, 23, 2937 Huston St., ran into the parked truck after apparently losing consciousness. Pennina suffered foot and chest injuries and was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Police said Pennina was eastbound in Foothill when he hit the truck. His van overturned and caught fire as the result of the impact.

The truck had been parked by its driver, Ronald E. Stark of Baldwin Park, who was eating in a restaurant nearby.

Loans — Would raise the limit on a Cal-Vet home loan from $25,000 to $35,000; SB 1171; Petris, D-Oakland; 21-14; to governor.

Cable — Would make any unauthorized connection with a wire, cable or other component of a franchised cable television system or television set for the purpose of making any unauthorized interception of programs a misdemeanor punishable by a $200 fine or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days in county jail; AB 1191; Chimbole, D-Palmdale; 260; to Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Arrests — Would prohibit an employer from asking an applicant for employment to disclose information concerning an arrest which did not result in a conviction; AB 255; Dixon, D-Los Angeles; 22-10; to Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Voting — Would require election officers to include in the items furnished to polling places a sufficient number of pencils so voters can write in names of candidates if any candidates have qualified to have their names counted in vote tabulation; AB 1705; Maddy, R-Fresno; 36-0; to Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Bingo — Would allow local governments to allow churches and charities to use bingo games to raise funds; would go into effect only if a companion constitutional amendment is adopted by voters; AB 144; Greene, D-Sacramento; 24-8; to governor.

Dentures — Would appropriate $2 million to be used to provide dentures for Medi-Cal recipients who need them; AB 1255; Keene, D-Eureka; 38-0; to Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Utilities — Would specifically make a public utility guilty of a felony if any officer or agent testifying on behalf of that utility knowingly commits perjury; AB 952; Papan, D-Daly City; 22-15; to Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

THE ASSEMBLY

Bargaining — Would allow about 800,000 school employes to pick exclusive unions and bargain about wages, working hours, and conditions including class size; SB 160; Rodda, D-Sacramento; 62-13; to Senate for amendment concurrence.

Contraceptives — Would allow minors to buy contraceptives without parental consent; SB 395; Beilenson, D-Los Angeles; 41-36; to governor.

Emergency—Would increase telephone taxes by about $26 million, starting in 1977, to set up a statewide "911" emergency dialing system by 1985; AB 416; Warren, D-Los Angeles; 41-21; to Senate.

ARCO—Would seek to save Southern California Gas Co. customers $300 million by having the state Public Utilities Commission acquire negotiating rights to Alaskan natural gas from Atlantic Richfield Co., avoiding state and federal taxes before the gas is sold to Southern California Gas; SB 1296; Alquist, D-San Jose; 54-22; to Senate for amendment concurrence.

Jury—Would specify that jury duty does not disqualify a person from collecting unemployment insurance; AB 1895; Siegler, D-Vallejo; 58-5 to concur in Senate amendments; to governor.

Plan now to provide the family burial estate through convenient monthly payments as so many other Pomona families are doing. Moderate prices . . . no carrying charges.

How Speaker sees it

Assembly shields Brown by fending off spending bills

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly shielded Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. from some difficult decisions by blocking big spending bills, Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy says.

But McCarthy said the Democrat-controlled Assembly Ways and Means Committee decided not to approve many money bills last June because legislators agreed with Brown that tax increases should be avoided.

The subject came up Wednesday at McCarthy's weekly press conference when he was asked if he really said what appeared in an Aug. 24 New York Times magazine article on California's new Democratic governor.

The article quoted McCarthy as saying: "We're protecting him now. I'm killing bills like tax exemptions and deductions for veterans and senior citizens — bills that could embarrass him."

McCarthy, D-San Francisco, told reporters:

"I don't remember saying that, but let me add hastily that a sense of what I might have said could have led to that construction of the sentence.

"What I have said and keep saying often is that in the exercise of our own legislative responsibilities we ought not to keep passing out a lot of money bills for which there is clearly no revenue."

McCarthy added, "Now, quite incidentally, but significantly to the governor, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee taking that action benefits the governor because he doesn't have all those money bills on his desk. He'd have to make a choice of signing or vetoing them, and I suppose irritating many constituents.

"So I don't recall making that precise statement, but I could have talked in the sense he was talking about and the writer could have come to that conclusion."

On another subject, McCarthy said he will name some new committee chairmen next week. The appointments will reflect his desire to end punitive action against those who tried to oust him from the speakership last December, McCarthy said.

The Republican minority should have a bigger role in Assembly decision-making, he said, indicating he will appoint a GOP assemblyman to head a committee.

He said of the "eight or nine Democrats" who still oppose him, one possibly will be replaced as a committee chairman. He declined to identify the legislator destined to lose power for opposing McCarthy's leadership.

He said, however, he was not referring to Charles Warren, the Los Angeles Democrat who heads the Energy and Diminishing Materials Committee. Warren decided not to seek the speakership last month after determining he lacked the necessary 41 votes.

Helicopter a bird of all trades

WASHINGTON (AP) — The helicopter has become a valuable aircraft because of the energy crisis.

The National Geographic Society says a survey shows that the whirlybird is in demand by oil and coal companies.

It also ranges far beyond coal and petroleum fields to perform mercy missions, herd livestock, dust crops, control traffic, fight crime, fight forest fires, reseed forests, stock fish in remote lakes and streams and aid in pollution-control projects.

Helicopters fly regular pollution patrols over places like San Francisco Bay.

But helicopters are also taking the place of the cat-the rustler and his horse or truck. Not long ago, a whirlybird swooped out of the sky and spirited away a number of large hogs.

The first helicopter destined for useful work was not seen publicly until an early Sikorsky model rose from Bridgeport, Conn., in 1942 for delivery to the U.S. Army Air Corps. It mystified onlookers on its 600-mile maiden voyage. One startled air-raid spotter reported, "A windmill just flew by."

Her kingdom for a smile

Dentist got her teeth out, but didn't have dentures

MIAMI (AP) — Gussie Brogdon's smile isn't what it used to be. A two-month-long bureaucratic tangle has left her toothless, hungry and confused.

"I've been eating boiled peas and pinto beans for the last two months," said Mrs. Brogdon, 58, a migrant farm labor camp resident who makes about $10 a week ironing clothes. "I'm getting tired of stewed chicken."

She said her few remaining teeth were pulled after officials of a senior citizens' health program promised her free, shiny new dentures paid by federal funds.

She said she doesn't remember who pulled her teeth, but the dentist told her, "Well, I got 'em all out."

"Then he said, 'I don't have the materials for the (new) teeth.'"

She said that when she inquired about the new dentures at the senior citizen's center, she was told federal funds for the program had run out.

"She did not come in here to have her teeth extracted," said George Rice, director of the center. "When she came here, her teeth had already been renoved, There is no indication on record as to who pulled her teeth."

Rice said she might be able to get the teeth through a joint program of Jackson Memorial Hospital and a vocational school.

"But it takes about three years," he said.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Brogdon grimaces a lot.

"I could have gotten along fine on those snags I had," she said. "At least I could have laughed and wouldn't have been ashamed. I used to laugh a lot. It sure would be good to laugh again."

Navy is pushing construction of huge Trident sub base

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP) — The Navy plans to award a total of $133 million worth of contracts by year's end in construction of the massive Trident submarine base, a base spokesman said.

Rudy Ethridge of the Trident construction office said that there should be 1,000 persons employed by the end of 1975.

Originally the Navy had projected $90 million worth of building activity on the 7,000-acre Bangor site by the end of the year, but it will probably total more than $130 million, Ethridge said.

Ethridge also said two explosives-handling piers will be constructed — each standing 140 feet high, or equivalent to a 14-story building, 360 feet from shore.

Oppose teacher strikes but...Riles

SACRAMENTO (AP — State schools chief Wilson Riles says he opposes teachers' strikes but expects them to continue until teachers have collective bargaining and the school finance picture clears up.

"It's inevitable you're going to have them until we let procedures to deal with these problems and improve the financial situation," Riles told a news conference Wednesday.

"Until then, we're acting irresponsibly."

He said schools, which spend about 80 per cent of their budgets on salaries, don't have many places left to cut.

"If there was ever any fat in school district budgets, it's long gone," he said.

Riles said teachers' strikes are illegal, and cause children to be "caught in the middle." But he refused to characterize striking teachers as either irresponsible or greedy.

"Inflation is going up—do you expect teachers to eat that?" Riles asked. He said the median salary of California teachers is $14,000, and "no one is going to get rich" on that.

Riles called for the legislature to pass a collective bargaining bill for school employes, SB 160 by Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento.

LUNCHBOX BONUS — Eddie Chopp, 7, takes chunk out of apple originally destined for his teacher at Chicago's Brennan School. But Eddie's teacher, and 23,000 others, struck the Chicago public school system Wednesday on what was to have been the first day of school. Some 529,000 students were given a prolonged summer vacation as a result.

Brainwashing case

Church, parents in legal tangle over daughter, 18

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Connecticut couple is locked in a legal controversy with the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church over whether the church has brainwashed their 18-year-old daughter.

"Our daughter is not our daughter anymore," Mrs. Elton Helander of Guilford, Conn., told a D.C. Superior Court judge recently.

The Helanders, who have not seen their daughter since she walked out of their house on Feb. 25 and rejoined the church, have sued the church, claiming the church is holding their daughter against her will.

The Helanders' case is based on an affidavit signed by their daughter last January. In the affidavit, Miss Helander gave law enforcement officials the authority to remove her if she joined the church again.

When she signed the affidavit she was undergoing "deprogramming," an intensive psychological effort, often by professionals hired by parents, to rid a person of the church's influence.

In a tape played in court, Miss Helander said she signed the affidavit under duress to get the deprogrammers to release her. "I knew I had to fake it. I had to make believe Ted Patrick (a deprogrammer) was successful.

Miss Helander has not appeared in court, despite an Aug. 6 court order directing the church to produce her. The Unification Church claims it has no control over her and therefore cannot make her appear. In the tape, Miss Helander said she was staying away from court because she feared she would be kidnaped and deprogrammed again.

Her lawyer, Philip Hirschkop, told D.C. Superior Court Judge James Belson, "She's done nothing wrong. She's harmed no one. She's committee no crime. To force her to appear in court would be a travesty of First Amendment rights to freedom of religion."

Belson must decide whether the church and two of its American officers are in contempt of court for failing to produce Miss Helander.

The court has heard testimony from former members of the Unification Church claiming they had been subjected to mind-control techniques and from present members describing bizarre escapes from deprogrammers.

"There I was, tied to a lounge chair with bed sheets, with Ted Patrick holding down one arm, my father holding down the other, my mother standing over my head, and another man standing at my feet shouting quotes from the Bible at me," said Christen Ausenhuf, 18, of Lincoln, Neb. Miss Ausenhuf said she was put in a mental hospital after trying to escape from deprogrammers and was not released until she contacted an American Civil Liberties lawyer three weeks later.

All church members and officials who testified denied charges that recruits are brainwashed into joining the church. However, persons who had left the church said they were denied sleep and fed low-protein diets, making them more susceptible to mind control.

"It was nothing bizarre. You were isolated, but not physically — no TV, no papers, no books ... The only input was positive church input," said John Colaluca, now a student at Tulane University.

His wife Robbie, also a former Unification Church member, said, "They prepared you. They said Satan would work through your parents and friends, so when your parents came to get you out, you thought, 'Gee, it was true. They were right.'"

Going blind, girl, 12, on dream trip

LONDON (AP) — Little Cindy Waite, 12 years old and going blind, set off today on her dream holiday to see Niagara Falls and Disneyland while she still can

Cindy's family, who live in Bournemouth, on the south coast of England, saved up $3,300 for "the best holiday possible." The child left London airport for New York with her mother, Ann, 42, and her sister, Dawn, 18.

"I had measles when she was born," Mrs. Waite said. "It is a congenital disease which has caused cataracts to grow at the back of her eyes. Doctors have told her she does not have much time left before she becomes totally blind."

Said Cindy: "We are going to New Orleans, New York, Las Vegas and Los Angeles. We have been saving up since February. It's a real coast to coast tour. I'm really thrilled."

Bee snatchers getting hives in rash of thefts

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — Angry California beekeepers are being stung in record numbers by professional bee-snatchers who steal the honeymakers' hives by the truckload.

What has the beekeepers really buzzing are that some of the thieves take hundreds of beehives at a time — often requiring fork lifts to load trucks for the getaway.

Milton Smotherman, a beekeeper 22 miles south of here in Monterey County who himself has twice been victimized, said in an interview that most beesnatchers appear to be professionals. He said they generally have the equipment and knowledge to steal large numbers of hives without endangering themselves.

"One keeper in Tracy had a couple hundred bees stolen in one haul," he said. "They were professionals. They would have had to use fork lifts when they stole them, pallets and all."

Bee thefts in California have soared over the last five years from 39 hives stolen in 1970, to 1,089 in 1974, to the present 1,626 only two-thirds through the year, according to the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

Smotherman attributed the increase in thefts of the stingerstudded honeymakers to a shortage of bees caused by deadly pesticides and cold weather.

"Commercially, bees have become an endangered species," he said. "Pesticides kill a lot of them and the cold weather in other states kills plenty of others. And they're so expensive to replace now that professional beekeepers are coming into this state and taking them out in trucks."

A recent report from the California Council of Growers attributes many of the thefts to out-of-state beekeepers whose bees have died during cold seasons.

Smotherman said not all beesnatchers know what they're doing.

"One inexperienced guy stole 130 hives from me, but got stung quite a bit," he said. "The bees started swarming and he tried to drown them with a hose. He wound up killing all the bees and getting stung all over the place."

The welt-covered thief was convicted of felony theft, fined $1,000, ordered to repay $6,500 in damages and expenses and placed on five years probation.

Smotherman, who owns 1,200 hives, says each is worth between $70 and $80 — bees included — and each produces between 60 and 80 pounds of honey annually.

"A lot of beekeepers, once they lose their bees to pesticides or the cold, can't afford to buy new ones and start over," Smotherman said. "They figure they have to steal bees or go under financially."

Rich-poor nation collision averted

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The collision between the rich and poor nations that was expected at the current special session of the United Nations General Assembly appears to have been averted, and much of the talk is about cooperation to close the gap between the two groups.

Of two dozen countries who spoke in the first three days of the session, only China talked like it was spoiling for conflict. Foreign Trade Minister Li Chiang told the assembly: "Factors for both revolution and war are increasing ... To be independent and self-reliant, the developing countries must first of all smash their fetters."

However, most of the other Third World delegates expressed the hope that confrontation could be avoided and satisfaction that the wealthy countries seem to be recognizing a need for improvement in the trade and investment systems.

"Let us not confront each other, but let us together confront the problems facing us," said Foreign Minister Y.B. Chavan of India.

It was a big change from the special assembly session in April, 1974, when the Third World, despite opposition from the United States and other Western countries, rammed through a declaration calling for a new international economic order.

Diplomats said the shift came because Western countries are giving more attention to the complaints of the Third World.

Valley retail clerks ring up a sale on market pact

Members of the San Gabriel-Pomona valleys Retail Clerks Union Local 1428 have voted overwhelmingly to accept the new agreement covering their work in major supermarkets.

Local president Maurice Cofer reported that at morning and evening meetings Wednesday at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona the local's 4,500 food-division members voted by more than 85 per cent in favor of the three-year pact hammered out in negotiations in Washington, D.C., over the weekend.

Their new contract calls for wage increases of 50 cents an hour for journeymen clerks, retroactive to July 28, with additional increases of 40 cents an hour on July 28, 1976 and 40 cents an hour on July 28, 1978.

Also, the agreement provides a cost-of-living adjustment of up to 10 cents per hour in February of each of the next three years, making a total maximum of $1.60 per hour increase possible over the life of the contract.

Included in the contract is an improved pension program to provide up to $600 a month for members with 30 years' of service, along with improvements in health and welfare benefits and provisions for the maintenance of benefits for active members and retirees during the life of the agreement.

Ratification by members of all nine locals involved in the negotiations is anticipated this week. Union leaders anticipate the favorable vote will run close to the 80 per cent cast by members of Local 1428.

The clerks' old contract expired July 28 and was extended during negotiations avoiding a sanctioned walkout.

Sr. info center to open

Claremont city officials and others will be on hand Saturday at noon for the formal opening of the Senior Citizens Information and Referral Center at 211 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

Mayor Bertye Smith will address those gathered and will stress the importance of the center to the city's 4,000 senior citizens.

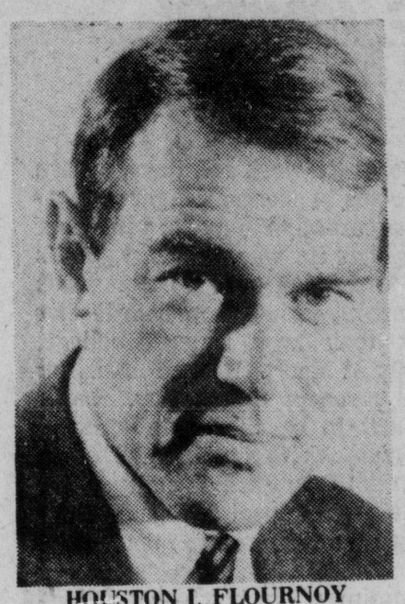
The building will be open for public inspection and refreshments from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The center, operating Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Saturday if necessary, will provide outreach services, and information regarding local transportation, health and welfare counseling, nutrition, education, legal aid, Social Security, and referrals to agencies and individuals who can answer older citizen needs. All services will be provided free.

Mrs. Mahalia Perry of the city's Department of Human Resources will coordinate the program. Mrs. Josephine Smith, co-chairman of the city Human Resources Commission, is heading a committee seeking volunteers to man the office.

The building, formerly used as a photography studio, has been leased by the city. The program is funded by the county Area Agency on Aging through the Older Americans Act.

City Human Resources Coordinator Pete West said that Claremont is the only city in this area to receive such a grant this year.



HOUSTON I. FLOURNOY

Flournoy named to USC post

Houston I. Flournoy, former state controller and unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor last year, has been named dean of the Center for Public Affairs at USC.

Flournoy has been teaching at USC since last spring. The center includes the schools of Public Administration and Urban and Regional Planning, and the new Public Policy Research Center.

A specialist in constitutional law and political science, Flournoy was associate professor of government at Pomona College and the Claremont Graduate School from 1957 to 1966. He served three terms in the State

McLaughlin resigns planning position

Citing the pressure of personal business, William J. McLaughlin has resigned from the Claremont Planning Commission.

McLaughlin in a letter to Mayor Bertye F. Smith said that business and personal considerations now make it impossible for him to continue on the commission.

"My current travel schedule will require an absence from the city on the order of four months a year which prevents any continuity of review on my part," McLaughlin said.

In July he had been reappointed to another four-year stint on the commission.

McLaughlin unsuccessfully sought the City Council vacancy created when attorney Craig McManigal resigned Dec. 31, 1973.

McLaughlin was appointed to the Planning Commission in 1970, and had served as vice-chairman.

He is president of Advanced Materials Technology, Inc., a Costa Mesa-based materials consulting firm which designs high-rise building exteriors and military products.

McLaughlin said that he couldn't resign without paying tribute to the high quality of devotion, effort, and ability demonstrated repetitively by fellow planning commissioners and the city staff.

Ontario man injured as car runs into fence

A 34-year-old Ontario man was injured Thursday when his car ran off Schaefer Avenue in the Chino area and smashed into a barbed wire fence.

Juan Sarate of 12739 Euclid Ave. was admitted to Chino General Hospital with head cuts and a possible broken right arm after the 4:30 p.m. accident. He was reported in good condition.

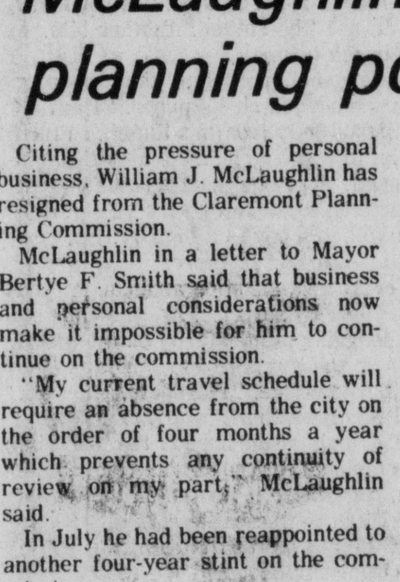
Highway patrolmen said Sarate tried to pass another car on Schaefer, east of San Antonio Avenue, and his car ran off the road. The auto knocked down 40 feet of fence and two wooden posts.

Meanwhile two Chino men were in satisfactory condition today at Chino General Hospital with injuries suffered Wednesday in separate accidents in the Chino area.

Highway patrol officers said that Anthony R. Bruce, 16 of 1855 E. Riverside Drive, Chino, was injured when his car hit the rear of a dump truck on Riverside Drive west of Campus Avenue.

Both Bruce and the truck, driven by George Buchholtz, 20, of Ontario, were westbound on Riverside Drive, with the truck stopped in the street to make a lefthand turn. Bruce sustained head injuries. The accident occured at about 4 p.m.

At about 9 p.m., Paul John Fortelny, 27, of 15660 Ponderosa Lane, Chino, was injured in a one-car accident on Carbon Canyon Road one-half mile west of Peyton Drive.



HOLLY GILMORE

ETI corral sponsoring poker ride

Holly Gilmore, queen of Equestrian Trails, Inc., Corral 35 in Glendora, will participate in a poker ride to be sponsored by the corral Sunday.

It will begin at 10:30 a.m. at the Glendora Equestrian Park, 12000 Glendora Mountain Road and continue through the Wildwood Ranch in the Glendora foothills.

Participants will pick up poker cards at intervals along the trail. The best poker hands, according to Hoyle rules, wins.

First prize will be a set of binoculars, second prize, a $50 gift certificate, third prize a horseshoeing, and fourth prize, a month's free riding lessons.

Cost will be $3 to members and $5 to non-members. The public is invited.

Drinks will be available at the end of the ride. Riders may bring sack lunches. The ride will last approximately 3 hours.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Penny Bullock at 213 963-8032.

Prison chapel bill advances

A bill proposing construction of a $195,000 chapel and religious counseling center at the California Institution for Women in Chino cleared the state Senate Thursday.

Introduced by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., the legislation squeezed out of the upper house on a 28-5 vote despite complaints that other facilities at CIW could be used for worship.

A minimum of 27 yes votes was needed to approve the bill. The Senate vote sent the measure back to the Assembly for action on Senate amendments.

McVittie, whose district includes Chino, has pointed out that CIW is the only prison in the state without an established chapel for inmates.

Colleges name new director

Janet S. Hansen has been appointed director of the Claremont Colleges' Center for Continuing Education.

The center provides educational planning and counseling, administers a women administrators program, conducts a series of liberal studies seminars called colloquia, and offers, in conjunction with Claremont Graduate School, a master of arts program in liberal studies.

Hospital now one-third toward goal

Things are real cool at Pacific State Hospital.

That's the word today as a 448-ton compressor was turned on to provide chilled air to four additional wards at the hospital for mentally retarded in Pomona.

With the completion of the air conditioning of the four patient wards — numbers five, 14, 15 and 22 — the sprawling hospital is now one-third air conditioned in the program which started three years ago, according to Harry Lewis, hospital administrator.

Lewis added that, at present, $6 million worth of construction is underway at the hospital. Included in the work is the completion of air conditioning of additional wards, a standby power station, power distribution and fire and safety equipment.

At present, patients have been transferred from units 23, 24, 26 and 27 while the air conditioning is installed and the necessary remodeling is completed in these units.

Dr. William Clover, medical director at the hospital, said that these patients have been moved into air conditioned units, sharing these facilities with the residents already assigned to these wards.

Since it takes about four months to remodel a ward and because only four wards can be vacated at a time, the entire hospital will not be completely air conditioned until early in 1977, he added.

Fifteen wards are done, four are being worked on, and several more are included in this phase of the state-financed project.

Even before the current project was started, 20 per cent of the hospital, including the acute ward, was air conditioned.

Pacific State Hospital has 1,800 residents at the facility which is comprised of many buildings of various sizes scattered on the campus.

Man shot; cousin is arrested

A Pomona man was shot and his cousin arrested in connection with his wounding Thursday night, police said.

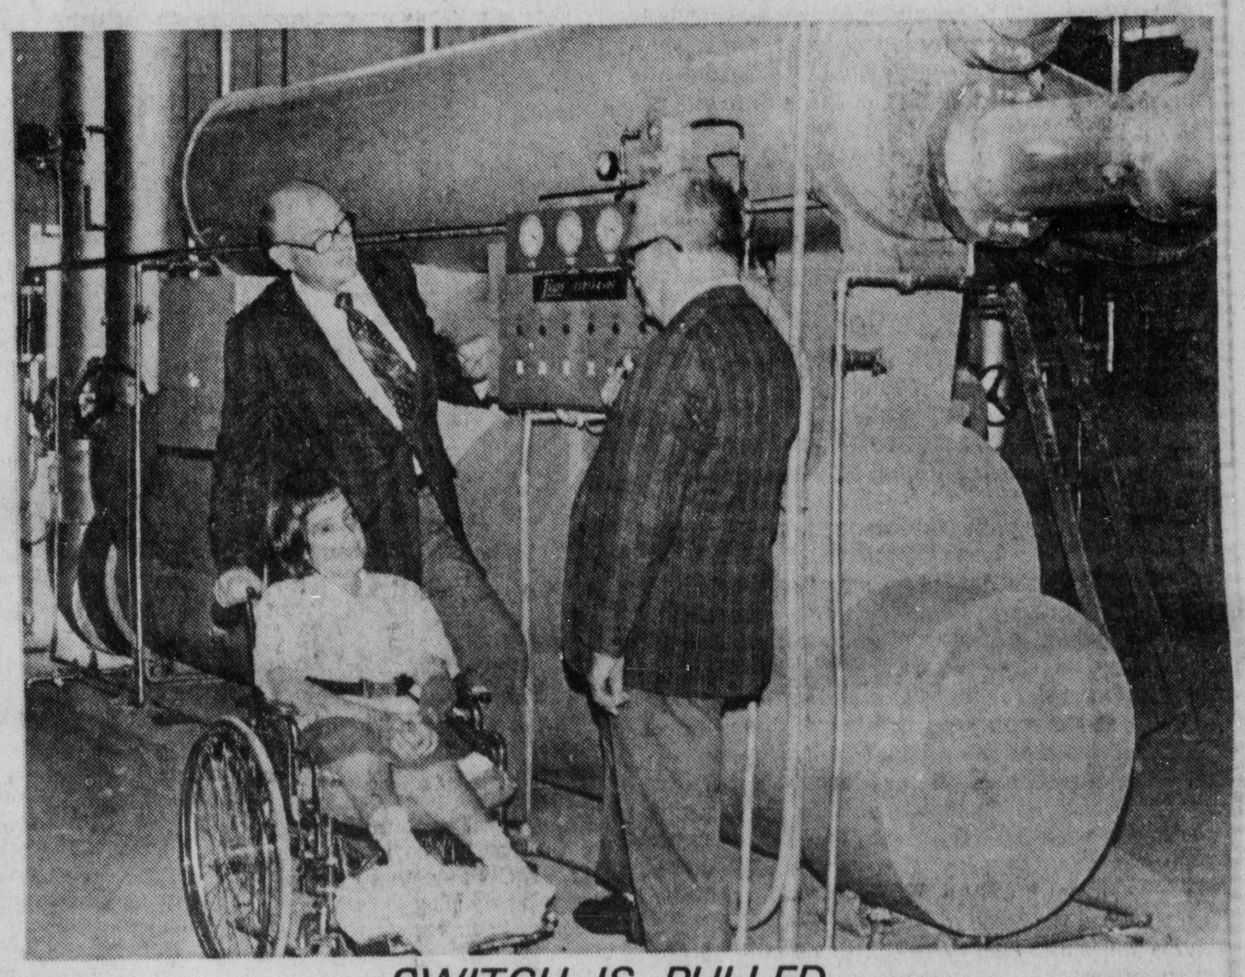
The victim, Ernest Coster Harris, 46, was wounded in the buttocks and was released later after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The incident occurred in the driveway of Harris' home at 971 Terryview Ave.

Police, en route to the scene after receiving a report of the shooting, stopped the suspect, Sam Harris, 49, of 1769 S. Hamilton Blvd., in his car at San Antonio Avenue north of Second Street.

Harris was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and a woman questioned with him was released without charge.

Police were told that the shooting occurred during an argument, but the victim said later he had been shot accidentally. The suspect has refused to make a statement, they added.

Cool air flowing into four more Pacific State wards



SWITCH IS PULLED

West Valley Transit seeking funds for bus bills, expansion

The West Valley Transit Service Authority gave final approval to an application to be submitted to the Southern California Association of Governments for funds to pay the bills for West End public transit.

The vote was unanimous with Mayor Harold Hayes of Montclair, Mayor Abner Haldeman of Upland, Councilwoman Eileen Carter of Chino, Mayor Bertye Smith of Claremont and City Manager Roger Hughbanks of Ontario present.

The group approved a claim of $321,697 for Article IV funds under Senate Bill 325. This total covers the six-month start-up period of the Omnitrans bus lines from January to June 1975 and 1975-76 fiscal year. The funds will take care of the operational expenses for these 18 months and include the costs of a new demand-responsive service for portions of Ontario and Upland.

Article IV SB 325 funds are gas tax monies earmarked for public transportation. Albert Kay of the San Bernardino County Transportation Department prepared the claim for the WVTSA and pointed out the dollar breakdown for the four West End cities in the claim.

The approximate totals for the respective cities are Chino, $51,672; Montclair, $57,242; Ontario, $51,671; and Upland, $59,605. The county's share for the service to the unincorporated areas in the West End is $101,507.

The claim also includes $33,000 for promotion and advertising. Before expenditures are made for this, the technical staff must return to the WVTSA for approval.

Hospital gives party for Russell Pitzer, 97

The Pomona Valley Community Hospital staged an informal party Wednesday to honor its first board president, Russell K. Pitzer, on the occasion of this 97th birthday.

Hospital employes baked a birthday cake, and a small group of close friends visited the Pomona Valley philanthropist at the hospital, where he now makes his home.

Pitzer was born in Iowa Sept. 3, 1878, and came to Pomona in 1893. He was instrumental in establishing PVCH as a community hospital in 1927, and served on its board of directors for 49 years. He gave the hospital Pitzer Home, the convalescent care unit.

Algae world's new breadbasket

One of nature's most basic processes — photosynthesis — and one of its most primitive life forms — algae — may hold the key to solving advanced civilization's most pressing problem — how to provide the future food and energy needs of the world's burgeoning population.

The potential of algae as a food supply or dietary supplement has long been recognized, but recent advances in the laboratory culture of the organism have made it possible to grow algae many times faster than nature does under ordinary conditions. Scientists at the University of California's Los Alamos, N.M. scientific laboratory have manipulated various genetically altered strains of algae to produce a nutritional balance of essential proteins, carbohydrates, vitamins and trace minerals.

According to biologist Victor Kollman of the laboratory, the capability on feeding thousands of times more people than the world's present population of over four billion by using just one per cent of the world's land is available today.

He foresees the time when a typical farmer could produce three million pounds of high-protein food a year from one acre of land — or more accurately, from a one-acre pond about one and a half feet deep. By contrast, the same acre of land would produce only about 5,000 pounds of a conventional crop such as corn.

The system would be nearly self-perpetuating and could be installed virtually anywhere in the world, with no restrictions on geographical location and no concern about the availability of large amounts of water.

If the algae ponds were located near power plants, two additional benefits could be derived: The warm waste water from plant operations could be used directly in the ponds, and carbon dioxide could be extracted from smoke stack gases and fed to the algae.

As animal feed, algae could perform another important function. Although a steer would return only about one-tenth of a pound of beef for each pound of algae, the cheapness and availability of this "feed" would make cattle raising more economical than the traditional feedlot method using grain.

In addition to its potential as a food source, algae could also supply large amounts of energy to replace the world's dwindling supplies of oil and natural gas. Across the country in Cleveland, Dr. Lester Kramptiz, director of the department of microbiology at Case Western Reserve Medical School, has been growing algae and diverting the photosynthetic process to produce hydrogen.

He estimates that the amount of hydrogen that could be generated in an area no larger than 175 by 175 miles would be enough to satisfy the world's needs in the year 2000. Hydrogen is easier to transport than natural gas, says Krampitz, and could be accomplished with only a few changes in existing pipelines. And we could afford to be wasteful then, because the solar energy needs to be only 10 per cent efficient.

"The beauty of using hydrogen is that you start with water and sunlight, you burn it and get back water. If you ever get the system working, you will have an endless source of energy."

All of this is very long term, of course. Much more basic work needs to be done in unlocking the secrets of photosynthesis. However, it is no pie-in-the-sky concept, says Krampitz. "Its development should not be very far down the road."

The Los Alamos researchers are even more optimistic. A practical technology for producing large amounts of hydrogen or fuel from algae could be developed within five years, they say.

Reducing handicap

Braillegrams for the blind and Large-Print Messages for the partially sighted, innovations announced the other day by Western Union, were much reported in the news.

These are just two, however, of a number of recent developments aimed at making life a little easier and more convenient for the 6.5 million Americans who suffer from some form of severe visual impairment, says the American Foundation for the Blind. Some others:

— Several New York restaurants now provide braille menus.

— Dallas airport has braille signs on doors and elevators.

— A blind person can play cards, Scrabble and Monopoly with braille versions of these games.

— The New York subway system has braille maps and the Chemical Bank of New York has introduced braille checking statewide.

Unfortunately, says the Foundation, only about 25 per cent of legally blind people are familiar with braille, and only some 12 to 15 per cent can read it with ease.

"Optacon" (short for Optical Tactile Converter), a device with a small camera attachment which converts printed type into raised letters that can be read with fingers, has been called a major breakthrough. But the device is still very expensive — almost $3,000 — and slow to use.

Anti-litter programs

Dear Editor: A resolution to support a national ban on non-returnable beverage containers was rejected by the National Governors Conference during meetings recently held in New Orleans.

The resolution introduced by Oregon's Governor Robert W Straub, was soundly defeated by a vote of 26-9. The conference, in refusing to pass the resolution banning non-returnables, reconfirmed the actions of legislators across the country, who are opting for more comprehensive anti-litter and resource recovery programs.

Foothill Beverage Company commends the governors for their insight into this controversial matter and for their refusal to be swept away by the emotionalism surrounding container legislation.

While Foothill Beverage actively supports anti-litter programs, aluminum can recycling, and the concept of resource recovery, we adamantly oppose forced deposit container legislation. — Terry W. Conner, Manager Environmental Division, Foothill Beverage Co.

Bayh vs. oil Goliaths

WASHINGTON — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., in one of the most audacious acts since David challenged Goliath, will attempt to break up the economic power of the big oil companies.

He is preparing for a bruising battle. A private memo, intended for his eyes only, warns that "the oil industry is beginning to mobilize" and that he "can expect fierce opposition."

But Bayh believes the only way to bring competition back to the domestic oil industry is to strip the big companies of their control over all stages of production from the oil well to the gas pump.

He has drafted legislation which would prohibit the majors from engaging in more than one of the four segments of the industry — production, transportation, refining and marketing.

Here's how Bayh's bill would work, according to a confidential analysis:

"In the case of the big eight — Exxon, Shell, Texaco, Amoco, Socal, Mobil, Gulf and ARCO — which have major interests in all four segments of the industry, each company would have to decide which area it wanted to remain in and divest itself of all interest in the other three areas.

The analysis, prepared by staff aide Howard Paster, contends that the oil industry is "essentially noncompetitive." The major companies control oil fields, transmission lines, tankers, refineries and service stations.

In other words, as Paster puts it in his memo, they "control the oil from the time it comes out of the ground until it is pumped into the gasoline tank." Reduced to statistics, "the 20 largest oil companies control more than 75 per cent of production, refining and marketing and more than 90 per cent of pipeline capacity."

This gives the oil giants the power to manipulate prices. The Senate memo cites "the infamous July 4th gasoline price increases" as an example.

Although the increases were strictly legal, "the oil companies were able to prevent competition from holding the increases in check by limiting refinery operations during May and June and thus creating a supply-demand imbalance for gasoline immediately prior to the peak driving season," the memo charges.

"If the same companies did not control the flow of crude," the memo contends, "the refinery operations and the retailing of gasoline by such . . . a highly anti-competitive maneuver would not have been possible."

The memo also cites "the refusal of the major oil companies to sell lower-priced domestic crude to independent refineries until forced to do so", by the Federal Energy Administration.

"By trying to limit the independent refineries to higher-priced domestic and foreign crude," asserts the memo, "the majors sought to use their market control to destroy competition."

The ultimate victim of the oil companies' collusion, of course, are the customers who have been pouring more and more of their earnings into the pockets of the oil men.

Bayh believes he has a good chance of pushing his bill through the Senate. The oil barons are also beginning to get a little worried. "The industry originally did not get excited; however, that is changing," the memo advised.

But it warned: "We can expect fierce opposition, not only in the hearings but also in the media . . . and through the shareholders.

"Once uncertainty," adds the memo, "is the extent of the inevitable Administration support for the industry." Bayh responded to this statement by scribbling in the margin: "We can't win this one on the Hill alone."

But as the consumers dig deeper into their pockets to pay gasoline prices and heating costs, they may raise a howl that will be heard on Capitol hill. Then the Bayh bill may have a real chance.

COCAINE CRACKDOWN: A major crackdown on international narcotics is expected in Bolivia, the source of much of the illegal cocaine that reaches the United States.

With the vigorous encouragement of American authorities, Bolivian dictator Hugo Banzer is getting serious about stopping the dope trade.

In July, Bolivian drug enforcement officers met in Cochabamba with their counterparts from Peru, Chile, Argentina, Paraguay, and Brazil to map out a multinational anti-drug campaign.

Last year, Banzer fired the police chief of Santa Cruz, who was believed to be involved in narcotics trafficking. And this past June, he purged a host of other officers from that city's police force.

The good side of TV

CHICAGO (AP) — A Los Angeles researcher has concluded in a study that television has the potential for influencing adults in positive as well as negative ways.

Dr. David Loye, a social psychologist, said his study "seems to refute the notion . . . that television entertainment has no appreciable effects on adults except to amuse and divert."

Loye, a researcher at the University of California medical school at Los Angeles, presented his findings at the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association, which ended Wednesday.

A great many claims have been made about the effects of television, but little "hardnosed research" has been done to support these claims, he said. Loye, formerly a television writer, film producer, newsman and TV Guide editor, added that modern technology "has presented us the opportunity either to dramatically advance or to degrade and possibly annihilate ourselves."

He said, "In mass entertainment we have on hand what appears to be a powerful tool for driving us one way or the other."

Loye and his colleagues chose 260 married couples in the Los Angeles area to watch several types of television programs to determine, through tests, effects on the psychological and social functioning of adults.

The categories included groups considered helpful and hurtful, or violent.

Episodes of The Waltons, Mary Tyler Moore, Friends and Lovers and MASH produced the most positive effects — leaving viewers feeling affectionate, kindly, warmhearted and forgiving.

During the week of viewing, those who watched these programs also reported a decline in aggressive feelings.

On the other hand, those who watched violent programs, such as Hawaii Five-O, Cannon and Mannix, maintained an aggressive mood throughout the week.

Loye said that previous research has shown that emotionally arousing films of many types will increase aggressive moods.

But his research group also found that viewers watching prosocial, or positive, dramas had a decrease in feelings of aggression as their emotional arousal increased.

Those watching violent programs had a slight increase in aggressive mood as they were aroused.

"Violence on television is a serious social issue for those concerned about adult behavior just as it is for those concerned about child behavior," Loye asserted.

Television's apparent potential to effect positive change led Loye to conclude that such findings "support the hopes of those who would like to see television put to far, far better social uses."

Just in jest

Where will the desire to work and thereby earn the money to enable you to acquire a higher education get you? Well, apparently the loss of your job if one Federal agency has its way. At least, that's what could happen to some of the industrious lads who, instead of selling magazines from door to door in order to work their way through college, managed to get jobs at Knotts Berry Farm. For now, according to a recent news story, Knotts Berry Farm is about to be sued by the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission. The accusation is that Knotts Berry Farm is guilty of discrimination because it hires local college students instead of parceling those jobs out to members of minority races.

One wonders sometimes just how short sighted our government Big Wigs can be. Some day those same political masterminds will be searching our universities and colleges for Brain Trusters and Educated Whizz Kids who will be able to help them sell the Great American Public a bill of goods — and what they are going to have to settle for will serve them jolly well right.

A small incident in Lafayette park

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The gentleman had a military step, toes inward, knees stiff, 30 inches to the pace. He strutted thus across Pennsylvania Avenue and into Lafayette Park where he engaged in a ritual of sitting down: off with the coat, up with the sleeves, untie the shoelaces. "Grand," he said, which is a word almost no one says anymore, and he repeated it: "Grand."

It was midday. Sunny and hot. Just opposite the White House. Children were soaking in an open fountain, kids were frolicking under the shade trees, and the gentleman unfolded a wrapped sandwich to eat. One bite. Two. Peanut butter and jelly from the look of it. "Do you know," the gentleman said, stopping mid phrase to swallow, and then to reach for a Thermos, "do you know about the whooping crane?" he smiled. Another bite.

A neighbor on the bench turned.

"Yes," the gentleman said, politely, "the whooping crane." He placed his sandwich on its paper. "I am an authority on it." He licked jelly from his thumb. In turn he used a handkerchief to wipe the lick. He also blew his nose. And then continued: "For one thing it is the largest bird on the North American continent. By far, really. Fully grown it stands as tall as a boy — a big boy! Oh, yes. And wingspan: Six to seven feet or more."

A breeze began, ever so welcome, and caught the gentleman's lunch wrapper by surprise. It tumbled from his lap, to the walk, snagging momentarily on the bench leg before drifting over the grass to the fountain. The gentleman appeared not to notice. "Whoopers," he said, "that's what we call them for short."

The wrapper stopped again at the base of the fountain, whereupon a child crumpled it for use as a ball and quickly threw it into the water where it floated on the waves and in the foam generated by the bathers.

Tourists passed by, their cameras aimed at the White House, a grass stain souvenir occupied the rear of one woman's stretch shorts. Yak, yak, they said. Click, click. The gentleman was not distracted. "The bird is white," he went on, "always white, with black tips on the wings and a rouge head. And they don't whoop; that is what people think, but it's wrong. They trumpet, very loud, like this: oooomp, ooooooooomp!" The tourists turned to stare at the gentleman. He continued to trumpet. For effect, he put his hands to his mouth and ooomped in the direction of the White House gate.

The gentleman lifted off the bench with his calls. Then sat down quietly. "I'm sorry," he said, "I've made a fool of myself." He finished his sandwich, except for the crusts, which he broke into pieces and tossed on the grass for the squirrels. He touched the neighbor on the arm:

"The whooper is a buzzard you know, by relation at least. And most ungregarious, too. He will nest only if another whooper is not nesting nearby. They mate, but they do not flock. Nobody knows why. My opinion is they don't like each other that well." The gentleman screwed the cap on his Thermos.

The noon hour was ending. Brown bags were closing all over the capital. The gentleman stood to tie his shoes and button his sleeves. "What a show they are," he said, "soaring, catching the air. You know they migrate each spring from Canada to Texas, and go back again in the fall. It is a wonderful thing to see them in flight." The gentleman put on his coat, a lightweight suit jacket, and touched his fingers to an old-fashioned tie. "Of course," he said, laughing a little, "I've never seen them in flight."

The gentleman searched the bench, then his pockets. "I've lost my wrapper," he said. He felt under the bench. "It must have blown away." He rubbed his face with his hand and brushed the crumbs from his trousers. Then he saw the wrapper in the fountain. "Mustn't litter," he said, delightedly, as he went to the water's edge, slid over the concrete lip, and waded in to retrieve the trash.

When he came out he shook himself, turned, and pausing only to ask a child if she knew of the whooping crane, the gentleman left the park and walked back across Pennsylvania Avenue with a now soggy military step.

Gift tuna soothes metallic incident

I am writing to you because I believe this matter should be brought to the attention of someone but I do not know whom.

Recently I bought six cans of Priority Albacore White Tuna Flakes at a valley store. Upon opening one of the cans to make salad for lunch, I found two large pieces of metal mixed in the tuna.

I am thankful that neither my children nor myself swallowed one of the pieces. They are sharp and could have ripped our insides to shreds.

The distributor of these tuna flakes should be informed of this carelessness. — L. D., Pomona.

You sent us the pieces of metal and the label off the can of tuna.

Our inquiry to Sun Harbor Industries of San Diego, distributors of the product, brought an apology from J. W. Bellm, director of operations.

The apology took the form of a gift pack of tuna flakes to you.

He said Sun Harbor tries to furnish a top quality product under the Priority tuna label. The plant is under continuous supervision of federal and state government inspections, in addition to Sun Harbor's trained, experienced employes.

The cleaning operation, Bellm said, should have uncovered the metal particles but probably they were deeply imbedded in the fish loin before the shipment was received at the cannery.

You said the gift pack consisted of six cans of tuna fish. You accepted the apology, saying you realized there are several ways the metal could have ended up in the can other than through the direct fault of the company.

In thanking Action Line, you remarked that it is a comforting feeling to know that some one speaks up "for us little folk."

In Action Line I read a couple of articles about contests sponsored by the American Holiday Association.

I have entered a few of these contests and have gone as far as the third tiebreaker in a couple of them.

However, when rules are changed in the middle of the stream, I think contestants should be notified.

I have notified American Holiday that my solution resulted in a higher score than its "correct solution." I have not heard from the association.

You will see on the enclosed copy I have underlined where it says, "Words chosen must appear as entries in boldface type in the main vocabulary section of the new Merriam-Webster pocket dictionary."

In the new contest tiebreaker announcement, I have underlined: "All entries chosen must appear in bold-face type set flush with the left-hand margin of either column of type on each page in the main vocabulary section of the new Merriam-Webster Dictionary."

So you can see the difference in the rules. — M. T., Pomona.

Trudi Wilson, contest director, explained that the pocket dictionary formerly used went out of print so the new dictionary was adopted as official for contest use.

Some rule changes were made at the same time.

All contests are conducted independently of one another, she said, and are judged separately, so rules governing current tiebreaker puzzles have no bearing on puzzles completed and submitted before the changes came into effect.

She said you lost out because of use of the word "evaded" in a word contest. The word does not appear in boldface type in the 75-cent pocket edition used in the contest you entered.

Miss Wilson sent you a $3 check representing fees you paid in the contest you entered. She said it is the policy of the American Holiday Association to issue refunds to any contestant who does not understand any portion of contest rules or directions.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Saturday, Sept. 6, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's some preventive maintenance you can do today to ease the strain on the budget. Be a do-it-yourselfer wherever you can.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be sure to include a quiet friend in your plans today. If the invitation doesn't come from you, chances are it won't come from elsewhere.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The family should delegate shopping chores to you today. You know best how to get the most value for each dollar.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A chance to get a serious matter with a friend off your chest will present itself today. Talk it out till you're satisfied it's settled.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're sharp today where financial interests are involved. Pursue the profit motive. You won't be denied your fair share.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You've learned to profit from an unpleasant experience. Where yesterday you couldn't get on target, today you won't let yourself be misled.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your concern for those less fortunate today is very admirable. If a helping hand is needed, you'll be right there.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something that happened in the past has left an indelible impression. You're not about to make the same mistake again in handling the problem.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You mean business in going after your objectives today. Others recognize this and will step out of your way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A difficult decision will be necessary for you today. Though others may not agree, they'll admire you for sticking by your guns.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Stay on the fence today. Avoid controversy. Hug the middle of the road. You'll fare better than by taking one side or another.

Your Birthday, Sept. 6, 1975

An ally of long-standing will play an important role in your affairs this coming year. She will help you to avoid obstacles that could thwart your progress.

Ann Landers

Neither hag, nor go-go dancer

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter's wedding is only weeks away. After shopping for a dress until my feet nearly fell off, I finally found something I really like.

Well, the dress is causing so much commotion I'm ready to blow my brains out. It's a hot-pink chiffon, closely fitted, a little low in the neckline, but not what you'd call indecent.

Already four people have told me the mother of the bride should wear something "conservative" and not take attention away from the bride. They say it's the bride's day and everyone else should fade into the background.

I say it's MY day, too, and I want to look my best.

It took a lot out of me to raise this girl and I don't happen to believe the mother of the bride should look like a washed-out hag. I can't face another day of shopping, but I'll pay attention to what you say. Please be on my side. — Swollen Feet

Dear Feet: Sorry, dear, you lost me on two counts — the hot pink and the plunging neckline.

The mother of the bride needn't look like a washed-out hag, but she shouldn't look like a go-go dancer, either. Save the hot-pink number for your next anniversary and settle for a pastel shade cut along conservative lines.

Dear Ann Landers: May I comment on Dr. Chester Ewing's statement that "brown-nosing" is one of the four most terrible words for us teenagers to use?

In my high school classes, "brown-nosing" was applied not to students genuinely interested in learning, but to those who made every effort to display phony enthusiasm towards teachers in order to receive higher grades.

Brown-nosing is laughing hysterically at every dumb joke the teacher tells. It is unequivocal acceptance of every opinion the teacher holds — including his political beliefs. It is staying late after class and pretending to be consumed with the subject.

Brown-nosing reduces education to performances for the teacher's pleasure. It teaches the student how to squelch his individuality. It develops all the subhuman skills people need to support a fascist dictator.

As an "A" student, I'm thankful I never had to sink that low. — N.Y. Reader

Dear N.Y.: You sound like the guy (or gal) a lot of people want to sit next to during a tough history exam. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a respectable young woman (age 23) and am dating a young man who has asked me to marry him. I am going to say yes but I need to know something first.

In my freshman year of college I fell madly in love with a fellow I thought wanted to marry me. We had sex for several months. When he suddenly decided he wanted to be free to date others I felt really used. "The Romance of the Century" ended on a very sour note.

What I need to know is this: Is it possible for a man to tell if his bride is a virgin? He has never asked and probably never will, but I'd like to know the answer to my question. — Wish I Were

Dear Wish: The answer to your question is no.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Sunspots before your eyes

Home furnaces, air-conditioning, domed stadiums, cloud-seeding — nobody talks about the weather but everyone is doing something about it.

We'd all better start doing more about it if the prognostications of Dr. John A. Eddy prove accurate. Eddy, of the High Altitude Observatory of the National Center for Atmospheric Research, recently told members of the American Astronomical Society that sunspots pretty well disappeared in the late 17th and early 18th centuries, and a "mini-ice age" ensued, causing the royal teeth to chatter in Buckingham Palace and icebergs to floe as far south as New York (New Amsterdam).

What, you may ask, do sunspots have to do with the temperatures on earth? This is a good question and deserves an answer. But it won't get it. Not from ME, anyway. I try to mind my own business and let bygones be bygones, and my advice to you is to do the same. Idle hands are the devil's workshop.

Sunspots, as you, hem, know are cyclone-like masses of gas on the sun, similar to the condition of your stomach after ingesting a large Mexican dinner and four bottles of Carta Blanca. However, there are no Rolaids for the gas on the sun. It just has to suffer, poor dear!

And while that effulgent celestial orb, as it was once called by someone — possibly me — is belching its way through the blue empyrean, the earth turns chilly, people go ice skating on Puddingstone and snowplows are busy on Garey, Holt and Mission. (Will dog teams be permitted on the San Bernardino Freeway?)

Eddy is reluctant to categorically affirm the cause-and-effect of sunspots above and colder temperatures on earth, being cautious like a good scientist should, but the evidence is on his side. Whenever sunspots vanish, like a teenage girl getting over acne, Mother Earth has chilblains. Since the 1940's the sunspots have been disappearing and earthly temperatures have been dropping (kachoo!).

It won't be long before they will be skiing at Claraboya and having toboggan races along Central Avenue. Bob sleds will curl down the Chino Hills, Pomona secretaries will plod to work on snow shoes, and chains will be required on cars driving through La Verne and San Dimas.

"I seriously doubt if we're headed toward another Wisconsin glaciation," Eddy said, speaking of the last great Ice Age that smothered much of the Northern Hemisphere under huge sheets of ice more than 11,000 years ago. "But a cooling trend like this could bring on a little ice age."

That's cold comfort.

Dr. Lamb

Rapid heart beat is a mystery

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am being treated for mild high blood pressure with Hydropress and take Valium. I'm 46, male, 5 feet 9 inches and weigh 205 pounds. I'm a good 40 pounds overweight. My work is 60 per cent sedentary and I'm just recovering from a broken ankle that keeps me down.

My bad habits include smoking a pipe without inhaling and a drink now and then. I use decaffeinated coffee, and other than the above I have always been in good health.

My problem is attacks of rapid heart action. I can be sitting reading with a heart rate of 68 when it suddenly jumps to 100 or 125. Sometimes this is accompanied by very weak feelings. One attack was so bad my wife called the rescue squad, as I felt I was going under.

Also, in the morning hours I have very heavy, achy feelings in the thighs and calves of legs. I am tired and depressed, which is unlike my previous nature.

My doctor says everything is O.K., and my blood pressure is good with Hydropress, but I get no satisfaction on what causes the rapid heart attacks or what to do about it.

Is this a side effect of the Hydropress?

DEAR READER — To identify exactly what your rapid heart action is, it would be necessary to get an electrocardiogram during one. The description of sudden onset does suggest one of the tachycardias caused by an irritable spot in either the atria or the ventricles. They can be very disagreeable, often depending on how fast the heart rate actually is. I have seen rather healthy men with this problem who had attacks with rates of 100 to 120, and they never knew the heart was doing this. I suspect you are more aware of your body and its behavior than they were. That may have something to do with your general nervousness.

We don't always know what causes such attacks. Unless they are part of some other heart problem, they are usually not dangerous. They can be caused by an overactive thyroid — probably not your problem in view of your tendency to obesity — alcohol, coffee, anxiety and sometimes on the basis of an inherited variation in the heart's electrical mechanism.

If your attacks are severe and frequent, your doctor could give you medicine to calm your heart down. I do not mean another sedative, but medicines such as quinidine (there are now many others) that have a direct action on soothing the heart.

The Hydropress ordinarily does not cause these types of problems. If you have washed out a lot of potassium, though, from elimination of fluid as a result of Hydropress, then you might be more susceptible to such attacks. You could help ensure that you have enough potassium in your system by drinking three glasses of orange juice a day.

You really do need to lose that weight. Your blood pressure might be all right if you lost a good 50 pounds. I have been repeatedly impressed with the value of eliminating even a small amount of obesity in lowering blood pressure, often to normal levels. As soon as your ankle permits, I would recommend a daily, light exercise program, perhaps walking or swimming or both to help you get rid of your pounds and put you back in shape.

For more information on blood pressure, write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019, send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents and ask for The Health Letter number 18.

South wasted no time in the play. He won the first trick with dummy's king of spades and led a diamond. East went right up with the ace and led a second spade.

South's jack fell to West's queen and West cleared the suit. South ran the diamonds. But when he fell back on the heart finesse to try for his ninth trick, West took his king and two more spades to leave South one in the group.

South was bitter. "Just think," he groaned, "Three out of three cards wrong. Put the ace of diamonds, queen of spades, or king of hearts in the other hand and I would have been home."

"Just think' is what you should have done," said North. "Had you led dummy's queen of hearts at trick two and let it ride it wouldn't have mattered where those cards were. Your contract would have made easily."

Needless to say, North was right. South had failed to think.

Ask the Jacobys

A Nebraska reader wants to know what a "Temporizing" bid is.

A temporizing bid is one that sort of marks time. It is made in a forcing situation in order to get partner to give more information. Thus, if you open one diamond and partner jumps to two spades, you may make a minimum sounding rebid, such as three diamonds or three spades, even though you have a big hand and will take further action later on. Remember that once a game forcing bid has been made the bidding must continue to game.

Weeds have their place in the yard

Weeds are plants growing in the wrong places. Before proceeding to get rid of them, we should take note of a few of the benefits weeds give to the soil. They prevent erosion. Ragweed, for instance sends roots deep into the subsoil. Deep-rooted weeds bring up minerals and make them available to crop plants as well as provide passages for drainage.

Some weeds impart vigor and disease resistance and will even enhance the flavor of crop plants. Nettles will improve the aromatic quality of certain herbs and bindweed will make a better corn crop. The presence of dandelions helps flowers and fruits mature faster. Weeds help build soil. Both broad leaf weeds like lamb's quarter, pigweed, thistles, smartweed and the various grasses make an abundance of deep, dense roots. Even when the plant dies the fibers and root passages are there serving as channels for water and nutrients.

If the land has been farmed by chemical methods, weeds will pick up the excess salts that are in the soil. In fact, a farm which has been "worn out" or abused with chemicals can be brought back to good production by allowing it to be fallow for a year or two, letting a crop of weeds take over, both annuals and perennials, and then plowing them under. Nature will have restored much of the original balance and vigor.

Everything in nature has a message. Weeds are sending out all sorts of signals about the soil. Sour codk, cinquefoil, and sheepsorrel indicate a deficiency of lime (calcium carbonate). If wire grass, briar or goldenrod are present, the land is poor and impoverished. A waterlogged soil will grow weeds and equisetum. These are some of the conditions that suggest remedies to the farmer or gardener. Of course, weeds will also tell us something about the climate, soil type, etc.—things we cannot change.

To grow a crop, some weeds will have to be got rid of. Now that the soil is in good shape, the use of weedicides would be very bad judgment. Generally speaking, hoeing or hand pulling is the best way. Discing is good if done at the right time. Plowing or tilling will tend to make things worse. Weed seeds can be buried and dormant for years waiting only for the right combination of sunlight and water.

Some weeds may be persistently mowed until they give up. Many weeds can be choked out with crops such as barley, buckwheat, soybeans or millet. The farmer and gardener must come to terms with his weeds. Learn from them, utilize them, eat some of them, feed some to livestock and pull some out and recycle them as compost.

FOR BARE SLOPES — Trailing African Daisies are excellent for transforming bare slopes into areas of beauty. The fast-growing ground cover blooms for long periods, providing continuous color.

Now is time for ground cover

September is the time to "cover a lot of ground." Ground covers planted now in bare areas of the garden will get a good root start in warm and friendly soil conditions.

If covering large, sunny slopes, where low maintenance is desirable, the California Association of Nurserymen recommends such sturdy, drought resistant covers as Trailing Rosemary, an aromatic herb with small blue flowers, freeway tough Baccharis (Cyote Bush), Trailing Gazanias — with yellow or orange flowers — and heart-shaped Vinca Major.

For the added bonus of a rich display of brilliant berries in the fall and winter, shop for such spreading Pyracantha varieties as Santa Cruz. For rich green foliage and brilliant blue springtime flowers, Ceanothus varieties — Carmel Creeper, Santa Ana and Hurricane Point to name a few, will provide it in lavish fashion.

There are newer and refined Junipers for landscape use where low, spreading plants are required. Your nurseryman can show you these as well as many other ground covers that fill in beautifully. Extremely popular today is the Trailing African Daisy (Osteospermum.) The shrubby plants will cover quicker than you think — even planted 18-24 inches apart. A continuous profusion of large daisies, in white or lavender pink, is produced by these sun lovers. Use on slopes or fill in garden areas with them.

For covering a parking strip or lining a driveway, winter-flowering Gazanias are a top choice — they bloom almost all the time, when it's sunny — as is Verbena, ground hugging performer that blooms and blooms in shades of red, pink, lavender and white.

Home gardening classes offered by L.A. County

A total of 14 daytime and evening classes in horticulture, botany, and related subjects will be offered this fall and winter at the three facilities of the Los Angeles County Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens.

In response to rising public interest in home gardening, the majority of the classes are concerned with various aspects of this subject. The first classes of the semester will begin the week of Sept. 15 and most will continue for 10 to 15 weeks. The fee for most classes is $5 although some are more and some classes require an additional materials fee of $5 or $6. The classes at the Arboretum in Arcadia and Descanso Gardens in La Canada are cosponsored by Pasadena City College and those at South Coast Botanic Garden in Palos Verdes are cosponsored by Los Angeles Harbor College. For all classes students register at the first class meeting. Classes requiring fees for materials are limited to 35 students. All others are limited to 50 students.

Further information on these classes can be obtained by calling any of the three gardens: The Arboretum at 681-8411, Descanso Gardens at 681-0331, or South Coast Botanic Garden at 772-5813.

The starting date and time for each class is as follows: At the arboretum: Beginning and advanced bonsai, Sept. 15, 7-10 p.m.; home gardening, Sept. 17, 9 a.m.-12 noon and 7-9 p.m.; home gardening (fruit and berry culture), Oct. 23, 9 a.m.-12 noon; plant identification, Sept. 17, 7-10 p.m.; vegetable gardening, Sept. 24, 9 a.m.-12 noon.

At Descanso Gardens: home gardening (fruit and berry culture), Oct. 27, 9 a.m.-12 noon; home gardening, Sept. 16, 9 a.m.-12 noon; home horticulture, Sept. 17, 7-9:30 p.m.; poisonous, medicinal, and edible plants, Sept. 15, 7-10 p.m.

At South Coast Botanic Gardens: bonsai, Sept. 17, 7-10 p.m.; container gardening, Sept. 23, 9 a.m.-12 noon; home gardening, Sept. 25, 9 a.m.-12 noon.

Want a finer lawn? Then read this!

For nearly a half century our business has been growing and supplying sod for the finer lawns of America, golf course putting greens, athletic fields and other grass areas. About twenty years ago, because we were not satisfied with the quality of grasses then available, we established a research facility for the purpose of grass studies. Our hope was that we could find or develop better grasses. Today, we have under observation over 1,000 strains and species of grasses, many of which are outstanding in their performance. Several of our lawn grass developments have been patented and are available to the public in various parts of the United States and Europe. Others are to be released soon.

About ten years ago one of these new grasses, WARREN'S® A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS, now known as BenSun™ A-34, was introduced into California. Its performance has proven to be outstanding. BenSun A-34 Kentucky Bluegrass has several interesting characteristics. It is highly drought tolerant, does well in most soils and will tolerate up to 65% shade. It is quick to recover when injured, and is used extensively on athletic fields, golf courses, race tracks and other areas where rough usage or hard play can be expected. In spite of its hardy characteristics it makes a beautiful lawn and can be mowed as closely as one half inch when planted in open sunlight.

BenSun A-34 thrives in hot or cool climates, at high or low altitudes, is highly disease resistant and requires less fertilizer than most other grasses. It is the Aristocrat of all lawn grasses!

Because of its vigor and because of its small seed, one pound of seed is sufficient to plant 2,000 square feet of lawn area, about 1,000 seed per square foot. Its seed is actually less expensive than other grass seed because it goes farther, costing only 1/3¢ per square foot.

BenSun A-34 Kentucky Bluegrass is available from your Landscape Contractor or Nurseryman, and you need have no fear of the success of BenSun A-34 because it carries this guarantee . . . "If you are not satisified with the results obtained from this seed, return the empty box with proof of purchase within 6 months to Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc. You will be supplied with more seed or your money will be refunded, your choice."

For an excellent lawn next year, now is the time to plant BenSun A-34 Sod or Seed. BenSun A-34 Sod or Seed planted in late summer or early fall developes a strong root system through the winter and spring months to give you a carpet of exquisite green lawn next summer when you'll want your lawn to be at its peak.

And don't forget this! For every person who sees the inside of your home, 10,000 see the outside. BenSun A-34 Kentucky Bluegrass will make your lawn the outstanding lawn in your community.

Should you wish to know more about BenSun A-34 Kentucky Bluegrass, and where it is now in use in California, write or call:

Discredit new shark repellent

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A shark repellent reported to be "100 per cent effective" was poorly tested and may be worthless, say two Navy scientists.

Dr. Scott Johnson and Forrest Wood of the Naval Undersea Center said that they were skeptical about the value of the repellent, which is based on toxin secreted from a Red Sea flounder.

The September issue of Oceans magazine reported the toxin to be "100 per cent effective" against sharks after some reef white tip sharks turned away from the flounder offered to them.

The Navy men called the tests inadequate.

"It has promising aspects," Johnson said of the repellent. "But the idea of a chemical repellent is very suspicious."

He noted an earlier repellent called "Shark Chaser" used in World War II. It was successfully tested against dog fish, he said, but proved virtually useless against sharks.

He also said that the fish poison may be more repellent against humans than sharks.

Cut in ammo production will force big layoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says that nearly one-third of the employes at Army ammunition plants and commercial plants under contract to the Army will be laid off because of a reduction in ammunition production.

It said that more than 12,000 employes at 14 army ammunitions plants and 32 commercial manufacturers in 19 states will be affected by the cutbacks over the next year. More than 5,400 of the layoffs will be immediate, the Army said Tuesday.

An Army spokesman said the production cutback will result in cancellation of about $90 million in contracts and that another $290 million already appropriated by Congress for ammunition will be assigned to other purposes.

"The reduction of ammunition production is a direct result of the end of hostilities in Southeast Asia and the fact that American stockpiles are rapidly approaching authorized levels," the Army said.

Although the Army has been out of Vietnam for more than two years, it said, "It took some time . . . to assess the Army's readiness posture . . ."

The Army owns 26 ammunition plants which are run by private contractors. Three of those will be put on standby basis over the next nine months and three others are being studied for possible standby status. Eight plants will cut back their production, the Army said.

Of the remaining 12 plants, 11 already are on standby and one is operating on a reduced basis.

In event of a national emergency, the Army said, the mothballed plants could be brought back into production within four months.

Burglars get $150,000 in furs, jewels

ENCINO (AP)—An estimated $150,000 worth of jewels, furs and other valuables were stolen from the home of Bernice G. Yellin by burglars who gained entry by prying open a sliding glass door, officers said.

Among the items stolen in the burglary Tuesday were a Russian sable jacket, two mink stoles.

CHRISTIAN HOTLINE

Dear Jo: You claim the only way to God is through Jesus. Yet my friend (a non-Christian) is the kindest person I know. She wouldn't hurt anyone. Won't God receive her into Heaven? — Mary

Dear Mary: The problem seems to be equating degrees of "goodness" with salvation. Your friend may be truly good by man's standards. But the Bible teaches that we err because we judge ourselves by men: "they, measuring themselves by themselves and comparing themselves among themselves, are not wise" (2 Cor. 10:12). Jesus Christ is the standard. Let's hold ourselves up next to Him and see how we look! We see that we all have sinned, even the kindest person, as is your friend, and need cleansing before entering into the presence of God. Now God, in His love, gives us that cleansing in His Son. We only must accept Jesus into our hearts to receive that beautiful gift. But if we reject His Son, God will reject us. So if you really love your friend — show it! Lead her to Jesus.

College awards are available

College scholarships from $500 to $5,000 are available to all high school seniors through the Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living, now in its 22nd year.

Enrollment deadline is Oct. 31.

Each participating school will conduct a 50-minute written examination on Dec. 2. Written and scored by Science and Research Associates, Inc., Chicago, this exam is the first step in the scholarship program.

From the results, a Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow will be chosen from each participating school. Winners are recognized with special awards and the exams entered in state competition.

Each state winner receives a $1,500 college scholarship while every second-place winner receives a $500 grant. State winners also receive for their school a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America."

State winners, accompanied by a faculty advisor, will be the guests of General Mills next spring on an expense-paid tour of Washington, D.C. The All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow will receive a scholarship for $5,000. Second, third and fourth place winners will receive scholarships for $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 respectively.

Joyce Brothers

Where to begin?

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Our son was one of the last of the hippies and during the 60s he followed the whole pattern that is now, I guess, a part of the past. At that time, my wife and I were hurt and disgusted by his life style. When he started to live with a young woman who shared his views, we disowned them both and haven't seen them for nine years. We refused to contribute to their support even though we knew they had a child. We offered to raise our grandchild ourselves, as we felt they were totally ill-equipped to be parents. Because they didn't accept our offer we've never spoken to them since and we've never seen that grandchild nor another who was born later.

A few months ago, they contacted my sister who saw them and had them stay at her home overnight. She was very impressed with the children and also seemed to feel that our son and this woman had also changed. My wife would like to see them and to renew our relationship. I have no objection but I don't know how or where to begin. — S.N.

Dear S.N.: You will probably have to make the first move since, according to your letter, you rejected them. There's nothing wrong with expressing your confusion and admitting that you may have been in error and acted in haste. Tell them you'd like a second chance to get reacquainted. Explain that there are no strings attached and that you and your wife will try to look on them as individuals just as you wish they would view you.

In nine years, I'm sure they must have changed and matured. You may be surprised at their reaction and their ability to be open to your advances.

Some sociologists who studied the family life of the hippies of the 60s observed that many of the children are raised in much the same manner as those of middle-class, mid-America parents. One major exception, however, is that most of the fathers reject jobs that keep them away from their families and this may be a positive note in the development and emotional well-being of their children.

Occupational aspirations, they noted, were toward positions that provided considerable individual freedom with a minimum of supervision and no time clock. Social prestige and high incomes were deemphasized in favor of creativity, personal enjoyment and freedom to spend time with their families.

According to psychiatrist Bernard Pacella, hippies can make even better parents than more conventional people. Actually, in an orderly environment, those we call hippies can provide more in adequate relationships to a child than a busy parent who is too impatient to understand the child's need or to know the qualities necessary to bring up children.

Try not to prejudge your son and daughter-in-law but try to look at them with unbiased eyes focused on real values.

If you can do this, the chances are they will be able to do the same with you. If you want to renew your relationship, and I think it's important that you do, you'll have to forgive and, perhaps, even forget a great deal of what has happened in the past. This may be the only way to build a better future for yourselves, your children and your grandchildren.

Models challenge record

Studio Seven models will attempt to break the Guiness record for the world's longest fashion show, to be held at the Eastland mall, West Covina, Sept. 13 and 14 as a benefit for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

More than 40 Studio Seven models and commentators along with celebrities, and entertainers will participate in the event.

The existing record for marathon fashion shows is 25 hours 37 minutes set in 1974 in San Francisco. Modeling will be begin on Saturday at 1 p.m. and continue non-stop through Sunday afternoon.

Many local service organizations will join in the activities to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The event is open to the public.

Garcia and Macias vows are heard

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Garcia have established a home in Montclair following their marriage at the Holy Name of Mary Catholic Church in San Dimas.

The bride, Miss Rita Macias, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Macias of La Verne.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Ramirez of Pomona.

Honor attendant was Christine Lopez of Chino.

Best man was Mike Navarette of Montclair.

Other attendants were Mary Lou Lopez of Chino, Debra Carpio of Pomona, Sandy Lobato of Pomona, Alica Padilla of La Verne and Kim Clifford of Reseda.

The couple left the reception held at the Basque Restaurant in Montclair for a wedding trip to San Simeon.

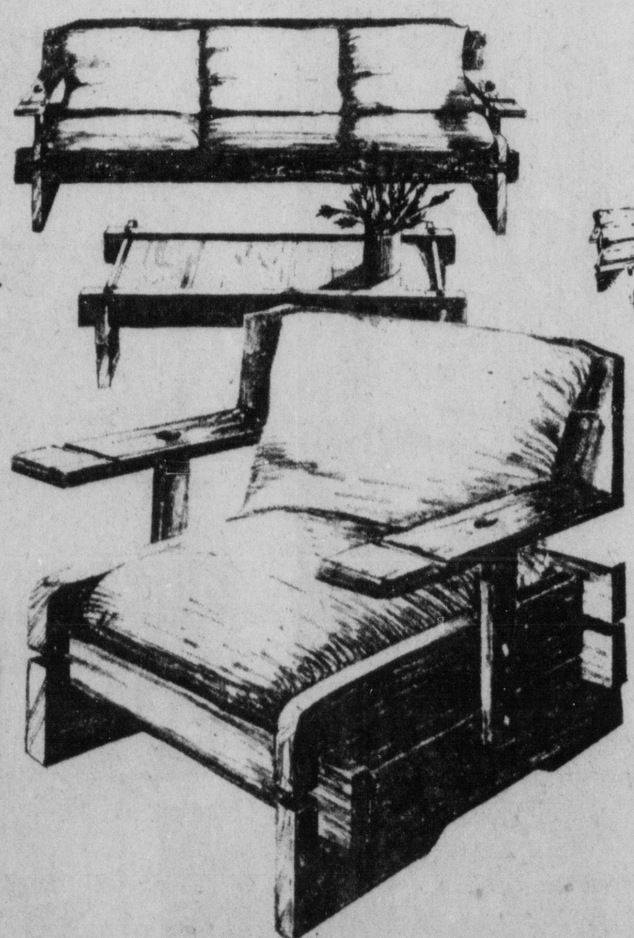
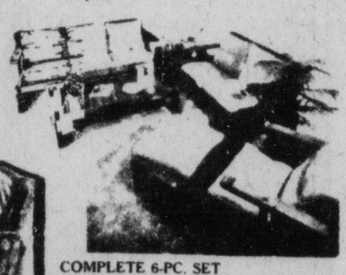
WALNUT or NATURAL
Unique design for modern lifestyles. Casual, comfortable, versatile. Simple of line, frugal in spirit, call it Monastery furniture.
The plump cushions, covered with rugged 100% cotton corduroy, will outlast most upholstery. And they can be completely dry cleaned.
This furniture is shipped in compact boxes, ready to be assembled. So, shipping costs are reduced and we pass the savings on to you.




COMPLETE 6-PC. SET
Set includes chair, loveseat, 3-seat sofa, coffee table, lamp table, and ottoman. Regular value to $579.94

Walnut . . $400
Natural . . $350
SAVE ON THE 3-SEAT SOFA
Enjoy a full-sized sofa at a much lower price than conventional furniture. Its beauty lies in its rustic simplicity—straight lines, solid wood, contrasting cushions. It's 77" long, 33" wide, and has 3 corduroy cushions.

Save when you buy now at Pier 1.
Reg. $189.99
Now Walnut $169.99
Natural $149.99
RELAX IN A LOVESEAT.
Cozy solution when space is a problem. The lovemonk, two-cushion sofa, is perfect in an apartment, den, living room or guest bedroom. The cushions, available in camel, rust, and green, provide a pleasant contrast to the rich dark stained wood.
Reg. $149.99

GRIMACE AND BEAR IT

Tennis umpire William Fanning seems to be working harder than the players as he keeps tab on the action Thursday at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills.

Top seeds survive quarters

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Maria Bueno would give her right arm to be playing in the singles at Forest Hills, scene of her greatest tennis triumphs in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

But that arm, seven times operated on without success, forced her into premature retirement while her peers—Billie Jean King, Margaret Court and Virginia Wade—remained in their prime.

"There are a lot of things I've missed out on," said the dark-haired Brazilian, gazellel-like grace has made her one of the game's premier attractions. "The publicity, the big money...but I had everything else."

Indeed, she did. There was no money, but a lot of prestige, when she won her four U.S. titles between 1959 and 1966. And the fans haven't forgotten. She's here at Forest Hills, foregoing pain in her arm for the pleasure of at least playing doubles and rubbing elbows with today's youthful, and wealthy, stars.

"This is my favorite tournament, it's nice to be back," she said of her first appearance at the West Side Tennis Club since 1969. "I draw crowds; people still ask for my autograph— they're still interested."

Her only contemporary left in the tournament is Virginia Wade, the No. 2 seed from Great Britain who won here in 1968.

Although Miss Wade, at 30, is the oldest of the four women's semifinalists, Miss Bueno, 35, says age doesn't make any difference.

"You can be five or 50," she said. "Everything happens on the court."

With that in mind, she assessed the chances today's women's semifinals.

—Chris Evert, 19, seeking her first United States crown: "She has a pretty good chance. She's been winning every match in the place."

—Martina Navratilova, 18, of Czechoslovakia, also looking for her first title: "Yeah, why not?"

—Evonne Goolagong, 24, of Australia, twice a runner-up but never a winner: "I like the way Evonne plays, but you never know when she's going to play well."

—Miss Wade, of Great Britain, seeking her second title: "It'll be a close match."

The pairings shaped up with No. 1 Miss Evert vs. No. 3 Miss Navratilova and No. 2 Miss Wade vs. No. 4 Miss Goolagong.

It is the first time since the tournament became an open event in 1968, and some knowledgeable observers say the first time in memory, that the top four seeds have survived the quarter-finals.

Four of the top-seeded men also are into the semifinals— No. 1 Jimmy Connors, No. 2 Guillermo Vilas of Agentina, No. 3 Manuel Orantes of Spain and No. 5. Bjorn Borg of Sweden.

Connors, a whiz on any surface who is seeking his second straight Open title, breezed past Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 in Thursday's shortest match, only 1 hour, 13 minutes.

Vilas, virtually unstoppable of late, took only slightly longer in downing Jaime Fillol of Chile 6-4, 6-0, 6-1.

Orantes needed 2 hours, 11 minutes for a controversial 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 triumph over eighth-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania. Borg, who opened the day's play before a sellout crowd of 15,627, gave them their money's worth for 2 hours, 55 minutes before he downed a tenacious Eddie Dibbs, troubled by leg cramps, 6-4, 7-6, 4-6, 7-6.

Connors simply overwhelmed Pattison, while Vilas equally outclassed Fillol, reeling off 12 games in a row starting with the ninth game of the first set.

Dibbs, who downed fourth-seeded Arthur Ashe in the quarter-finals, matched his two-fisted backhand with Borg's in a match of baseline duels and long rallies. In the first-set tiebreaker, Borg took it 10-8, but he had a much easier time in the second tiebreaker, 7-1, when Dibbs was nearly doubled over with cramps.

The Nastase-Orantes show was somewhat of a replay of Orantes' triumph over the fiesty Romanian in the Canadian Open after Nastase lost his spirit over a disputed line call in the first-set tiebreaker. By his own admission, he quit trying in that match, a move that cost him an $8,000 fine handed down only Wednesday by the joint Professional Tennis Council.

The dispute in Friday's match came in the final game of the final set.

Nastase had just been broken to trail 3-5 and on the first point for 0-15, he then hit a ball down the sideline which would have made it 0-30 and put him enroute to being even again with service in the set. Linesman Adrian Clark called it out. Nastase got mad, umpire Jack Potter over-ruled Clark, that made Orantes mad. Finally, referee Mike Blanchard intervened, upholding the umpire.

Then Nastase frittered away three of the last four points, giving Orantes the match.

VICTORY STROKE

Jimmy Connors returns ball to Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia in their quarter-final match at Forest Hills. Connors won 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 to qualify for the U.S. Open men's semi-finals.

Doug Rau beats Reds, L.A. vs. Braves tonight

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ATLANTA — The Dodgers open a three-game series against the down-trodden Braves needing to win two games to ensure a winning (4-3) road trip.

That would also keep them three and one-half games ahead of the Giants, who don't figure to win more than one (if that) against Cincinnati. The Dodgers-Reds season series is a standoff again (8-8) after the Dodgers won 3-2 Thursday night.

Pitching matchups for the Dodgers-Braves series shape up like this: Burt Hooton (14-9) and Mike Thompson (0-5) tonight (4:30 p.m. PDT). Rick Rhoden (1-2) and Carl Morton (16-15) Saturday night and Don Sutton (16-12) and Jaime Easterly (1-8) Sunday at 11 a.m. (PDT).

Andy Messersmith has been given an extra day's rest and will open the 10-game homestand against the Giants Monday night.

If the attendance for the Dodger games in Cincinnati (57,393 for two games) seems small, the turnout here in Atlanta will be minute.

In their last two games the Braves have played before their smallest crowds ever, 1,119 Wednesday and 1,062 Thursday. That's a two-game total of 2,181! The Atlantans have drawn only 495,930 this year with just nine more home games left, including the three with the Dodgers.

Dodger coach Tommy Lasorda and one time Dodger pitcher Jim Bunning have been mentioned as possible successors to interim manager Connie Ryan of the Braves.

Although the Dodgers are 7-5 for the season against the Braves, they are only 2-4 here in Atlanta.

Doug Rau's strong effort against Cincinnati Thursday night evened his career mark against the Reds at 5-5. It was the slender lefthander's fourth straight win and seventh complete game of the season.

It also enabled him to match the number of victories he had last year when he finished with a 13-11 mark, his highest number of wins.

"I think Rau has shown steady progress," said manager Walter Alston. "Improved control is the big thing and he holds his stuff better (longer) than he used to. I used to look for six or seven innings from him. Now he's so strong he can go nine."

Rau (13-9) held the powerful Reds to four hits, three singles and George Foster's 22nd home run. The homer came in the second inning. The three singles, by Pete Rose, Merv Rettenmund and Joe Morgan, accounted for the other run in the sixth inning.

After Morgan's hit, Rau retird the last 11 batters in a row. He now has pitched 229 and one-third innings as compared to 198 last year and his earned run average is down to 3.22. Last year he wound up at 3.73.

"If I finish with 250 innings that's a major league season, what do you think?", Rau asked writers. "Bleep. I don't think complete games are a big thing anymore."

Rau claimed that his arm is much stronger because, for the first time, he did not play winter ball last year.

"I started pitching when I was seven or eight and I pitched the year around every year," he said. "That's bound to take it's toll sooner or later. Last year I had a rib cage pull which was kept quiet and I wasn't effective the last part of the season. But this year I've had no pain and my arm feels live instead of dead like it always has the last month."

The Dodgers scored all three runs in the first inning before a batter was retired. Davey Lopes singled and went to third on a wild pickoff throw by loser Clay Kirby (9-5). Lee Lacey singled for one run and Willie Crawford homered for two, his eighth of the year.

"That puts us even with the Reds," smiled Alston. "They must be playing the other teams better than we did. Seriously, it's been a disappointing year. But I've been around long enough to know you get one of those every once in a while."

DODGER DATA — Lopes stole his 62nd base and had three hits (a double and two singles) to raise his average to .261. The run scored gave him 88 for the season.

Steve Garvey went hitless and his 10-game hitting streak ended.

Cincinnati cooled off Thursday but arriving in Atlanta this morning, the Dodgers found it exactly like Cincy had been Wednesday . . . humidity around 85 percent in the daytime and daytime temperatures in the 90's.

Alabama judge okay by McKay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Athletic directors John McKay of the University of Southern California and J. D. Morgan of UCLA agree that a federal judge in Alabama acted correctly.

"I'd like to shake the hand of the judge who made that ruling," said McKay, also the USC football coach, after the temporary injunction was issued against a National Collegiate Athletic Association order.

Judge Sam C. Pointer Jr. ruled that university football teams should not be limited to 48 players on games away from home could travel with 60, the same number permitted at home.

McKay and Morgan said they felt there should be no changes affecting athletes already recruited.

"I am in favor of not having any such restrictions placed on youngsters you have recruited to date," said Morgan. "If you must put restrictions on football and basketball squads, you start with people not yet recruited. Otherwise you are putting restrictions on those who were recruited under a different set of rules."

"If you allow a home team to have 60 players suited up and the opposing team can only have 48, that's not fair to the visiting coach," said McKay. "If we go to Notre Dame and they have 60, we'll also have 60."

Morgan said that UCLA travels to the Air Force Academy in mile-high Colorado Springs. "We should be able to have as many suited up as they do," he said. "Basically it would be unfair to our team otherwise and the altitude would make it additionally difficult."

McKay told a story:

"Several years ago, we had a game at Washington State which we won 70-30 or something and our last touchdown was scored by Clarence Davis, our No. 1 tailback. That was because we had a 46-player traveling squad limit in the conference and our secondstring tailback had hurt a shoulder.

"I was called everything in the world that you'd find on a bathroom wall, but I had to play Davis because the rules say you can't put a tackle in the backfield.

"If the game is worth having, I see no reason why we shouldn't be able to suit up anyone we want to suit up.

"The NCAA said the 48-man limit was to save money. Well, if you get your tail beaten too often you'll lose gate receipts. There's one way for a college to cut expenses and that's to cut scholarships. There is no rising cost of athletics; it's the rising cost of education that's got us all."

Weekend openers for college grids

By Associated Press

Alabama, Penn State, North Carolina State and Maryland get a jump on the other members of The Associated Press Top Twenty when the college football season gets under way this weekend.

N.C. State, ranked 13th, and No. 17 Maryland, two of the powers in the Atlantic Coast Conference, will be the first of the ranking teams to see action. Both are at home against nonleague opponents—the Wolfpack entertaining East Carolina while Maryland faces Villanova.

Sixth-ranked Penn State is the only Top Ten team scheduled for action Saturday. The Nittany Lions meet upset-minded Temple at the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field and the game has been designated an official Bicentennial event for the City of Philadelphia by the board of directors of "Philadelphia '76."

Television viewers will have to wait until Monday night for their first taste of action when ABC-TV airs the intersectional clash between second-ranked Alabama of the Southeastern Conference and Missouri of the Big Eight from Birmingham, Ala. (9 p.m., EDT).

Four games are on tap in various conferences. Saturday afternoon, Western Michigan visits Central Michigan to help the Chippewas, last year's national College Division champs, make their debut in both the University Division and the Mid-American Conference. After dark, Drake is at New Mexico State and West Texas State at Wichita State for Missouri Valley Conference games while Fullerton State makes its Pacific Coast Athletic Association—and Division I—inaugural at Fresno State.

The only other daytime games find Pitt at Georgia, Lamar at Houston, William & Mary at North Carolina and Eastern Michigan at Ball State. The rest of the night schedule has Mississippi at Baylor, Mississippi State at Memphis State, Southern Methodist at Wake Forest, Texas-El Paso at San Diego State, Western Carolina at Toledo, Western Kentucky at Dayton, Southwestern Louisiana at Long Beach State, Pacific at Northeast Louisiana, North Texas State vs. Texas-Arlington at Irving, Tex., Northwestern Louisiana at Arkansas State and Marshall at Akron.

Penn State and Temple met 13 times from 1938-52 with the Lions holding a 9-3-1 lead after losing three of the first four intrastate battles. Coach Joe Paterno wasn't ecstatic when the resumption of the series was announced but has changed his tune.

"I thought when the series was scheduled that it would not be good for us," he says. "I was wrong. Temple has done a great job of rebuilding its program and it should be a good series for both schools."

Three common faults

Al Geiberger says the three most common faults of golfers are incorrect posture, improper timing and improper use of the legs.

Geiberger, director of golf at Silver Lakes Resort and winner of the MONY Tournament of Champions (open only to tournament winners) and the PGA Tournament Players Championship last Sunday, will demonstrate the proper techniques to eliminate these faults during a series of four clinics.

Geiberger, who'll celebrate his 38th birthday Monday, has won $170,957 thus far this year and is the sixth leading money winner.

"Most golfers are too stiff-legged when they address the ball and slouch too much," said Geiberger. "They should flex their knees a little and bend slightly from the waist. Most golfers also overreach with their left arm. They should let the arms hand down in a relaxed manner.

Angel skipper preaches unity

ANAHEIM (AP) — Dick Williams is preaching unity.

He is also demanding it.

"The majority of the players on this team are selfish because they haven't been taught any different," Williams was saying Thursday night after his California Angels roared from behind on the power hitting of Lee Stanton to subdue the Texas Rangers, 6-4.

"We're having to correct a lot of things up here," Williams said of his young team. "I can finish last with a .280 hitter but maybe I can finish third with a .260 hitter who busts his tail for the team."

Stanton definitely did that for Williams Thursday night.

With the Angels trailing 3-0 in the seventh, Stanton unloaded his 14th homer, a two-run jolt off Ranger starter Jim Umbarger to get California close.

After Mickey Rivers coaxed a bases-loaded, two-out walk from Mike Foucault to force over the tying run in the eighth, Stanton cleared the bases with a double to left that just eluded a desperate dive by Texas outfielder Mike Hargrove.

"I thought he had it," Stanton grinned. "Then I saw the ball roll free. Beautiful."

"If we can get a hitter or two our outlook for next year is very good," said Williams.

"But we have to have unity. I sat a player down for five days because he was too concerned about his average. That's not how to play this game."

The Angels meet the Kansas City Royals in the opener of a four-game series tonight which features the return of Williams' former third base coach Whitey Herzog, now the skipper of the Royals.

Steve Busby, 15-11, will pitch for Kansas City against Ed Figueroa, 12-11.

Joe Lovitto drove in three Ranger runs with a two-run single in the second and his first home run of the year in the ninth against winner Jim Brewer, who picked up his first American League triumph.

Stan Thomas, the second of three Texas pitchers, drew the loss to level his record at 4-4.

Jeff Burroughs also homered for the Rangers, his 24th.

Jerry Remy had three of California's 10 hits.

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP) — Woody Green and Rich Lewis, happy over their acquittal of rape charges, are eager to get back to their National Football League teams.

A jury unanimously found them innocent Thursday after 1½ hours of deliberation. Their trial lasted seven days.

Green, 23, is a running back for the Kansas City Chiefs. Lewis, 24, is a linebacker for the New York Jets. Green is married to Lewis's sister.

Nicklaus favored at Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, who came within three or four strokes of destroying this event, occupies his customary position as an overwhelming favorite in the weekend World Series of Golf.

Tom Weiskopf, Tom Watson and Lou Graham offer the opposition in the 36-hole, Saturday and Sunday affair that brings together the winners of all the world's major tests of golfing greatness.

Nicklaus, a four-time winner and a five-time runner-up in this elite event, qualified for a 10th appearance with his victories in the Masters and the PGA. And he almost made this a one-man tournament.

He missed a playoff for the British Open crown, won by Watson, by a single shot. He could have won the U.S. Open with pars on his last three holes but lost to Graham by two shots. And he lost the Canadian Open—the first alternate spot—in a playoff to Weiskopf.

Provision is made for three alternates in the World Series of Golf in the event someone wins more than one of the four qualifying tournaments. But Nicklaus came within four strokes of winning all four, plus the first alternate spot—the Canadian Open.

"If he'd won all of them, plus the Canadian, I don't know what we'd have done," one tournament official said.

But it didn't happen. It was close enough to prompt Nicklaus to call this one of his finest seasons ever, but it didn't happen. And, since it didn't happen, he comes into this one with a little something to prove.

Instead of becoming complacent, he has a point to make.

He was a little miffed about losing to Weiskopf in the Canadian. And he still smarts from Weiskopf's 1973 World Series victory, the last time either played in this event.

And so the man who is unapproached as the greatest performer of his era is in his most dangerous frame of mind — he feels he has a challenge.

"Challenge, competition is what the game is all about," Nicklaus said.

He's at the peak of his game. He's won more tournaments, more money and has a better stroke average than anyone else in the world this year.

And the World Series is being played on his most happy hunting ground, the famed Firestone Country Club course. Nicklaus has collected almost $375,000 in winnings from this course alone. In addition to his four World Series titles, he also won the American Golf Classic here and copped the PGA on this course just a little more than a month ago.

"He is not unbeatable," said Weiskopf, who ranks as his biggest challenger for the $50,000 first prize. "Jack can be beaten."

Weiskopf has won twice this season, as has the 25-year-old Watson, one of golf's most promising young players. Graham's only victory came in his U.S. Open upset. He and Watson are World Series rookies.

The event offers $15,000 to the second place finisher, $7,500 to third and $5,000 to fourth. It is the last time it will be played as a four-man tournament. It's scheduled to go to an expanded format at an unannounced site next season.

NBC-TV will provide national television coverage both days, 2-3:30 PDT.

NFL roundup

Dallas faces Oakland

By Associated Press

The struggling Dallas Cowboys, once the scourge of the National football League, will get no sympathy from the Oakland Raiders when the two meet tonight in a nationally televised exhibition game.

"Oakland is the most aggressive team in the NFL, offensively and defensively," said Dallas assistant coach Ermal Allen. "They also lead the league in penalties, but most of those come from hitting, piling on or goring the quarterback. Oakland will strike you."

Undefeated in four outings, the Raiders will find a different Dallas team than the one that went to the Super Bowl for two straight years, losing to the Baltimore Colts in 1971 before crushing the Maimi Dolphins the following year.

Gone are defensive tackle Bob Lilly, center Dave Manders and fullback Walt Garrison, all of whom have retired, and wiide receiver Bob Hayes, traded to the San Francisco 49ers.

"It takes time to replace players," said Cowboys Head Coach Tom Landry. "I wish I could have a magic wand and do it."

In Saturday's games, St. Louis faces Minnesota, Atlanta meets Buffalo at Tampa, Fla., Philadelphia takes on Los Angeles, Cincinnati travels to Detroit, Chicago is at Miami, New Orleans plays Pittsburgh and Green Bay meets Kansas City.

Sunday schedule pits the New York Jets against Washington, the New York Giants versus Cleveland at Seattle, Denver at San Francisco and San Diego at New England. Baltimore and Houston will tangle in the Astrodome Monday night.

While the Raiders have been waylaying all comers, Dallas finally got into the winning column last week after three straight losses. One new wrinkle by the Cowboys is a spread formation with quarterback Roger Staubach lining up five yards behind center. He might have to drop even deeper to escape the Oakland rush, which has recorded 14 quarterback sacks already, recovered five fumbles and intercepted nine passes.

The Oakland-Dallas clash will be the first of three nationally televised games this weekend. Other games to be trotted before the TV audience will be the St. Louis-Minnesota encounter and the Jets-Washington Redskins clash.

The NFL will give Tampa fans an early look at the league's brand of football. The Tampa Bay Buccaneers begin NFL play in 1976. Atlanta may start top draft choice Steve Bartkowski of California at quarterback. But the Falcons will be hurting in the defensive line where they lost Claude Humphrey for the season last week. Buffalo, 2-2 in preseason play, as are the Falcons, will take a closer look at their No. 1 draft choice, linebacker Tom Rudd of Nebraska, who recently signed.

Philadelphia at Los Angeles matches two teams with 3-1 records. Either former Ram Roman Gabriel or young Mike Boryla will start at quarterback for the Eagles while James Harris will guide Los Angeles.

The Cincinnati Bengals have won the last four preseason meetings over Detroit, but neither has been that impressive this year. The Bengals are 2-3 while Detroit has won only once in four outings. Quarterback Ken Anderson is scheduled to start for Cincinnati after taking off last week. Greg Landry will lead Detroit after Bill Munson reinjured his right shoulder last week.

Chicago's defense is okay, having given up only 39 points in four outings. But the Bears' offense is still having trouble as Chicago has posted a 2-2 record. Miami was knocked out of the unbeaten ranks last week as safety Dick Anderson reinjured his left knee and middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti broke his thumb.

The defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers are having a tough time this year with a 2-3 mark. But quarterbacks Terry Hanratty and Joe Gilliam along with running back Reggie Harrison are due back from injuries. New Orleans, on the other hand, will be without quarterback Archie Manning, who was injured last week.

never lost to Kansas City, 1-3. This week promises to be the same. Kansas City's quarterbacking situation is still unsettled with veteran Len Dawson and youngster Don Adams sharing last week's chores in a losing cause. G een Bay's John Hadl looked sharp in directing the Packers to a halftime lead last week.

Besides Tampa, another team will join the league in 1976 — the Seattle Seahawks. And like Tampa, Seattle fans will see NFL action this week. The surprising Giants, 4-0 and coming off a victory over the Steelers, will go with Craig Morton, although Carl Summerell is due for second half duty. For Cleveland, Eddie Brown will sstart at free safety for the injured Thom Darden.

The Jets-Washington Redskins clash will probably see the 1975 debut of New York quarterback Joe Namath. But the Jets, 3-1, will be without running back Emersson Boozer. Washington, 3-2, had its best outing last week in a victory over Detroit.

San Francisco's fourth annual Mayor's Youth Bowl Game will find Denver, 2-2, taking on the 49ers, 1-3. Steve Spurrier, Tom Owen and Norm Snead are all battling for the No. 1 quarterbacking job for the 49ers, while Denver's Charley Johnson is ready to make his first appearance of the preseason.

Quarterback Dan Fouts will probably start for San Diego, 1-3. New England, 2-2, is going with it's frontline troops.

American League roundup

Bosox aren't fading

By Associated Press

Remember how the Boston Red Sox were supposed to fade in the stretch? As soon as they started to feel the pennant pressure in September, critics claimed, the Bosox would fold like an accordian.

Well, consider this: Boston's magic number is 18.

"It'll be tough for them to catch us now," said Boston rookie Fred Lynn, echoing a tone of confidence heard in all corners of the Red Sox' locker-room after they beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-1 Thursday night to complete a sweep of their "crucial" two-game series.

"You never really think you're in until it's clinched," said Red Sox veteran Carl Yastrzemski, "but I kind of like our situation now."

Boston's situaion, which is looking better and better, is this: the Red Sox have opened an eight-game bulge over the Orioles in the American League East, and with 25 games left to play, any combination of 18 Boston victories or Baltimore defeats will mean a division flag for Beantown.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City Royals blanked the Chicago White Sox 7-0, the New York Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers 8-1, the Cleveland Indians outscored the Milwaukee Brewers 10-5 and the California Angels defeated the Texas Rangers 6-4. Oakland and Minnesota were not scheduled.

With Luis Tiant a late scratch because of muscle spasms in his back, Boston Manager Darrell Johnson decided two Red Sox pitchers might do the job of one. So he split the mound time between Dick Pole and Dick Drago, and the result was a five-hitter.

Pole, just four days off the injured list after recovering from a line drive to the head June 30, went the first five innings and allowed just two hits and one unearned run. Then Johnson handed the ball to Drago, and he scattered three hits the rest of the way to notch his 10th save and third in the last four games.

Boston scored two runs in the first inning on a wild play which saw Baltimore commit two throwing errors. With the bases loaded against Mike Torrez, 16-8, and one out, Jim Rice hit a grounder to Brooks Robinson, who tagged third for a forceout. Then Robinson threw wildly past first as one run scored. Lee May ran down the ball and threw home, but the ball got past catcher Dave Duncan for another run.

Royals 7, White Sox 0

If you're looking for the pennant race in the American League, you might have to take Horace Greeley's advice and head westward.

While the East race has fizzled, the Kansas City Royals are doing their best to heat things up in the West. They posted their fourth consecutive victory as Paul Splittorff blanked Chicago on seven hits to pull to within six games of the first-place Oakland A's.

"It's all very simple now," said Splittorff. "We're six games out and have six more with Oakland. Sure we could use some help from other clubs, but it is still up to us to beat 'em head to head."

Frank White, on his 24th birthday, and Jim Wohlford drove in three runs apiece to provide most of the Kansas City offense, while four Chicago pitchers issued 15 walks to make life easy for the Royals.

Yankees 8, Tigers 1

Thurman Munson drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Rudy May, 12-10, tossed a five-hitter for the Yankees, who broke the game open with five runs in the fifth inning off Ray Bare, 8-10.

Indians 10, Brewers 5

Joe Lis slammed a three-run homer and got another RBI on a sacrifice fly to pace the Cleveland attack. It was only Lis' second game since being promoted from Oklahoma City.

Three-time winner makes it four in annual Baldy run

Chuck Smead made his return to the 8-mile Mt. Baldy to the Peak race a triumphant one on Labor Day, outdistancing a strong field to arrive at the peak in 62 minutes, 44 seconds. This time is within a minute of his own course record of 62 minutes, 20 seconds, set in 1972.

Smead, winner of the event in 1971, 72, and 73, was not present for the race last year, and the title of "King of the Mountain" went to Ken Moffitt. This year Smead led the race from start to finish, and added minutes to his lead during all phases of the race. Second place went to Bill Scobey in 66 minutes and 55 seconds, over four minutes behind Smead, while third went to last year's winner Ken Moffitt in 67 minutes and 29 seconds. With a big lead acquired early, Smead may not have had the proper mental set for the maximum effort necessary to set a new course record, but he came close to it.

The race saw 84 of 85 official entrants finish, and new division records were set in two classes. In the womens division, Donna Sanchez set a record with a finish of 89 minutes and 19 seconds. In the Boys 13-15 Division, Frank Assuma set a new record of 74 minutes and 58 seconds. Other Division winners were Dick Durand in the Mens 40-49 Division, Bob Long in the Mens 50-59 Division; and John Montoya in the Mens 60 and over Division. R. Cook and J. Kelly tied for first in the Boys 12 and under Division. Louis Silva took the Mens 16-19 Division race.

The race was run under nearly ideal conditions except for strong, cold winds near and on the peak. Water and first aid stations set up by the Mt. Baldy Fire Department at the Notch the Devil's Backbone gave competitors a chance to take on some liquids on the run. Except for a few blisters, no problems were reported by the runners.

Trophies donated by the Mt. Baldy Chamber of Commerce were awarded to overall and Division winners and runners-up. Times and places for the award winners is as follows:

OPEN DIVISION: 1. Chuck Smead, 62:44; 2. Bill Scobey, 66:55; 3. Ken Moffitt, 67:19; 4. Mike Harrie, 68:51; 5. Jeff Rawlings, 69:09; 6. Mark Kushner, 71:48; 7. Steve Durand, 72:11; 8. Roger McGrath, 75:13; 9. R. Glenn, 75:30; 10. Alan Hass, 75:49. VETERANS DIVISION: 40-49. 1. Dick Durand, 77:52; 2. Bob Holtel, 79:43; 3. Gil Perez, 83:12; 4. Ed Gookin, 86:17; 5. Dick Richards, 88:08. 50-59. 1. Bob Long, 91:50; 2. John Garcia, 93:17; 3. Ed Halpin, 94:49. 60 AND OVER. 1. John Montoya, 95:29. WOMENS DIVISION: 1. Donna Sanchez, 89:19; 2. Vicky Cook, 93:17. BOYS DIVISION: 16-19. 1. Louis Silva, 69:51; 2. Brian Stephenson, 72:53; 3. Roger Innes, 75:20; 4. Mark Trilevski, 75:44; 5. Tom Colley, 76:02. 13-15. 1. Frank Assuma, 74:58; 2. Matt Ebiner, 87:47. 12 AND UNDER. 1. R. Cook and J. Kelly, tie, 89:50.

Teenagers lead women's amateur

Two smooth-swinging teenagers are leading the Southern California Woman's Amateur at Pomona National Golf Course after 36 holes.

Sixteen-year-old Tamara Snook of San Clemente shot a 75 Thursday to take a three-stroke lead in the 54-hole tournament which annually attracts the finest women amateurs in the Southland.

Snook's 155 leads the tourney, but 18-year-old Irene Zuniga of Santa Ana fashioned her second straight 79 Thursday for a 158 total. Marshall Canyon's Shelby Myers slipped to an 83 after an opening day 77 and holds third place with 160.

Gail Chow of Montebello also shot 83 Thursday for a 161 total.

The final round of the tourney will be played today.

Low gross leader in the first flight is Jean Cox, 82-84—166; while Marion McGrath of Pomona National leads low net contestants with 144.

Jean Schlick, 150, is in second place after two days.

Low gross leaders in the second flight are Jo DeBos, Los Serranos, and Fay Kulp, Marshall Canyon, tied at 193. Net leader in the flight is Mary Ellen Wagner of South Hills with 145.

Mears in comeback

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — "We were driving about 100 miles per hour in the dust and when the dust cleared, I'd already started off the cliff.

"Probably another five feet and it was straight down into the water."

"Fortunately, two guys on horseback happened by and we finally talked them into pulling the car up from the precipice. They couldn't get it all the way out, so we later got a truck and hauled it up.

"Under those circumstances, an accident like that doesn't really bother me. You're running in the dust and then get two wheels off the edge and when the dust clears you're already off and there's not much you can do about it.

"Next time I might slow down a bit, but really, I don't know."

The 28-year-old Mears, who now lives in Costa Mesa, Calif., defends his title this weekend in Mickey Thompson's closed-course off-road race at the Riverside International Speedway. Nearly 200 other drivers will try to break the Mears hold on the title.

Rick Mears won, in 1973 and Roger in 1974. "I think I fear my brother more than any other driver," admitted Roger, who got into the off-road brand of racing when his brother won a chassis and the family put together a racer.

"I really got to like off-road racing because it is such a challenge both for the car and for yourself," he says. "You really have to be in the best shape physically to take the pounding."

Still, Roger aspires to drive an Indy car around the smooth 2½-mile ovals. He'll be competing in midget and sprint cars this season trying to attract attention to himself-not from the fans but from a potential sponsor.

"It's getting tougher and tougher in these financial times," Roger admits.

Sports briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Halfbacks Kenny Lee and Carl Zaby ran ahead of 1974 starters Wendell Tyler and Eddie Ayers as the UCLA football team concluded two-a-day football drills on Thursday.

A team spokesman said Tyler was not playing as well as the other backs while Ayers was being brought along slowly following a knee operation late last spring.

DALLAS (AP) — Cliff Speegle, executive secretary of the Southwest Conference, said Thursday Southwest Conference football teams could carry 60 players on the road for one week until the NCAA appeals a federal judge's ruling striking the 48-player limit.

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Carleton R. Crowell, track and cross-country coach at the U.S. Military Academy for the last 25 years, died of a heart attack Thursday following his customary morning jog. He was 62.

Tourney draws top stars

Many of the superstars of tennis will be on hand Sept. 13 when the 1975 Pacific Southwest Open Tennis Championships get under way at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

For the first time in its 49 year history, the tournament will not be played at the Los Angeles Tennis Club.

Firm entries have been received from Arthur Ashe, Wimbledon champion; Raul Ramirez, star of the Mexican Davis Cup team; Marty Reissen, one of the top rated U.S. players; Harold Solomon, finalist in the 1974 Pacific Southwest; Roscoe Tanner, the power server from Lookout Mountain, Tennessee; Stan Smith, a top ranking U.S. player for the past 8 years; and Dick Stockton, who has represented the U.S. in the Davis Cup play.

Prize money is $100,000 and the tournament will provide bonus points to the participating players for the Commerical Union Grand Prix with its 1975 bonus pool of $750,000.

In addition to the regular tournament, there will be a renewal of the popular Grand Masters event featuring such great past champions as Frank Sedgman, Vic Sexias and Pancho Segura. This will be held on the Sept. 13-14-15 weekend.

The first round of mens play will commence September 13 with two days of daytime matches. On September 15 there will be afternoon and evening sessions through Saturday, September 20. Finals will take place on Sunday afternoon, September 21. Tickets are on sale at Pauley Pavilion, the L.A. Tennis Club and all Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies. The move to the Pavilion will provide seating for over 12,000 people with parking facilities for 4,000 cars.

The Pacific Southwest is sponsored by Thrifty Drug and Discount Stores and Big 5 Sporting Goods. It is a major fund raising effort for the Southern California Tennis Association. This body is responsible for conducting tournament play in the area and for development of the Southland's junior players.

Skillful shooters bag dove limits

BIG CAT — Frank Winkler of La Verne landed this 44¾ pound flathead catfish last weekend about two miles above Imperial Dam on the California side of the Colorado River. Winkler also caught a 25 pounder. Both were taken using a deep sea rig with 50-pound test line and live bluegill for bait. Winkler also bagged his limit of dove Monday and Tuesday, working the Arizona side of the Colorado in the grain fields near Fisher's Landing where he has a mobile home on leased government land.

The Coachella Valley south of Indio and the Palo Verde Valley bordering the Colorado River near Blythe provided most of the action for the abbreviated opening Monday of the 1975 California dove season.

Fish and Game wardens in both areas said hunters numbered in the thousands, and that most skillful shooters succeeded in getting a legal limit of 10 doves.

Hunter numbers were down, however, in other traditionally good dove-hunting areas, possibly because the opening of the season fell on a Monday.

From the Imperial Valley, Capt. Curt Kastner reported hunter numbers down about 25 per cent from last year, but that still left thousands in this heavily hunted area.

Warden Douglas Baker of Lancaster said hunter pressure in the Antelope Valley was down about 50 per cent, with just a few hundred hunters. Because most of the doves had left the valley prior to opening day, success was minimal. The best area was on the west side of the valley from 60th Street west.

Kastner said hunting was good in the Imperial Valley, with three areas standing out: the southern part of the valley along the Mexican border, east of Holtville along the East Highline Canal and on the Wister Unit of the Imperial Wildlife Area.

Five hunter casualties, two of them serious, were reported in the combined Imperial Valley-Coachella Valley area, one in the Palo Verde Valley.

Eighty-nine citations were issued in the Imperial-Coachella area, approximately 50 in the Blythe area. One of the most flagrant was the case of two hunters near Indio who had a combined total of 58 doves, 38 over the limit.

Despite the closing of the Yuma Indian Reservation to hunting, success in the Bard - Winterhaven - Yuma area was excellent, with white-winged doves constituting about 50 per cent of the bag.

Capt. James Reynolds of Blythe also reported large numbers of white-wings taken above Blythe in the Lost Lake and Wilson Road area. In the Palo Verde Valley, the white-wing bag was about one bird per limit.

Reynolds said the number of hunters in the Palo Verde Valley was the most in his memory. Despite the large number of cut grain fields available in which to hunt, some areas were crowded with hunters, he said.

Dove hunters were reported out in fair numbers again today in the Palo Verde Valley, although in other parts of California most of the hunters had gone home.

The Coachella Valley was another area to draw a record number of hunters, possibly hunters who would have gone to the Imperial Valley if the season had started on a Saturday. The best hunting was near Mecca and Thermal and along Jefferson Street near Monroe. A large number of doves remained in these areas today.

Stanford has captured one national championship in football and finished second once. The 1926 team, coached by Pop Warner, won 10 straight games before tying Alabama in the Rose Bowl. The team was awarded the Rissman Trophy, symbolic of the national championship. Stanford's unbeaten and untied 1940 team, coached by Clark Shaughnessy, was ranked second nationally behind Minnesota.

Pomona crashes hurt 3

Three persons were injured Wednesday when the autos they were in were involved in separate one-car crashes in Pomona, police reported.

James Collins, 27, 2487 Hemlock Way, Pomona, was hurt when his car hit a curb and overturned at Towne Avenue and Indigo Court shortly after 2 a.m.

And Maria E. Miranda, 25, 1398 S. Palomares St., Pomona, and her passenger, Rosa M. Moreno, 18, 1400 S. Palomares, Pomona, were injured when their car hit a fire hydrant and utility pole at Grand Avenue east of Rebecca street shortly before 7 a.m.

All three victims wer released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

A young Pomona man remained in good condition at Pomona Valley Community Hospital under treatment for injuries suffered Tuesday night when the motorcycle he was riding hit a dog in Pomona.

The rider, Andrew D. Stephens, 22, 954 E. Phillips Blvd., suffered a leg injury and pavement burns in the accident in Bonita Avenue west of Melbourne Avenue.

JILL MARIE HAWTHORNE, 10, was named Little Miss Liberty Los Angeles at the first children's Miss USA Liberty Pageant held in Arcadia. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hawthorne of Pomona.

New La Verne 4-H officers

Cathy O'Donnell has been elected president of the La Verne 4-H Club.

Other new officers are Colleen Woith, vice president; Peggy Ice, secretary; Margaret Munro, treasurer; Andrea Jones, reporter; Carla Bauer, photographer; and John O'Donnell, sergeant-at-arms.

The club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the La Verne Community Building.

Mexico Independence fete set in Pomona

Mexican Independence Day will be celebrated three days early Sept. 13 at Sharkie Park in Pomona.

The fiesta will begin at 2 p.m. and continue until 9 p.m.

Dances will be performed by Judy Torres and her group. There will be music by Los Jaramillos, and a puppet show will be presented by Pomona Public Library.

Sharkies and Sharkettes will operate refreshment booths.

The event is sponsored by the Bicultural Steering Committee of Pomona. The purpose of the committee is to create awareness and appreciation of the various ethnic cultures of the City of Pomona. The city Parks and Recreation Department is assisting the committee in preparations for a series of community events.

Anyone interested in joining the committee may contact Mrs. Nancy Lopez, chairman, at 628-8151.

Small investor stands to take biggest lump if N.Y. defaults

NEW YORK (AP) — Those involved in the complex fiscal problems of New York City agree that small investors, especially those concerned about retirement income, hold the lion's share of the city's bonds and notes.

With the city now face-to-face with a possible default, the owners of the city's $7.4 billion in bonds and $4.6 billion in notes may find that the purchase of the tax free municipal issues was not the solid, conservative investment they were seeking. If the city did default, payment of interest on its bonds would be delayed indefinitely.

The big New York City banks hold large amounts of city debt and have been involved in the complicated negotiations surrounding the city's fiscal crisis, but bond market dealers have been hearing from the smaller investors holding city paper.

"I bought New York City bonds because I needed all the income I could get as a widow with two children in private school," one woman told her broker.

"I bought them for college for my two sons and maybe something left over to start them in marriage or a business or something," one New York City man says.

Another told his dealer, "I bought them in case the time comes very soon when I want to tell the boss what he can do with his job."

Mayor Abraham D. Beame says he is in the same boat as many other city residents, holding $90,000 in city obligations.

Firm figures on who owns how many of New York City's bonds can not be verified, though, because banks are not required, and are unwilling, to disclose specific bond holdings. Also, the bonds themselves, unlike stock certificates, do not bear the names of the owners.

No records of ownership are kept by the city or anyone else.

James Lebenthal, executive vice president of the bond dealer Lebenthal & Co. says "certainly more than 100,000 and possibly as many as a million" small investors across the country own New York City issues.

Seth Glickenhaus, head of the bond dealership Glickenhaus & Co., puts the figure closer to 100,000.

In terms of dollars, a spokesman for New York City Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin estimates that perhaps 40 per cent or about $5 billion of the city's debts is held by individual investors, many of whom are former city employes on retirement.

"They bought city paper for safety. They may have risked marketability, But they never, never thought they were playing around with their life savings," says Lebenthal.

Who are these individuals? According to bond dealers, a typical New York City bond holder is in his 50s probably living in or near the New York area nearing retirement, with taxable income of at least $25,000 or more, looking fo steady, safe income.

In the past year, when yields on New York's securities went soaring to 7, 8, 9 per cent and beyond, the rank of individual bond holders expanded to include many more middle income families, many of whom, according to Lebenthal, were "inexperienced and unsophisticated.

"Individuals were faced with irresistible 8½ to 9 percent tax free yields," he says.

Last year the city made it possible for middle income people to buy notes that matured quickly by lowering the denominations to $10,800. Before the current fiscal crunch, the lowest note denominations were $25,000, out of the reach of all but wealthier individuals, banks and other institutions.

Where the rest of the city's bonds and notes are is equally unclear and the subject of much discussion among Wall Street analysts.

It is widely assumed that most of the city's debt not held by individuals is held by banks in and around the New York metropolitan area.

Analyst Warran Marcus of Salomon Brothers estimates the top six New York City banks hold around $800 million to $900 million in city debt right now. A recent study by Drexel Burnham & Co. analyst George Salem put the figure at $1.3 billion.

Scattered around the country are banks that hold perhaps $3 million to $5 million apiece in New York City debt, Marcus says.

And besides what the banks hold in their own portfolios, they are known to manage millions of dollars in city debt for their customers and trust accounts.

Three in area now deputies

Two Diamond Bar residents and one from Walnut were among 98 men and women who received graduation certificates recently from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Academy in ceremonies at the Hall of Administration.

Their graduation culminated an intensive 24-week period of basic police training which included courses in socilogy and psychology as well as aspects of law enforcement.

The class included 66 members of the sheriff's department in addition to officers from 14 other agencies.

Valley residents who were graduated were Connie L. White, 27, Walnut, who is a graduate of Manuel Arts High School in Los Angeles; Gregory N. Christopherson, 24, Diamond Bar, formerly of Long Beach; and Charles L. Bryant, 25, Diamond Bar, formerly from Portland, Ore.

Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess awarded the certificates and welcomed the class into law enforcement.

Chino permits show first drop

For the first time this year, monthly building valuations in Chino in July fell below the figure for the same month of 1974.

Valuations totaled $2,714,649, compared to $3,403,506 for July 1974.

However, building activity continues to set a record pace for the year, with $23,375,055 recorded for the first seven months of 1975. This compares to a $14,809,880 total for the same period last year.

Last month's valuations include a $1.3 million permit for the new San Bernardino County court building under construction at the Civic Center site.

Also 20 single family dwellings were valued at $824,937, 44 additions and repairs, $74,020, and 14 swimming pools, $70,217.

V.A. hospitals alerted on drug

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The top medical officer of the Veterans Administration has told its 171 hospitals to clamp tight controls on the drug suspected in a series of deadly respiratory failures at the VA hospital in Ann Arbor.

Dr. John D. Chase said the powerful paralyzing drug Pavulon, a derivative of the poison curare, should be locked up and handled with the same security precautions as narcotics.

In a telephone interview Wednesday, Chase confirmed the alert was sent last week over a teletype system serving the VA hospitals.

He said he recommended the hospitals "take precautionary measures and review the adequacy of security for patients."

Eleven persons have died at the Ann Arbor facility after suffering respiratory arrests since July 1. But officials said they plan to return to a more normal admissions policy on Monday, more than three weeks after the FBI was called into the case.

Admissions in recent weeks had been restricted to an emergency-only basis while the VA and a large detail of FBI agents sought to determine if a phantom killer was loose in the big hospital.

Some 51 major respiratory failures were recorded from July 1 to Aug. 15, when the FBI was called in. Eleven of the patients died, including Robert Antil, 41, of Detroit, who died Monday.

A mystery angle was added to his death when investigators found a blue substance in a breathing machine he used.

After an intensive 24-hour investigation, Dr. Ronald Bishop, chief of the VA medical service, said Wednesday, "My interpretation right now is that this material got put into the testate's humidifier as a result of an honest mistake."

He explained the solution, made up of one-third parts of sodium chloride, acetic acid and hydrogen peroxide generally is used to flush the bladders of patients under treatment for certain conditions.

He said if heat were applied to the three-part solution it would turn blue, as did the Antil solution.

Dr. Bishop said he could not say for certain how irritating the blue solution would be to a patient's lungs.

Detente dilemma: U.S., Russ refine, add missiles

LONDON (AP) — China's missile program has slowed down, but the United States and the Soviet Union continue to sharpen their nuclear strike forces despite detente, the Institute for Strategic Studies reported today.

At the same time, a new arms race is under way in the oil producing countries, the institute said. Iran and Saudi Arabia each tripled their military budget in the past year. Iran now spends more money on arms than Britain.

The institute, an international body of experts, analyzes data from government, military, academic and intelligence sources. Findings were published in "The Military Balance 1975 1976," the 17th of the institute's authoritative annual surveys.

"China continued her nuclear program more slowly than earlier projections have indicated," the institute said. It said there have been no Chinese nuclear tests since the 16th was conducted in June 1974.

An unspecified number of intermediate range ballistic missiles in the 1,750-mile category were added by Peking during the year. But the multistage intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) with a range of 3,500 miles sufficient to reach Moscow is still not deployed and there has been no full range test of China's planned 8,000-mile ICBM, although both have been under development for years, the institute said.

Turning to the superpowers, the institute said although the Vladivostok summit last November proposed ceilings on the number of strategic nuclear weapons, it has not checked their development by the United States and the Soviet Union.

In the past year, the United States completed programmed deployment of 550 Minuteman, 3 Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles each with multiple warheads, and deployed Poseidon missiles with multiple warheads in 25 submarines, among many improvements in its nuclear arsenal.

The Soviets, among other things, added 40 ICBMs to their stockpile over the past year, and deployed a new family of more accurate, large payload ICBMs identified by the institute as the SS-17, SS-18, and SS-19. Accuracy was reported to be within a quarter of a mile, comparable to U.S. missiles.

All these developments conform to guidelines agreed upon at Vladivostok for limiting offensive nuclear weapons until 1985. But the institute stressed that both sides are increasing their nuclear arsenals to permitted limits while little progress has been made in reducing conventional forces.

As it has each year since 1968, the institute listed a Soviet advantage in ICBMs over the United States — Russia's 1,618 to America's 1,054 on the 1975 count.

BOMBER PILOT — Megann Streeter, 19, flies four-engine DC6 planes to combat forest fires. With Miss Streeter is her father who operates Trans-West Air Service in Salt Lake City.

Woman, 19, mans cockpit of forest-fire bombers

By MIKE McCLOY
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A teen-aged woman has been in the cockpit of aircraft used this summer in battling some of the West's largest forest fires.

It takes strength and lots of concentration, says 19-year-old Megann Streeter, but she says she likes flying the four-engine, DC6 "slurry bombers" better than driving on a highway.

"You've got a job to do just like the men do, and if you can do the job, they don't say much," said the Salt Lake City woman, who flies with a charter airline operated by her father, John Streeter.

"It just takes time ... and age. I started flying when I was 13, and you can't solo until you're 16, can't get a private license until you're 17, or a commercial until you're 18."

She was a copilot on a DC6 used to drop fire retardants on a 13,000-acre fire in the Tonto National Forest of central Arizona and smaller blazes around the state.

Later, she was sent to Southern California when two major fires and a host of smaller ones broke out.

Miss Streeter, who has logged 1,200 air hours and holds a commercial multi-engine pilot's license, says there aren't as many crashes as is popularly believed. She adds, "There aren't as many maniacs in the air as there are on the ground.

"Flying forest fires tends to be a little more hazardous. You're flying low to the ground, and up canyons."

In a strong wind or an emergency, Miss Streeter said she uses both arms and legs to operate the copilot's controls.

When she's not flying, Miss Streeter often is on one-hour flight standby.

"It's a little hard on dating," she said. "Every time you go out, they call. It's almost guaranteed."

The job has long hours and lots of travel, Miss Streeter said.

"I don't think too many would like it — man or woman," she added.

But there's a special feeling about being airborne.

"It's just kind of a feeling that you're more alone than on the ground," Miss Streeter said. "And you're working with people that know what's going on."

Adam and Eve didn't eat an apple, but an apricot

OJAI (AP) — Nestled in the courtyards at the Presbyterian church here, Mary Lapham Hunt has a garden with 50 of the 200 plants mentioned in the Bible.

Conspicuous by its absence is the apple tree.

"Adam and Eve didn't really eat an apple," Mrs. Hunt said. "Apples didn't grow in the Mideast until about 50 years ago.

"But Milton called it an apple in 'Paradise Lost' and that popularized it. Most botanists today agree it was an apricot."

Mrs. Hunt's garden sprouted from an exhibit of Biblical plants she exhibted at a garden club flower show more than 20 years ago.

"I just got fascinated with the question of whether the Biblical plants that grew 2,000 years ago would grow in Ojai today where the soil and climate or so similar," she said.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Sept. 5, the 248th day of 1975. There are 117 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1774, the first Continental Congress assembled at Carpenter's Hall in Philadelphia.

On this date:

In 1670, William Penn was arrested for holding a Quaker meeting in Grace Church in London.

In 1882, members of labor unions held the first Labor Day parade in the United States as 10,000 workmen marched in New York City with placards and banners.

In 1885, Jake Gumper of Fort Wayne, Ind., bought the first gasoline pump to be manufactured in the United States.

In 1905, the Treaty of Portsmouth, N.H., ended the Russo-Japanese war.

In 1941, during World War I, German forces captured the city of Rheims.

In 1939, the United States proclaimed neutrality in World War II.

Ten years ago: Fierce battles broke out south of Danang air base in South Vietnam.

Five years ago: American B52 bombers hit Viet Cong targets in the Mekong Delta of South Vietnam.

One year ago: British police thwarted an attempted theft of the famous Stone of Scone from Westminster Abbey.

Today's birthdays: Former Att. Gen. John N. Mitchell is 62. Movie producer Daryl Zanuck is 73.

Thought for today: Common sense is not an issue in politics — it's an affliction. Will Rogers.

Bicentennial footnote: The Continental Congress met in Philadelphia, then adjourned, from day to day, until Sept. 13, because of insufficient business.

Skating record

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Clint Shaw, who claims a new record for endurance roller-skating, wants to skate the length of the Great Wall of China.

But the 34-year-old Canadian, who completed 179 continuous hours on his skates Monday, sees one problem with the 1,500-mile wall.

"I talked to some people who had been there and they said it would be pretty rough — the wall is very uneven," he said.

He began circling a rink in suburban Reseda Aug. 23 to break the previous mark listed in the Guinness World Book of Records of 147 hours set in 1935.

Shaw, who holds two long-distance skating marks, took five-minute breaks each hour. Otherwise, he ate and even changed his socks while continuing to skate.

"It's the greatest sensation I've ever felt," said Shaw.

In London, England, policemen are called "bobbies." Here is how they got their name:

Many years ago, before there were any real policemen, the job of protecting life and property was usually performed by ordinary citizens.

One day, a famous British statesman named Sir Robert Peel got the idea of organizing a trained police force that would always be ready to deal with almost any emergency.

Since Sir Robert's nickname was "Bobbie," the first uniformed policemen were called "bobbies," after Sir Robert, and the nickname has stuck with them ever since.

American policemen are often called "cops." In earlier days, policemen were called constables. The nickname "cop" is a shortened form of "copper," a name that refers to the copper buttons and badges policemen once wore.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (C/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Attitude testing in Pennsylvania schools stirs some parent griping

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's government wants to know more about your child than just whether he can read, write and multiply.

Does he enjoy school? And like his teachers?

Does he get along with pupils of different races and religions? Smoke marijuana or drink beer if his parents do the same?

And what's his opinion of himself?

The state Education Department says measuring attitudes is as crucial as testing ability to read.

However, a group of parents and educators, and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) disagree. They call attitude testing an invasion of privacy, damaging to children who are sensitive about revealing their innermost thoughts.

The five-year-old testing program is called Educational Quality Assessment (EQA). Each year, one-third of the public school pupils in the fifth, eighth and 11th grades receive the four-hour tests, which require 500 responses. About 80 per cent of the questions involve attitudes.

The purpose is to measure what taxpayers are getting for their $2 billion-plus annual investment in public schools.

All questions are related to Pennsylvania's 10 goals of quality education, including teaching children to understand themselves and others, acquire a positive attitude toward learning, be creative, prepare for a changing world and acquire basic word and number skills.

"You can't get away from the fact that attitude has an influence on learning," said J. Robert Coldiron, director of the program.

"For instance, when there's a close relationship between home and school, students perform better in school."

In the testing students are asked whether parents enjoy hearing about school, if parents feel school does a good job, and also whether mom and dad support school programs.

The results provide information on an entire school, not the individual student. Only a written request from parents can excuse a youngster from the entire test, but the pupil can independently decline to answer individual questions.

Because some schools administer tests over several days, students are required to include their names on the answer sheets — which are collected and returned. The name is torn off before the multiple choice sheet is finally handed in.

Starting with the next round of testing in March, names won't be required at all.

"We don't want kids having their constitutional rights violated," Coldiron said. "There was a possibility of teachers doing that (by seeing the names) and we eliminated that possibility."

The opposition is not satisfied.

"We don't think it's enough," said J. Thomas Menaker, a Harrisburg attorney and chairman of the ACLU's committee on the testing program. "We don't think schools ought to be in this kind of thing — Big Brother watching over you to see if you like your mother."

Joan Januro of Pittsburgh, president of the Pennsylvania Coalition for Basic Education, a parent-educator group, agreed.

"Just being asked questions such as 'I don't like myself very much' could be upsetting to a sensitive or serious child," she said.

She also questioned whether the answers given are accurate in predicting behavior.

Mrs. Janaro, a former New York City teacher who has children in Pittsburgh schools, said there are 500 subscribers to her group's newsletter. There is no membership list.

Coldiron said the test results provide districts with comparisons to similar schools elsewhere. For instance, a ghetto school will not be compared to one in the affluent suburbs.

"There's a fear the state is taking over," Coldiron said. "It's purely up to the school districts as to how they use the results. They have the ultimate decision to make. The district can disagree with what we're measuring and discount those scores."

To give each school a score and a ranking the state picks the right answer to each question, although results are tabulated only for the entire school — not for individuals.

"If the kid doesn't enjoy work at school it's scored as wrong. But the answer shows the school should look at its programs," Coldiron said.

What have schools done after receiving test results?

The Mechanicsburg School District in suburban Harrisburg wasn't satisfied with answers to questions on understanding others.

"In one building youngsters have written letters to the elderly," said Marlin Lippert, assistant superintendent. "In another building there were conversations in classrooms about others who are different."

The Education Department also uses the results to show thinking of students across the state. For example, Coldiron said, 11th grade results show:

—There's a decline in attitude toward school and learning but greater appreciation of individual achievement.

—There's more discomfort between students of different religious backgrounds than between those of different races.

—Students feel there's not enough variety in classrooms, with teachers of different subjects using the same teaching styles.

—Most students feel teachers know what they're talking about.

—Most students are pretty sure of themselves.

—Almost half the students feel the schools have too much control.

The Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA), representing most of the state's teachers, has cautiously accepted the testing.

"We support the EQA proposition in its objectives, but our membership must be knowledgeable and have an understanding of it," said the group's magazine, the Pennsylvania School Journal. "We will monitor its actions and results."

Slide rule obsolete?

LA JOLLA (AP) — Mathematics students can no longer find a slide rule at the University of California at San Diego.

"Slide rules are totally obsolete," says Paul Mares, bookstore manager.

Instead, there are electronic calculators ranging in cost from $60 to $800.

The slide rules have been taken off the shelves or sold, Mares said recently.

Fourth season

Veteran actors surface

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two new movies have corraled a sizeable number of Hollywood's veteran performers.

The Seplling-Goldberg Production for ABC-TV, "Murder on Flight 502," includes such figures as Theodore Bikel, Dane Clark, Laraine Day, Peter Lawford, George Maharis, Hugh O'Brian, Walter Pidgeon and Robert Stack. Also Sonny Bono.

Paramount has a bigger crew doing "cameos" in the vintage Hollywood comedy, "Won Ton Ton, The Dog Who Saved Hollywood." Among them: Don Ameche, Joan Blondell, Rory Calhoun, Lee J. Cobb, Jackie Coogan, Dennis Day, Yvonne DeCarlo, William Demarest, Andy Devine, Stepin Fetchit, George Jessel, Dorothy Lamour, Victor Mature, Virginia Mayo, Ethel Merman, Ann Miller, Aldo Ray, the Ritz Brothers, Mickey Rooney, Rudy Vallee, Henry Wilcoxon and Henny Youngman.

PCC sets auditions

A busy season of concerts, including performances at the Los Angeles County Fair, Cal Poly, a women's prison and a chorale festival, will be launched by the Pomona Community Chorus at its first rehearsal in Room M-1, Garey High School, Pomona, at 6:45 p.m. Monday.

Auditions for new singers will be held at the same time. The chorus is open to adults and young people, male and female. Ray Woods directs. The repertoire includes religious, classical, folk, jazz and popular music.

Now in its fourth season, the chorus will open its concert schedule with a program at the Los Angeles County Fair Sept. 27.

Three concerts will be given in the University Theater of Cal Poly, the first being a Christmas program Dec. 13. Other concerts scheduled are at the California Institution for Women, Chino, Oct. 18; a Southern California choral festival March 6, and a Spring Pops Concert May 15. The chorus also accepts invitations to perform for churches, service clubs and other community organizations throughout the year.

Audition appointments can be made with Woods at 623-5251, Ext. 332, or at 983-5265.

Chamber symphony plans five concerts

The California Chamber Symphony, conducted by founder-director Henri Temianka, will give five evening concerts at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center and UCLA's Royce Hall during the 1975-76 season.

The series, celebrating the Bicentennial, will feature prominent American soloists in programs tracing America's musical evolution from pre-Independence times to Gershwin, Bartok and Barber.

Harpsichordist Anthony Newman, joined by Susanne Shapiro and Elizabeth Hamilton, will be featured with the orchestra in the two Bach Concertos for Three Harpsichords during the Baroque Marathon at the Music Center Oct. 22. The program entitled "Before the Dawn's Early Light," will also include Bach and Handel violin sonatas.

"What Else Happened in 1776?" is the title of the Nov. 16 concert at Royce Hall, featuring works by Mozart and Haydn written in 1776, including the Mozart Concerto for Three Pianos with James Fields, Patricia Michaelian and Kiyoko Takeuti, a trio of young artists already launched on their international careers.

Leonard Pennario is the soloist in the Dec. 7 concert entitled "Dvorak Discovers America in 1892," with two major works by Dvorak, and the First Piano Concerto by the late Russian composer, Dimitri Shostakovich.

Violin prodigy Dylana Jenson will play Barber's Violin Concerto in the Jan. 11 program called "Declaration of Musical Independence," which will also include music by Gershwin, Milhaud and Weill.

The final concert Feb. 1, with Efrem Zimbalist Jr. as narrator, has as its theme "America, Haven for the Oppressed," with music by the great composers who sought refuge in America, from Bartok to Korngold and Schoenberg.

Season tickets are on sale at the Chamber Symphony Society of California, 2373 Westwood Blvd. Information is available at (213) 475-8761.

Ex-reptile

The Atlantic green turtle is a reptile adapted for life in the sea. The front legs are developed as broad flippers. Most species of turtle can draw the head, legs and tails into the shell for protection.

Hollywood Bowl in final week

Erich Leinsdorf, former assistant to Arturo Toscanini and onetime conductor of the Cleveland Symphony, the Boston Symphony and the Metropolitan Opera, will direct the Los Angeles Philharmonic in concerts Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the final week of the summer season at the Hollywood Bowl.

The husband-wife piano duo of Misha and Cipa Dichter will present a joint recital at the bowl Wednesday night. Misha Dichter will also be soloist in Brahms' Concerto No. 1 in D Minor for Piano and Orchestra in the Tuesday night program.

The Thursday night concert will include Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" and Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 in D Minor ("Choral") with soloists Delcina Stevenson, soprano; Nina Hinson, mezzo-soprano; William Harness, tenor, and Marvin Hayes, bass-baritone. The Los Angeles Master Chorale, conducted by Roger Wagner, will take part.

The Friday and Saturday night concerts will offer Grieg's Concerto in A Minor for Piano and Orchestra with pianist Earl Wild as soloist. Also on the program will be Liszt's Concerto No. 1 in E Flat for Piano and Orchestra, with Wild as soloist, works by Johann Strauss Jr., and Handel's "Music for the Royal Fireworks." The latter will be accompanied by the traditional fireworks display.

All four programs start at 8:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the box office and at Liberty, Mutual and Wallich's agencies.

Dance school to open

The new dance studio is equipped with wall mirrors, barres and raised wooden floors.

The curriculum offers dance classes for girls and boys from 3½ years up and for adults. Included are preschool ballet, classical ballet, jazz, tap and Highland dancing, as well as tap and ballet classes for teenagers and mothers.

A new dance school, Valley Dance Arts, will open Monday at 6040 Riverside Drive, Chino. Open house and registration for classes will be held from 6 to 9 p.m.

Teacher-director of Valley Dance Arts is Linda Parker who has danced professionally since the age of 13, including appearances in Broadway stage productions and television shows. She has taught in the Chino area for two years

PUTTING ON THE DOG — The popular rock group, Three Dog Night, will perform at 8:15 tonight through Sunday at the Universal Amphitheater, Los Angeles. The group's title derives from a phrase of Australian sheepherders who used their sheepdogs for warmth when sleeping in the open. A "three-dog night" is very cold. The group has 14 gold records, including "Easy To Be Hard" and "One."

MERRY MAID — Dick Gautier as Robin Hood has a frolic with Misty Rowe as Maid Marian in Paramount Television's new comedy series, When Things Were Rotten. The show, spoofing the legend of Robin Hood and his Merry Men, airs on ABC-TV at 8 o'clock Wednesday nights.

Radiation

Radiation is energy transmitted by electromagnetic waves.

Independence

The United States granted the Philippines independence, July 4, 1946.

Duke film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie rights to the life of the late musical great Duke Ellington have been acquired by Larry Harmon Productions.

Harmon announced that he has completed negotiations with the musician's son, Mercer Ellington, for a film biography. The producer hopes to release the film by Christmas 1976.

Name game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Question: which of the title roles in "Mother, Jugs and Speed" will be played by Bill Cosby and Raquel Welch?

Answer: Cosby will be Mother in the 20th Century-Fox comedy-action caper, and Miss Welch plays Jugs. They play ambulance drivers in the film to be directed by Peter Yates ("Bullitt"). Still to be cast is Speed.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE TO CREDITORS OF BULK TRANSFER AND OF INTENTION TO TRANSFER ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE LICENSE(S)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the Creditors of LARRY N. LOWE AND PATSY R. LOWE, husband and wife Social Security No. 404 40 5874, Transferor and Licensee, whose business address is 1600 West Holt, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California 91768, that a bulk transfer, is about to be made to JOO YONG LEE AKA WILLIAM J. LEE and JUNG SOOK LEE, Social Security No. 567 25 2103, Transferee and Intended Transferee, whose business address is 1435 W. Laurel No. 7, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California 91768.

The property is described in general as: All stock in trade, fixtures, equipment and good will of a certain drive-in dairy business known as DRIFTWOOD DAIRY and located at 1600 West Holt in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and transfer the following alcoholic beverage license (or licenses): off sale beer and wine Number 20-13803, now issued to premises located at 1600 W. Holt, Pomona, California for the premises located at 1600 W. Holt, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

That the amount of purchase price or consideration in connection with said transfer of said license (or licenses) and said business, including the estimated inventory, is the sum of $16,500.00, which consists of the following: Checks drawn on account of transferee executed by transferee $5,000, Tangible property to be replaced by cash executed by transferee $7,500, intangible property $4,000.

All other business names and addresses used by the Transferor within three years last past so far as known to the transferee are: same.

That it has been agreed between said licensee and intended transferee as required by Sec. 24074 of the Business and Professions Code, that the consideration for the transfer of said business and transfer of said license is to be paid only after said transfer has been approved by said Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

That a sale, transfer and assignment of the aforesaid stock in trade, fixtures, equipment and good will of said business will be made, and the consideration therefor together with the consideration for the transfer and assignment of the aforesaid license (or licenses) is to be consummated on or after the first day of October, 1975, at the escrow department of Bank of America NT & SA El Monte Office, at 10943 Valley Mall, in the City of El Monte, County of Los Angeles, State of California, provided that the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has approved said transfer of said license.

If YOU purchase a FIAT from Frank White Imports
In The Month of September 1975 — Frank White will pay
ALL MAINTENANCE ON YOUR CAR . . .
Drive FREE for 12 Months or 12,000 Miles!!!!!

The Fiat 128.

More legroom for passengers in the front seat than America's most luxurious cars.

The $9,000 Imperial 42.8 inches
The $9,500 Continental 43.3 inches
The $10,000 Eldorado 43.4 inches
The $2,741* Fiat 128 43.8 inches

At Fiat, we've designed our cars to make the most of what they have.

80% of the Fiat 128 is for people and luggage. Only 20% is for the engine.

Our car will cruise all day at 80 mph, powered by an engine that's 1/6 the size of the Cadillac's.

And the 128 has standard equipment that isn't in the opulentmobiles even as options. Does this mean we expect you to give up your desire to buy a Cadillac and buy a Fiat? No.

It means you shouldn't give up your desire for a Fiat and buy a Cadillac.

1975 Manufacturer's suggested retail price POE. Inland transportation, dealer preparation and local taxes additional. Overseas delivery and leasing arranged through your dealer.

FIAT
A lot of car. Not a lot of money.

3 killed, 38 injured in terror blast in London hotel lobby

LONDON (AP) — A bomb exploded in the lobby of the Hilton Hotel near Buckingham Palace at lunchtime today, killing three persons and seriously injuring 38, police said. A device that appeared to be a second bomb was found later and demolition experts were dismantling it.

"I saw several people thrown to the floor," said one of the wounded, British businessman Edgar Dickinson, 48. "Some of them were screaming. It was like the end of the world. A bright flash and then everything went black."

Associated Newspapers, publisher of the Daily Mail and London Evening News, said an anonymous caller with an Irish accent telephoned 10 minutes before the blast at the Hilton and warned the bomb would go off.

The 28-story hotel, facing Hyde Park and only a few minutes walk from the American Embassy, was filled to capacity with 700 guests at the time of the explosion.

It was the fifth bombing in or near London in the past nine days. In the four previous blasts, one person was killed and 30 were wounded. Police suspect terrorists of the Irish Republic Army are responsible for the wave of bombings.

The main part of today's explosion seemed to come from the center of the lobby by the elevator, one witness said. He said there were about 100 people in the lobby at the time and there appeared to have been no warning.

The witness, Anthony Peters, British Airways manager at the hotel, who escaped injury, said, "There was an almighty explosion. The whole place went black. When I looked up afterwards the impression was of pieces of carpet burning."

Outside the hotel, on Park Lane in the heart of the fashionable West End, a middle-aged nurse, blood spattered over her white uniform, stood shaking beside a wall, mumbling over and over, "it was terrible."

A waiter in red jacket and black pants sat on the curb and said "I saw a woman with both legs blown off below the knee. There was blood and black smoke everywhere."

Other hotel employes herded out of the building said scything glass caused many casualties.

A chef working in kitchens at the top of the hotel said there was a "terrific explosion which shook the whole building. We had no warning.

"We rushed down to the ground floor and could see the front hall wrecked. There were a number of casualties lying on the ground.

Free-lance journalist Sally Mordant, who was passing by the hotel just before the explosion, said "it was a loud bang - everything seemed to happen so suddenly. People of all nationalities were standing around just dazed.

"One minute everyone was walking about normally; the next it was complete chaos."

The explosion was heard over the Mayfair area, and almost immediately, their sirens wailing, ambulances sped to the hotel. Police cordoned off the area.

Woman Manson follower attempts to shoot Ford

President uninjured in incident; report revolver was loaded

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A young woman said to be a follower of convicted murderer Charles Manson pointed a loaded pistol at President Ford today as he shook hands along a Sacramento street, but security men quickly seized her.

The President flinched away, then continued his walk to the California state capitol.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen identified the woman as Lynette Fromme, 27, said to have been one of Manson's followers.

The scene was one of some confusion, but the incident appeared to have been an assassination attempt. The President was unharmed.

"It didn't go off," the red-turbaned woman shouted as Ford's guards seized her.

Nessen said the gun was about two feet from Ford. He said Larry Buendrof, a Secret Service agent walking behind the President, "saw the hand of a woman come up between two people in the crowd." There was a gun in the hand.

"It was established that the gun was a .45, and it was loaded," Nessen said.

A witness to the incident said she heard no click that would have indicated the woman pulled the trigger.

Another witness, Roy Miller, said that as Miss Fromme was wrestled to the ground and handcuffed she cried:

"Don't worry. It didn't go off, fellows, it didn't go off."

Others said the woman also shouted: "He is not a public servant. He is not a public servant."

Agents wrestled her to the ground, seized her weapon and handcuffed her.

A woman who witnessed the incident said that a Secret Service agent had observed the gun and grabbed the woman's hand, raising it aloft.

Sacramento police took custody of the woman, identified by the Secret Service as Lynette Alice Fromme of Sacramento.

The incident occurred as the President strolled from the Senator Hotel toward an appearance at the nearby state capitol, shaking hands with the crowd along the way.

Nessen said it was Secret Service man Buendorf who seized the pistol from Miss Fromme.

Nessen said Buendorf cut his hand, possibly from the firing hammer of the weapon, as he grabbed it from Miss Fromme before forcing her to the ground.

An eyewitness said Ford apparently saw the gun before anyone else, and moved his hand toward it.

"I saw the President shake hands with one person," said Miller, who was standing nearby. "He went over to shake her hand. He saw the gun. He moved to protect against it.

"And then a Secret Service man dove for her right away and wrestled the gun out of her hand and grabbed her," Miller said.

WOULD-BE ASSASSIN

Woman, who allegedly pointed gun at President Ford as he walked from his hotel to State Capitol in Sacramento today, is taken into custody. She was identified as Lynette Fromme, 27.

Weekend scorcher predicted

One of the hottest weekends of the year is predicted for the valley by the National Weather Service with temperatures expected to reach 100 at several locations.

The heat will be made more uncomfortable by first stage smog episodes, which may reach 30 parts of ozone per million parts of air here today and Saturday.

A cooling trend is ahead, but is not expected to arrive here until Monday, according to the weatherman.

The mercury hit 96 degrees in West Pomona and 101 at the Ontario airport Thursday. A reading of 98 in Pomona and 101 in Ontario is predicted for today.

Salt Lake City bldg. bombed

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A bomb exploded early today in a 17th floor restroom of the Kennecott Building, causing an estimated $50,000 damage, authorities said. No injuries were reported.

No charges to be filed on Silver

A deputy district attorney said today he will not file misdemeanor charges against attorney Stephen Silver, who was placed under citizen's arrest by Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire for allegedly disrupting a City Council meeting last month.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Chuck Wolfe said that the charges will not be filed because of a "potential conflict of interest" on the part of the District Attorney's Office, due to its close working relationship with both the city and Pomona Police Department.

Silver, chief salary negotiator for the Pomona Police Officers Association, was placed under citizen's arrest by Lepire at the council meeting of Aug. 18 when he refused to cease speaking in protest of the council's adoption of a wage ordinance granting police a 5 per cent salary increase.

The ordinance was later nullified when a three-year salary agreement was reached between the city and police.

Silver has filed a $1.1 million claim with the city, charging false arrest.

City officials made no comment today on the district attorney's decision not to file charges, but it is expected that the matter will be discussed by the council during an executive session in the near future.

Wolfe stated that the city could go to the state Attorney General's Office to seek prosecution of the charge.

The arrest had been under review by the District Attorney's Office in Pomona for some three weeks.

But drop in Chino; Claremont highest

Property taxes up in 8 valley cities

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Property taxes are going up in eight valley communities this year, but in Chino the rates will go down, according to unofficial figures reported today.

Claremont becomes the city with the highest tax over-all tax rate in the entire area, with a typical levy of more than $16 per $100 of assessed valuation, up $1.50 from last year.

This compares with Chino's over-all rate of $11.50.

A home worth $30,000 will be taxed about $1,200 in Claremont, but only $863 in Chino, a difference of $337.

While cities in the West End of San Bernardino County remained relatively stable in their tax rates, the five cities on the Los Angeles County side of the valley all showed substantial increases.

Most of those increases were attributed to the rising cost of education. While school tax rates on the Los Angeles County side were going up by 86 cents to by more than $1.15, the West End managed to hold the line to 10 cents or less, with Chino showing a decrease of more than 10 cents.

Officials also blamed Los Angeles County government for the higher tax rates. The Board of Supervisors approved an increase of nearly 16½ cents per $100 of assessed valuation while supervisors in San Bernardino County were able to hold the same tax rate as last year.

While only one city in the West End — Ontario — raised its tax rate, only one city on the Los Angeles County side — Walnut — was able to cut taxes. Pomona's tax rate of $2.4950 remained the same.

The Claremont rate was the highest by far of any city in the area. School taxes went up $1.16, and city taxes rose 27 cents. The city's tax rate will include more than 78 cents per $100 valuation to pay the county for fire protection during the current year. The city no longer has its own fire department.

Claremont's taxes will rise even more when its share of the county library levy is established later this month.

The steepest cut in Municipal taxes came from Walnut, where the City Council slashed levies by 22 cents. Chino cut city taxes by a half cent. Upland trimmed its rate by about one-quarter cent and Montclair's rate will remain the same.

City taxes will be raised in San Dimas, La Verne, and Ontario.

All cities on the Los Angeles County side will pay a $4.5184 county levy, up 16.41 cents; a flood control district levy of 38.30 cents, up 1.21 cents; an 8-cent county school district levy, nearly double that of last year, a 16-cent rate for the Metropolitan Water District, down 1 cent, and a 7-cent levy for the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, the same as last year.

The tax rates and breakdowns were compiled by deputies for Los Angeles County Auditor Mark H. Bloodgood and San Bernardino County Auditor John Bulman.

Here are the cities with their over-all and individual tax rates, and comparisons with last year's taxes in parentheses:

POMONA: City tax, $2.4950 ($2.4950); school taxes, $5.9107 ($4.7977); Mt. San Antonio College, $.7039 ($.6855), sanitation district 21 $.2545 ($.2599). Total: $14.4772 ($13.2218).

CLAREMONT: City tax, $2.5445, ($2.2724); schools, $7.1857 ($6.1169); Citrus College $.6088 ($.6371); sanitation District 21, $.2545 ($.2599); Total: $16.0042 ($14.5123).

SAN DIMAS: City $.9000 ($.7500); schools, $5.9404 ($5.0568); MSAC $.7039 ($.6855); Consolidated Fire Protection District $.7838 ($.7587); county library $.2792 ($.2607); lighting district $.5000 ($.4500); Consolidated Sewer Maintenance District, $.0663 ($.0661); Sanitation District 22 $.2604 ($.2605); Total: $14.5655 ($13.2536).

LA VERNE: City $2.5237 ($2.2835); schools, $5.9404 ($5.0568); MSAC $.7039 ($.6855); library, $.2792 ($.2607); Sanitation District 21 $.2545 ($.2599). Total: $14.8322 ($13.5117).

WALNUT: City $.6500 ($.8700); schools, $5.9602 ($5.1439); MSAC $.7039 ($.6855); library, $.2792 ($.2607); lighting district, $.4464 ($.5080); sewer district $.0663 ($.0661); Sanitation District 21 $.2545 ($.2599); fire protection district $.7838 ($.7587) Total: $14.2758 ($13.5181).

In San Bernardino County all West End cities will pay a county tax of $3.0034, the same as last year, a Metropolitan Water District tax of $.1600, one cent less than in 1974, a tax of $.5200 to the Chino Basin Municipal Water District, up four cents, and $.2145 to the Chino Basin Water Conservation district, the same as last year.

The rest of the taxes are:

CHINO: City $1.7481 ($1.7531); schools $5.7204 ($5.8271); library, $.1432 ($.1432). Total $11.5098 ($11.5913).

ONTARIO: City $1.8852 ($1.6352); schools, $6.1157 ($6.1447). Total $11.8988 ($11.6478).

UPLAND: City $1.8621 ($1.5650); schools $6.2343 ($6.2193). Total: $11.9943 ($11.9522).

MONTCLAIR: City $1.7430 ($1.7430); schools $6.1157 ($6.1447); library $.1432 ($.1432). Total $11.8998 ($11.8688).

Lest residents feel bad about their property taxes, the highest rate anywhere in the Southland is the Los Virgines district, an unincorporated area in north Los Angeles county, where the levy this year will be in excess of $25 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Girl, 12, going blind, off to see the sights—for last time

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'll go to the end of the world," read the legend on young Cindy Waite's T-shirt.

But first she came to America, to savor the sight of Manhattan's awesome skyscrapers, of the neon-lit, casino-lined Las Vegas strip, of cable cars rumbling up the hills of San Francisco.

Cindy is going blind.

A 12-year-old who has already lost her left eye, Cindy arrived at Kennedy Airport on Thursday, accompanied by her mother Ann Waite, 42, and her sister Dawn, 18, from their native Bournemouth, England.

"I had measles when she was born," Mrs. Waite explained. "It is a congenital disease which has caused cataracts to grow at the back of her eyes."

"Doctors have told her she does not have too much time left before she becomes totally blind," Mrs. Waite said. Eleven operations and thick, horn-rimmed glasses could not preserve Cindy's sight.

"There's nothing that can be done, she said."

So the Waite family went hard to work in February and earned $3,300 for "the best holiday possible," a 17-day, coast-to-coast journey through the United States. Cindy's father, Gordon, stayed home on England's south coast, where he drives a truck with heavy construction equipment.

The first stop on Cindy's itinerary was the Empire State Building. On Sunday the Waites depart for New Orleans, with its French Quarter and blaring jazz bands.

Then on to the Grand Canyon in Arizona and the gaudy world of Nevada gambling houses. Fantasyland and Mickey Mouse at Disneyland. San Francisco's Golden Gate. Then back East to the thundering rush of Niagara Falls.

The Waites return to England on Sept. 20, and Cindy said she would like a second trip; this one around the world like her T-shirt says.

But she knows her sight will not last much longer and already plans to become a social worker aiding the sightless.

"I want to help other people," she said.

First test of state law on farm labor vote due tonight

By JOE BIGHAM
Associated Press Writer

The first state-sanctioned farm labor representation election in California is scheduled tonight, but a court order has cast doubt whether ballots will be counted immediately.

The secret ballot vote was called for Molera Agricultural Group, a Watsonville-area artichoke ranch which employs less than 20 workers, the state Agricultural Labor Relations Board reported Thursday.

Both unions struggling for dominance in farm labor organizing have qualified for the ballot.

The AFL-CIO United Farm Workers filed the original petition Tuesday showing election authorization cards from more than half Molera's workers. The Teamsters Union followed with signatures from at least 28 per cent of the work force.

Under California's new law, the first in the nation to provide farm worker union elections, field hands also have the right to vote for no union representation.

The question of counting Molera's ballots was left in doubt by a temporary restraining order issued in Sacramento County Superior Court late Thursday which prohibits the ALRB from counting ballots if the rancher belongs to the Western Growers Association.

An ALRB spokesman in Salinas did not know whether the Molera ranch is a member of Western Growers, which holds a master contract with the Teamsters covering 30,000 workers at 140 produce ranches, mostly in the Salinas Valley.

The Teamsters filed a "multi-employer" petition this week calling for a single representation unit at all those ranches, and Western Growers filed suit Thursday to make its members a single bargaining unit.

Judge Joseph A. DeCristoforo temporarily barred the ALRB from counting ballots on any Western Growers ranches until all those elections are held. He did not, however, ban separate elections at individual ranches.

The ALRB was ordered to show cause Sept. 16 why the order should not remain in force.

Two or three other elections probably will be scheduled in the San Joaquin Valley and a couple in Southern California on Saturday as the ALRB staff completes processing of the first batch of election petitions filed Tuesday.

Few elections have been held in the fields during the decade the two unions have been competing because farm labor was left out of the National Labor Relations Act adopted in the 1930s to establish industrial union rights and restrictions.

The Cesar Chavez-led UFW won a vote at a major table grape ranch in the mid-1960s, but most contracts since have been based on contentions to growers that one union or the other represented a majority of workers.

UFW: raid crippled union effort

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The United Farm Workers of America contends the Teamsters Union and operators of a Ventura mushroom farm used a Border Patrol raid to undercut UFW organizing efforts.

In an unfair labor practices complaint filed with the state's Agricultural Labor Relations Board Thursday, the UFW said the raid at West Foods, Inc., "wiped out our majority" at the 30-acre farm.

The raid earlier Thursday netted about 30 workers, Eliseo Medina of the UFW said here. He said those arrested included a UFW organizer and one of the observers for the union representation election scheduled Saturday at West Foods.

"Clearly this was done to destroy the majority we had built up," said Medina, director of UFW organizing for Ventura County.

Medina said most of those arrested were illegal aliens.

"But the company and the Teamsters knew they were not legally in the country and never saw fit to say anything up until two days before the election.

Strike threat hanging over movie pay dispute

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spokesman for the 18,000-member International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employes (IATSE) says a walkout could come at any time during bargaining with movie and television producers.

The talks are aimed at averting the strike which would virtually halt production of theatrical and television film productions as well as videotaped TV programs.

The threatened walkout would be Hollywood's first major motion picture and television strike in 30 years.

"Unless there is significant movement on the part of management, it appears the only matter to be decided is when to call the strike," IATSE attorney Leo Geffner said Thurseay.

However, John Pavlick of the Association of Motion Picture and Television Producers (AMPTP) said only that talks were continuing.

Jury sentences killer of five to death

REDDING (AP) — Robert Paul Sander, convicted of five sniper murders at a Northern California motel, has become the 23rd man to face death in the state's gas chamber.

The jury that last week found Sander guilty of the slayings issued a verdict Thursday requiring a mandatory death sentence for the former Cincinnati department store employe.

Sander, 24, was accused of spraying 30-30 rifle fire from a balcony of the Ship Ashore motel-restaurant. The dead included the motel manager and his wife, a maid and a vacationing couple.

Two persons were also wounded in the March 2 shootings at Smith River near the Oregon border.

Sander had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

But jurors rejected his insanity plea Thursday and found that the five murders were connected.

Under California law, that verdict requires the death penalty.

Judge Frank Petersen scheduled formal sentencing for Sept. 22.

Slim and bearded, Sander gazed without apparent emotion as the eight woman, four-man panel was polled on the penalty phase of the trial.

He also showed no emotion when the murder convictions were returned last Thursday night and Friday morning, and when his request to drop his insanity plea was rejected by the court.

He will be sent to San Quentin Prison's death row.

"It doesn't really make me happy to convict somebody, but if anybody was really guilty, it was he," said Robert Weir, Del Norte County district attorney.

Sander's attorney, Philip Schafer, told reporters, "I think I tried hard" and attributed failure to achieve an insanity finding "to my own inadequacies."

Appeal of the verdict to the U.S. Supreme Court is automatic.

Claremont High students need information cards

Each student at Claremont High School must return a parent-signed emergency information card, acknowledgement of receipt of a rights and responsibilities form, and an attendance office registration card before he may pick up his class schedule before school opens.

Official class schedules, identification cards and locker assignments may be picked up as follows:

Seniors — Monday, Sept. 8, 8 to 11 a.m.

Juniors — Monday, Sept. 8, 11 a.m. to noon, 1 to 3 p.m.

Sophomores — Tuesday, Sept. 9, 8 to 11 a.m.

Freshmen and new students — Tuesday, Sept. 9, 11 a.m. to noon, 1 to 3 p.m.

An official class schedule is required for a student to be accepted into a class.

Freshman and new-student orientation will be held Friday, Sept. 5 at 11 a.m., followed by a newcomers barbecue.

Claremont High counselors are available on a drop-in basis from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. through Aug. 31.

The counseling office will be closed Sept. 1 through 9.

YMCA swim classes slated for all ages

Swim classes for all ages will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA beginning Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 8 and 9.

Mother-baby lessons, for youngsters from 3 months to 3 years, will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 10 a.m. or from 6:30 to 7 p.m. The cost for five weeks is $15.

Lessons for children from 3 to 5 will be offered Monday through Friday from 9 to 9:30 a.m. for two weeks, or on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 7:30 p.m. for five weeks. The cost is $15.

Classes for women over 18 will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. for five weeks. The cost is $2 for YMCA members and $10 for nonmembers.

Adult swim classes will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. for five weeks. The cost is $2 for members and $10 for nonmembers.

The YMCA will also offer a senior lifesaving class for persons 15 and over. The class will meet for five weeks on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Persons completing the course will receive a Red Cross Senior Lifesaving Certificate. The cost is $6 for nonmembers, and free to members.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

A REAL LIFT

Shriners carry Maria Alicia Reynosa, 14, right, and Irene, 10, to an airplane in Tucson for a trip to Los Angeles. The Mexican girls, both paralyzed in the legs, will undergo operations. Maria has made three trips to Los Angeles for muscle transplants, and Irene will undergo her fifth operation. Shriners paid for the trip.

The slasher: what's happened to him?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What ever happened to the Slasher, who terrorized this city by slitting the throats of nine men in a two-and-one-half-month period nine months ago?

"Technically, at least, the Slasher was never arrested," Jay Berman of the district attorney's office said Thursday. "The case is still being investigated."

And though the police Slasher Task Force has been cut back "considerably," there still are policemen working full time on the case, said a police spokesman Lt. Dan Cook.

The killings began last Nov. 13. A victim with his throat slashed ear-to-ear turned up about once a week until the end of January, sparking one of the biggest manhunts in this city's history. The first seven murders were in the Skid Row area. Several victims were reportedly homosexuals.

Police have said virtually nothing about the Slasher case since March 17, when public defenders for Vaughn O. Greenwood, then in jail on another charge, obtained a court order forbidding law enforcement officials from mentioning Greenwood in the slashings.

The gag order was sought after published speculation by members of the police force that Greenwood, 31, may have been the Slasher.

Greenwood was arrested Feb. 3 and accused of assault with a deadly weapon in the knife and hatchet attack on two men in the suburban Hollywood Hills. He was convicted July 31 and is to be sentenced Sept. 10.

Attention focused on Greenwood because the last slashing victim was found three days before Greenwood's arrest and because he had been convicted of a slashing attack in Chicago.

Police records in Chicago show Greenwood was convicted of two charges of aggravated battery in a May 1966 slashing and stabbing attack on Mance Porter, 70, who lived at a Skid Row area hotel. Porter's throat was slashed ear-to-ear with a knife, but he lived to testify at the trial.

Court records show that Porter said Greenwood forced him to perform a sex act. Greenwood was released from prison Jan. 3, 1973.

Chicago police homicide Sgt. Rocco Rinaldi said in March that Greenwood was acquitted on two murder charges in June 1965 in the fatal slashing of one Chicago Skid Row drunk and bludgeoning of a second.

Rinaldi said Greenwood and another man were charged but the other man turned state's witness against Greenwood in exchange for a light prison sentence. Greenwood, however, was acquitted.

Neither Greenwood nor anyone else has been charged with any of the Slasher killings.

"The evidence is not sufficient to charge anyone right now," said Berman. "The case is technically unsolved."

Tax boost seen

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The County Supervisors Association of California says the state-federal agreement on Medi-Cal will increase property taxes by $15 million a year.

State and federal officials have said the agreement should save California taxpayers $40 million to $50 million a year.

Million pupils locked out of schools

Teachers in 11 states walking picket lines

By The Associated Press

Nearly a million school children in 11 states were locked out of the classroom again today as teachers, striking for more money and other benefits, paced the picket line while negotiations with school officials remained stalemated.

Scattered settlements were reported Thursday in several states, but teachers were still boycotting classes in parts of California, Delaware, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Washington.

The gripes which kept the teachers out of the classrooms included wages, class size, cost-of-living increases, and fringe benefits.

Hundreds of public school teachers remained on strike today in Berkeley and San Jose, and a statewide teachers association leader warned that similar walkouts might spread throughout the etate.

Meanwhile, negotiators for Los Angeles teachers and the school board reached a tentative agreement, and San Francisco teachers were offered a new contract package as officials tried to head off a strike.

Contract talks in Berkeley, where firemen are also on strike, were recessed early today with no indication of progress. Negotiators said they would meet again soon but declined to say when.

About 90 per cent of Berkeley's 960 teachers are on strike. A few non-striking teachers and substitutes are holding classes in the city's 24 schools. School officials said 5,000 of the district's 14,715 elementary and high school students attended classes Thursday, compared with 6,877 on Wednesday, the first day of the walkout.

An estimated 395 of 410 teachers at 15 schools in San Jose's 10,000-student Berryessa Union School District stayed off the job. Negotiators met in public Thursday, with about 250 persons at the meeting. But the talks broke down in confusion, and bargaining resumed in private, California Teachers Association spokesman Mel Hebert said.

The hardest hit states were Illinois, where 530,000 pupils in Chicago were affected, and Pennsylvania, where more than 200,000 children were out of school.

Chicago's public school system remained closed today for a third straight day, and Chicago Teachers Union negotiators set noon Sunday as a new settlement deadline. If no contract agreement is reached by then, they say the walkout will continue Monday.

The teachers' strike is the fourth in the past seven school years to hit the city's 666 public schools.

After negotiations broke off late Thursday, schools Supt.elect Joseph P. Hannon, who officially takes office later this month, expressed cautious optimism about a possible settlement before the Sunday deadline. Hannon said the two sides were "not very far apart," but he criticized CTU negotiators for turning down the school board's offer Thursday of an interim five-month contract.

CTU President Robert M. Healey, however, termed the five-month proposal "totally unacceptable," saying it included a no-strike clause. Healey said the union had offered to trim $600,000 from its total package proposal.

More than 28,000 teachers were affected after union members voted 21,439 to 2,537 to strike the city's schools on the first scheduled day of classes Wednesday. Prime issues in the dispute are class size, a cost-of-living pay increase and improved fringe benefits.

Hannon said that current salaries for Chicago teachers range from $10,400 a year for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree to $20,996 for a teacher with a doctor's degree and 15 years experience.

More than 22,600 pupils in Louisville, Ky., were bused to school Thursday under a courtordered busing plan. However, the FBI has been ordered to investigate a series of scuffles and confrontations that erupted in Jefferson County on the first day of the desegragation program. Six persons were injured and 13 arrested.

In Pennsylvania, more than 20,808 pupils in 3 school districts were on an extended vacation as strikes spread to 24 more districts. Strikes shut down seven other districts earlier in the week.

About 7,500 teachers were off the job and teachers in another 121 districts worked without contracts. The state has 505 districts.

However, teachers in two districts went back to work. The Keystone Oaks district teachers of Allegheny County approved a new contract while teachers in the Cumberland Valley district returned to work without a contract.

In Rhode Island, school officials from two districts went to court to get the teachers back in the classroom.

Providence Superior Court Judge John Bourcier told teachers in Pawtucket and Cumberland on Thursday to renew bargaining or "I'll have to pass on the law which is that a teacher strike is illegal."

Officials of the two communities had sought back-to-work orders.

Teachers in nine other districts remained idle.

Meanwhile, teachers in Scituate, R.I., settled with the district Thursday on an arbitrator's salary award, allowing 1,800 pupils to return to class. About 68,000 pupils remained affected by walkouts in the state.

In nearby Massachusetts, 900 striking teachers in Lynn have vowed to stay on the picket lines even though the city plans to keep schools open for about 16,000 pupils.

About 1,000 teachers in Boonton, N.J., voted Thursday night to strike in a contract dispute. There are now about 9,900 New Jersey teachers on strike in three districts.

In New York State, striking teachers in the South Colonie School District near Albany were faced with a court order to return to work.

The teachers walked off their job Thursday. It increases to five the number of New York State school districts affected by strikes.

Classes were held at the five districts Thursday with substitute teachers handling more than 41,000 pupils.

A strike at five Roman Catholic schools continued in Brooklyn and Queens, where 270 unionized lay teachers seek 12.2 per cent pay hikes.

No progress was reported in contract negotiations in the New York City public school system, the nation's largest with 60,000 teachers. The teachers have set a deadline for Tuesday when some one million pupils return to classes.

And in Michigan, about 2,000 teachers in three Detroit area school districts with more than 55,000 pupils remained on strike today following a settlement in one district on Thursday. Some 500 teachers in East Detroit agreed on a new contract Thursday and 15,000 pupils will return to school today after a two-day strike.

In Delaware, Atty. Gen. Richard Wier hinted Thursday he might soon bring criminal charges against 1,000 striking teachers and teachers' aides who have defied a court order to return to work.

The teachers voted to strike Tuesday.

Unemployed rate holds steady

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 8.4 per cent unemployment rate held steady in August accompanied by an increase in the number of Americans with jobs, the government said today. But that encouraging sign in the economy was offset by another sharp increase in wholesale prices.

The Labor Department said many factories recalled workers laid off during the depths of the recession, and that total employment rose for the fifth straight month.

But the department also said wholesale prices rose .8 per cent — a .4 per cent drop from their increase in July but an historically large jump nonetheless. The largest increase was for fuels, related products and power which rose 2.9 per cent.

August figures showed an increase in employment of 275,000, meaning that 85.4 million Americans held jobs. Along with employment, the size of the labor force increased in August to 93.1 million, up by 230,000 following a rise of more than 500,000 in July.

The increase in employment occured mostly among adult men, household heads and blue-collar workers, segments of the labor force hardest hit by the recession.

Since reaching a recession low of 83.8 million last March, employment has risen by 1.5 million, the department said.

The encouraging news in the job picture was somewhat offset by another sharp increase in wholesale prices last month.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said wholesales prices rose .8 per cent, a slower pace than the July increase of 1.2 per cent, but still high by historical standards.

The continuing surge in prices at both the wholesale and retail level over the last two months has renewed fears of resurging inflation. However, administration economists insist that while the next few months will continue to bring high prices, the inflation rate will soon moderate.

The number of Americans without jobs in August numbered 7.8 million, unchanged from July but down 410,000 from the peak level reached in the second quarter.

Both the jobless rate and the actual number of unemployed were unchanged from July, a surprise to administration economists who were expecting a slight increase in unemployment.

Government analysists said the jobless rate would have declined last month had the drop in joblessness of adult men not been offset by an increase in teen-age unemployment.

The jobless rate for adult men dropped from 7 per cent to 6.6 per cent. The rate for adult women was little changed over the month at 7.7 per cent.

But in contrast, the jobless rate for teen-agers, which fell in July to 19.1 per cent, rose to 21.1 per cent in August.

The improved job picture for adult men also was reflected in lower unemployment among household heads, down from 6 per cent to 5.5 per cent; blue-collar workers, down from a high of 12 per cent to 11.5 per cent; and married men down from 5.4 to 5 per cent.

The Labor Department reported that employment increased in nearly three-fourths of the 172 industries measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Among the major industry divisions, the largest increases occurred in manufacturing, where employment rose by 210,000. Major gains also were reported in construction, which suffered severely during the recession, and in the service industries.

Joblessness among white workers continued a decline that began last spring, dropping to 7.6 per cent in August. In contrast, the jobless rate for blacks rose in August from 13 to 14 per cent, with most of the increase among black women.

The average length of unemployment was up slightly in August from 15.4 weeks to 15.7 weeks. But the number of persons unemployed 15 weeks or longer decreased by 160,000 last month to 2.8 million. This marked the first real decline in long-term joblessness since unemployment began to rise in late 1973.

GOING BACK HOME Dino, a 3-year-old cockapoo, was found wandering in Chatsworth Wednesday, with a note attached (below) introducing him and asking for a good home. Thursday, after a picture and story were in a newspaper, his owner, Mrs. Margaret Martin, claimed him at the animal shelter. She couldn't explain the note and who had let him out to wander.

Attempted coup in Sudan fails

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — An abortive coup against President Jaafar el-Numairi ended today in less than two hours with the execution of its leader, an obscure major, Sudanese officials said.

Numairi described the second attempt in six years to overthrow him as "trivial" and the work of officers "so weak they couldn't even control a village."

Spotlight on crime

Pizza sliced 3 ways: holdup, theft, fire

It was a bad night for operators of the Red Devil Pizza, 1005 W. Mission Blvd., Pomona.

First the place was robbed by three armed men shortly before closing time. The trio escaped with a small amount of cash after one, who was armed with a .38-caliber revolver, threatened employe Paul Wiollt with the weapon.

Later the small building was broken into by burglars. They cooked themselves pizzas and after filling up on that, they dumped dough and meat on the floor and trampled it. Next they placed cardboard pizza cartons in the oven and lit it, causing a minor fire which had to be put out by firemen.

Police later arrested two suspects in connection with the burglary. Their identity was not immediately available.

ONTARIO police have recovered approximately 50,000 pounds of aluminum alloy, valued at $25,000, stolen from Elixir Industries at 1380 S. Bon View Avenue in Ontario during the past month.

Elixir Industries has reported a total of 123,000 pounds of the aluminum alloy valued at $55,000 has disappeared from its stock in the past months. Police said two former employes of the metal firm are suspected of the theft.

Ontario Detective Thomas Schoultz said this morning the stolen alloy was discovered in a San Fernando Valley salvage yard several weeks ago with the aid of the Los Angeles police working on other metal thefts throughout southern California.

Shoultz said for nearly two weeks the owners of the metal could not be located. A complicated process of checking the metal alloy heat numbers with metal processing companies led officers to the Ontario firm. The firm, once notified that some of its aluminum stock might be missing by detectives, made a special inventory and came up with the shortage.

Shoultz said that two former employes of the Ontario firm are being sought for questioning in the incident. Company officials told officers that one of the former employes could have a key to the storage yard where the metal is stored.

Shoultz said the stolen metal is described as being in bars, six inches in diameter, between 23 and 25 inches in length. Each bar weighs approximately 57 to 68 pounds each. Elixir Industries reported a total of 2,000 bars missing.

Burglars Thursday night used the company truck to carry off approximately $20,000 in office machinery and tools from Revere Extruders Inc., 3255 Pomona Blvd., POMONA.

Police Officer Douglas Foland said that as of late this morning, neither the stolen flatbed truck nor the loot had been located.

The burglars entered the fence area surrounding the company, obtained the truck and then broke into an office building. Then they loaded the truck and drove away across a field.

Arsonists set fire to a home and a service station in POMONA, causing damage totaling $18,200.

While Louis A. Mazzarini was away from his home at 1003 W. Ninth St., Pomona, early this morning, it was set afire for the second time in four months.

Flames swept through the entire house, causing approximately $18,000 in damage. The living room was heavily charred. Chief John Fowlkes said the house was ransacked before the fire.

The house was burned in a similar fire May 8.

Fires started in a toilet seat cover container and a trash can caused about $200 damage Thursday morning at the Gulf Oil Co., 1693 Garey Ave.

The fires were put out with a garden hose before foremen arrived. William Silva, service station employe, said he had given a restroom key to a boy, approximately 14, just before the fires were discovered.

A 14-year-old Ontario youth suspected of burglarizing a home at 1566 Fuschia St. in ONTARIO Wednesday night, taking a gold pocket watch, a diamond ring, and other items valued at more than $2,300 is in custody of juvenile authorities this morning.

Donald V. Cartmell, 44, of the Fuschia Street home, reported the burglary Wednesday night after he returned home from work. Cartmell said he found not only the items missing but the side of his house covered with broken eggs.

Police said the burglar had entered the home through an open window and ransacked the rooms, taking only the most valuable items. On leaving, he removed a carton of eggs from the refrigerator and threw them at the house, police said.

Detectives during a neighborhood canvas, learned of a youth who had allegedly sold a number of old coins and other items to an Upland coin store. A description of the youth given by neighbors and the Upland store clerk led to the arrest of the juvenile.

Karate chop is talent, says judge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "What I do is artistic, just like singing," says a 16-year-old karate expert who won her legal battle for the right to break bricks in a talent contest.

"I'm going to go out there and give it my all," Linda Salcedo said in an interview Thursday of her plan to compete in the California Teen Pageant finals at Sunol Valley Country Club on Sept. 13.

Miss Salcedo's father Efren had filed a $500,000 suit after pageant sponsor Rose Misuraca of Fremont disqualified Linda because she refused to eliminate the climax of her karate dance in which she snaps two brick slabs with a single righthand chop. Mrs. Misuraca said some judges and parents complained the brick smashing did not constitute talent.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge George W. Phillips Jr. ruled Wednesday in Miss Salcedo's favor, saying it was important for a teen-ager with such skills to take the stage as a performer.

Judge Phillips ruled after viewing color films of the performance that in the dance "the hand is used as an instrument," and said the dance was "an extension of the karate form." He criticizd the pageant, which offers a $300 first prize, as "carelessly organized" and said its rules were "ambiguous and uncertain."

Mrs. Misuraca, who said she would appeal the decision, complained that Linda violated contest rules by using a snare drummer to accompany the smashing and by having her father bring the bricks on stage. The judge said these arguments did not merit disqualification.

"But she really had something against the bricks," said Miss Salcedo, who has been studying karate for eight years and holds a brown-black belt.

Her attorney, Robert Treuhaft, said he believed Miss Salcedo was disqualified because "her talent was something different and these pageants tend to glorify ladylike activities."

Pomona man escapes from fiery collision

A Pomona man suffered only minor injuries in a fiery early-morning crash Thursday in La Verne which demolished his van and heavily damaged a tractor-trailer rig, police reported.

The accident occurred shortly before 4 a.m. at Foothill Boulevard and Fruit Street. Police said the Pomonan, Stephen Pennina, 23, 2937 Huston St., ran into the parked truck after apparently losing consciousness. Pennina suffered foot and chest injuries and was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Police said Pennina was eastbound in Foothill when he hit the truck. His van overturned and caught fire as the result of the impact.

The truck had been parked by its driver, Ronald E. Stark of Baldwin Park, who was eating in a restaurant nearby.

How Speaker sees it

Assembly shields Brown by fending off spending bills

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly shielded Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. from some difficult decisions by blocking big spending bills, Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy says.

But McCarthy said the Democrat-controlled Assembly Ways and Means Committee decided not to approve many money bills last June because legislators agreed with Brown that tax increases should be avoided.

The subject came up Wednesday at McCarthy's weekly press conference when he was asked if he really said what appeared in an Aug. 24 New York Times magazine article on California's new Democratic governor.

The article quoted McCarthy as saying: "We're protecting him now. I'm killing bills like tax exemptions and deductions for veterans and senior citizens — bills that could embarrass him."

McCarthy, D-San Francisco, told reporters:

"I don't remember saying that, but let me add hastily that a sense of what I might have said could have led to that construction of the sentence.

"What I have said and keep saying often is that in the exercise of our own legislative responsibilities we ought not to keep passing out a lot of money bills for which there is clearly no revenue."

McCarthy added, "Now, quite incidentally, but significantly to the governor, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee taking that action benefits the governor because he doesn't have all those money bills on his desk. He'd have to make a choice of signing or vetoing them, and I suppose irritating many constituents.

"So I don't recall making that precise statement, but I could have talked in the sense he was talking about and the writer could have come to that conclusion."

On another subject, McCarthy said he will name some new committee chairmen next week. The appointments will reflect his desire to end punitive action against those who tried to oust him from the speakership last December, McCarthy said.

The Republican minority should have a bigger role in Assembly decision-making, he said, indicating he will appoint a GOP assemblyman to head a committee.

He said of the "eight or nine Democrats" who still oppose him, one possibly will be replaced as a committee chairman. He declined to identify the legislator destined to lose power for opposing McCarthy's leadership.

He said, however, he was not referring to Charles Warren, the Los Angeles Democrat who heads the Energy and Diminishing Materials Committee. Warren decided not to seek the speakership last month after determining he lacked the necessary 41 votes.

Her kingdom for a smile

Dentist got her teeth out, but didn't have dentures

MIAMI (AP) — Gussie Brogdon's smile isn't what it used to be. A two-month-long bureaucratic tangle has left her toothless, hungry and confused.

"I've been eating boiled peas and pinto beans for the last two months," said Mrs. Brogdon, 58, a migrant farm labor camp resident who makes about $10 a week ironing clothes. "I'm getting tired of stewed chicken."

She said her few remaining teeth were pulled after officials of a senior citizens' health program promised her free, shiny new dentures paid by federal funds.

She said she doesn't remember who pulled her teeth, but the dentist told her, "Well, I got 'em all out."

"Then he said, 'I don't have the materials for the (new) teeth.'"

She said that when she inquired about the new dentures at the senior citizen's center, she was told federal funds for the program had run out.

"She did not come in here to have her teeth extracted," said George Rice, director of the center. "When she came here, her teeth had already been renoved. There is no indication on record as to who pulled her teeth."

Rice said she might be able to get the teeth through a joint program of Jackson Memorial Hospital and a vocational school.

"But it takes about three years," he said.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Brogdon grimaces a lot.

"I could have gotten along fine on those snags I had," she said. "At least I could have laughed and wouldn't have been ashamed. I used to laugh a lot. It sure would be good to laugh again."

Navy is pushing construction of huge Trident sub base

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP) — The Navy plans to award a total of $133 million worth of contracts by year's end in construction of the massive Trident submarine base, a base spokesman said.

Rudy Ethridge of the Trident construction office said that there should be 1,000 persons employed by the end of 1975.

Originally the Navy had projected $90 million worth of building activity on the 7,000-acre Bangor site by the end of the year, but it will probably total more than $130 million, Ethridge said.

Ethridge also said two explosives-handling piers will be constructed — each standing 140 feet high, or equivalent to a 14-story building, 360 feet from shore.

Oppose teacher strikes but...Riles

SACRAMENTO (AP — State schools chief Wilson Riles says he opposes teachers' strikes but expects them to continue until teachers have collective bargaining and the school finance picture clears up.

"It's inevitable you're going to have them until we let procedures to deal with these problems and improve the financial situation," Riles told a news conference Wednesday.

"Until then, we're acting irresponsibly."

He said schools, which spend about 80 per cent of their budgets on salaries, don't have many places left to cut.

"If there was ever any fat in school district budgets, it's long gone," he said.

Riles said teachers' strikes are illegal, and cause children to be "caught in the middle." But he refused to characterize striking teachers as either irresponsible or greedy.

"Inflation is going up—do you expect teachers to eat that?" Riles asked. He said the median salary of California teachers is $14,000, and "no one is going to get rich" on that.

Riles called for the legislature to pass a collective bargaining bill for school employes, SB 160 by Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento.

Helicopter a bird of all trades

WASHINGTON (AP) — The helicopter has become a valuable aircraft because of the energy crisis.

The National Geographic Society says a survey shows that the whirlybird is in demand by oil and coal companies.

It also ranges far beyond coal and petroleum fields to perform mercy missions, herd livestock, dust crops, control traffic, fight crime, fight forest fires, reseed forests, stock fish in remote lakes and streams and aid in pollution-control projects.

Helicopters fly regular pollution patrols over places like San Francisco Bay.

But helicopters are also taking the place of the cat-the rustler and his horse or truck. Not long ago, a whirlybird swooped out of the sky and spirited away a number of large hogs.

The first helicopter destined for useful work was not seen publicly until an early Sikorsky model rose from Bridgeport, Conn., in 1942 for delivery to the U.S. Army Air Corps. It mystified onlookers on its 600-mile maiden voyage. One startled air-raid spotter reported, "A windmill just flew by."

LUNCHBOX BONUS — Eddie Chopp, 7, takes chunk out of apple originally destined for his teacher at Chicago's Brennan School. But Eddie's teacher, and 23,000 others, struck the Chicago public school system Wednesday on what was to have been the first day of school. Some 529,000 students were given a prolonged summer vacation as a result.

Brainwashing case

Church, parents in legal tangle over daughter, 18

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Connecticut couple is locked in a legal controversy with the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church over whether the church has brainwashed their 18-year-old daughter.

"Our daughter is not our daughter anymore," Mrs. Elton Helander of Guilford, Conn., told a D.C. Superior Court judge recently.

The Helanders, who have not seen their daughter since she walked out of their house on Feb. 25 and rejoined the church, have sued the church, claiming the church is holding their daughter against her will.

The Helanders' case is based on an affidavit signed by their daughter last January. In the affidavit, Miss Helander gave law enforcement officials the authority to remove her if she joined the church again.

When she signed the affidavit she was undergoing "deprogramming," an intensive psychological effort, often by professionals hired by parents, to rid a person of the church's influence.

In a tape played in court, Miss Helander said she signed the affidavit under duress to get the deprogrammers to release her. "I knew I had to fake it. I had to make believe Ted Patrick (a deprogrammer) was successful.

Miss Helander has not appeared in court, despite an Aug. 6 court order directing the church to produce her. The Unification Church claims it has no control over her and therefore cannot make her appear. In the tape, Miss Helander said she was staying away from court because she feared she would be kidnaped and deprogrammed again.

Her lawyer, Philip Hirschkop, told D.C. Superior Court Judge James Belson, "She's done nothing wrong. She's harmed no one. She's committee no crime. To force her to appear in court would be a travesty of First Amendment rights to freedom of religion."

Belson must decide whether the church and two of its American officers are in contempt of court for failing to produce Miss Helander.

The court has heard testimony from former members of the Unification Church claiming they had been subjected to mind-control techniques and from present members describing bizarre escapes from deprogrammers.

"There I was, tied to a lounge chair with bed sheets, with Ted Patrick holding down one arm, my father holding down the other, my mother standing over my head, and another man standing at my feet shouting quotes from the Bible at me," said Christen Ausenhuf, 18, of Lincoln, Neb. Miss Ausenhuf said she was put in a mental hospital after trying to escape from deprogrammers and was not released until she contacted an American Civil Liberties lawyer three weeks later.

All church members and officials who testified denied charges that recruits are brainwashed into joining the church. However, persons who had left the church said they were denied sleep and fed low-protein diets, making them more susceptible to mind control.

"It was nothing bizarre. You were isolated, but not physically — no TV, no papers, no books ... The only input was positive church input," said John Colaluca, now a student at Tulane University.

His wife Robbie, also a former Unification Church member, said, "They prepared you. They said Satan would work through your parents and friends, so when your parents came to get you out, you thought, 'Gee, it was true. They were right.'"

Going blind, girl, 12, on dream trip

LONDON (AP) — Little Cindy Waite, 12 years old and going blind, set off today on her dream holiday to see Niagara Falls and Disneyland while she still can.

Cindy's family, who live in Bournemouth, on the south coast of England, saved up $3,300 for "the best holiday possible." The child left London airport for New York with her mother, Ann, 42, and her sister, Dawn, 18.

"I had measles when she was born," Mrs. Waite said. "It is a congenital disease which has caused cataracts to grow at the back of her eyes. Doctors have told her she does not have much time left before she becomes totally blind."

Said Cindy: "We are going to New Orleans, New York, Las Vegas and Los Angeles. We have been saving up since February. It's a real coast to coast tour. I'm really thrilled."

Bee snatchers getting hives in rash of thefts

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — Angry California beekeepers are being stung in record numbers by professional bee-snatchers who steal the honeymakers' hives by the truckload.

What has the beekeepers really buzzing are that some of the thieves take hundreds of beehives at a time — often requiring fork lifts to load trucks for the getaway.

Milton Smotherman, a beekeeper 22 miles south of here in Monterey County who himself has twice been victimized, said in an interview that most beesnatchers appear to be professionals. He said they generally have the equipment and knowledge to steal large numbers of hives without endangering themselves.

"One keeper in Tracy had a couple hundred bees stolen in one haul," he said. "They were professionals. They would have had to use fork lifts when they stole them, pallets and all."

Bee thefts in California have soared over the last five years from 39 hives stolen in 1970, to 1,089 in 1974, to the present 1,626 only two-thirds through the year, according to the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

Smotherman attributed the increase in thefts of the stingerstudded honeymakers to a shortage of bees caused by deadly pesticides and cold weather.

"Commercially, bees have become an endangered species," he said. "Pesticides kill a lot of them and the cold weather in other states kills plenty of others. And they're so expensive to replace now that professional beekeepers are coming into this state and taking them out in trucks."

A recent report from the California Council of Growers attributes many of the thefts to out-of-state beekeepers whose bees have died during cold seasons.

Smotherman said not all beesnatchers know what they're doing.

"One inexperienced guy stole 130 hives from me, but got stung quite a bit," he said. "The bees started swarming and he tried to drown them with a hose. He wound up killing all the bees and getting stung all over the place."

The welt-covered thief was convicted of felony theft, fined $1,000, ordered to repay $6,500 in damages and expenses and placed on five years probation.

Smotherman, who owns 1,200 hives, says each is worth between $70 and $80 — bees included — and each produces between 60 and 80 pounds of honey annually.

"A lot of beekeepers, once they lose their bees to pesticides or the cold, can't afford to buy new ones and start over," Smotherman said. "They figure they have to steal bees or go under financially."

Rich-poor nation collision averted

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The collision between the rich and poor nations that was expected at the current special session of the United Nations General Assembly appears to have been averted, and much of the talk is about cooperation to close the gap between the two groups.

Of two dozen countries who spoke in the first three days of the session, only China talked like it was spoiling for conflict. Foreign Trade Minister Li Chiang told the assembly: "Factors for both revolution and war are increasing ... To be independent and self-reliant, the developing countries must first of all smash their fetters."

However, most of the other Third World delegates expressed the hope that confrontation could be avoided and satisfaction that the wealthy countries seem to be recognizing a need for improvement in the trade and investment systems.

"Let us not confront each other, but let us together confront the problems facing us," said Foreign Minister Y.B. Chavan of India.

It was a big change from the special assembly session in April, 1974, when the Third World, despite opposition from the United States and other Western countries, rammed through a declaration calling for a new international economic order.

Diplomats said the shift came because Western countries are giving more attention to the complaints of the Third World.

HOUSTON I. FLOURNOY

Flournoy named to USC post

Houston I. Flournoy, former state controller and unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor last year, has been named dean of the Center for Public Affairs at USC.

Flournoy has been teaching at USC since last spring. The center includes the schools of Public Administration and Urban and Regional Planning, and the new Public Policy Research Center.

A specialist in constitutional law and political science, Flournoy was associate professor of government at Pomona College and the Claremont Graduate School from 1957 to 1966. He served three terms in the State

Sr. info center to open

Claremont city officials and others will be on hand Saturday at noon for the formal opening of the Senior Citizens Information and Referral Center at 211 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

Mayor Bertye Smith will address those gathered and will stress the importance of the center to the city's 4,000 senior citizens.

The building will be open for public inspection and refreshments from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The center, operating Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Saturday if necessary, will provide outreach services, and information regarding local transportation, health and welfare counseling, nutrition, education, legal aid, Social Security, and referrals to agencies and individuals who can answer older citizen needs.

All services will be provided free.

Mrs. Mahalia Perry of the city's Department of Human Resources will coordinate the program. Mrs. Josephine Smith, co-chairman of the city Human Resources Commission, is heading a committee seeking volunteers to man the office.

The building, formerly used as a photography studio, has been leased by the city. The program is funded by the county Area Agency on Aging through the Older Americans Act.

City Human Resources Coordinator Pete West said that Claremont is the only city in this area to receive such a grant this year.

Valley retail clerks ring up a sale on market pact

Members of the San Gabriel-Pomona valleys Retail Clerks Union Local 1428 have voted overwhelmingly to accept the new agreement covering their work in major supermarkets.

Local president Maurice Cofer reported that at morning and evening meetings Wednesday at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona the local's 4,500 food-division members voted by more than 85 per cent in favor of the three-year pact hammered out in negotiations in Washington, D.C., over the weekend.

Their new contract calls for wage increases of 50 cents an hour for journeymen clerks, retroactive to July 28, with additional increases of 40 cents an hour on July 28, 1976 and 40 cents an hour on July 28, 1978.

Also, the agreement provides a cost-of-living adjustment of up to 10 cents per hour in February of each of the next three years, making a total maximum of $1.60 per hour increase possible over the life of the contract.

Included in the contract is an improved pension program to provide up to $600 a month for members with 30 years' of service, along with improvements in health and welfare benefits and provisions for the maintenance of benefits for active members and retirees during the life of the agreement.

Ratification by members of all nine locals involved in the negotiations is anticipated this week. Union leaders anticipate the favorable vote will run close to the 80 per cent cast by members of Local 1428.

The clerks' old contract expired July 28 and was extended during negotiations avoiding a sanctioned walkout.

Cool air flowing into four more Pacific State wards

Hospital now one-third toward goal

Things are real cool at Pacific State Hospital.

That's the word today as a 448-ton compressor was turned on to provide chilled air to four additional wards at the hospital for mentally retarded in Pomona.

With the completion of the air conditioning of the four patient wards — numbers five, 14, 15 and 22 — the sprawling hospital is now one-third air conditioned in the program which started three years ago, according to Harry Lewis, hospital administrator.

Lewis added that, at present, $6 million worth of construction is underway at the hospital. Included in the work is the completion of air conditioning of additional wards, a standby power station, power distribution and fire and safety equipment.

At present, patients have been transferred from units 23, 24, 26 and 27 while the air conditioning is installed and the necessary remodeling is completed in these units.

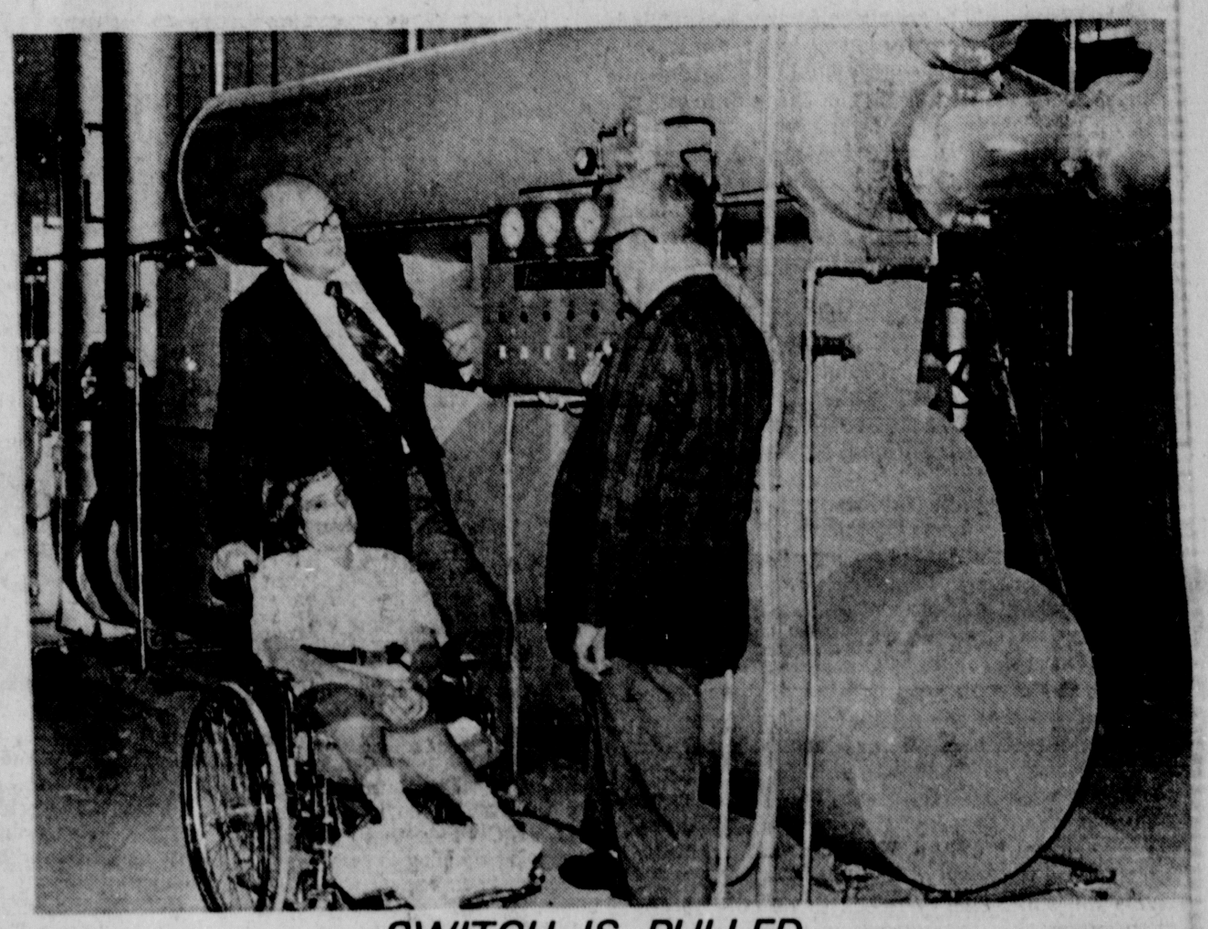
Dr. William Clover, medical director at the hospital, said that these patients have been moved into air conditioned units, sharing these facilities with the residents already assigned to these wards.

Since it takes about four months to remodel a ward and because only four wards can be vacated at a time, the entire hospital will not be completely air conditioned until early in 1977, he added.

Fifteen wards are done, four are being worked on, and several more are included in this phase of the state-financed project.

Even before the current project was started, 20 per cent of the hospital, including the acute ward, was air conditioned.

Pacific State Hospital has 1,800 residents at the facility which is comprised of many buildings of various sizes scattered on the campus.



SWITCH IS PULLED

McLaughlin resigns planning position

Citing the pressure of personal business, William J. McLaughlin has resigned from the Claremont Planning Commission.

McLaughlin in a letter to Mayor Bertye F. Smith said that business and personal considerations now make it impossible for him to continue on the commission.

"My current travel schedule will require an absence from the city on the order of four months a year which prevents any continuity of review on my part," McLaughlin said.

In July he had been reappointed to another four-year stint on the commission.

McLaughlin unsuccessfully sought the City Council vacancy created when attorney Craig McManigal resigned Dec. 31, 1973.

McLaughlin was appointed to the Planning Commission in 1970, and had served as vice-chairman.

He is president of Advanced Materials Technology, Inc., a Costa Mesa-based materials consulting firm which designs high-rise building exteriors and military products.

McLaughlin said that he couldn't resign without paying tribute to the high quality of devotion, effort, and ability demonstrated repetitively by fellow planning commissioners and the city staff.

Ontario man injured as car runs into fence

A 34-year-old Ontario man was injured Thursday when his car ran off Schaefer Avenue in the Chino area and smashed into a barbed wire fence.

Juan Sarate of 12739 Euclid Ave. was admitted to Chino General Hospital with head cuts and a possible broken right arm after the 4:30 p.m. accident. He was reported in good condition.

Highway patrolmen said Sarate tried to pass another car on Schaefer, east of San Antonio Avenue, and his car ran off the road. The auto knocked down 40 feet of fence and two wooden posts.

Meanwhile two Chino men were in satisfactory condition today at Chino General Hospital with injuries suffered Wednesday in separate accidents in the Chino area.

Highway patrol officers said that Anthony R. Bruce, 16 of 1855 E. Riverside Drive, Chino, was injured when his car hit the rear of a dump truck on Riverside Drive west of Campus Avenue.

Both Bruce and the truck, driven by George Buchholtz, 20, of Ontario, were westbound on Riverside Drive, with the truck stopped in the street to make a lefthand turn. Bruce sustained head injuries. The accident occured at about 4 p.m.

At about 9 p.m., Paul John Fortelny, 27, of 15660 Ponderosa Lane, Chino, was injured in a one-car accident on Carbon Canyon Road one-half mile west of Peyton Drive.

ETI corral sponsoring poker ride

Holly Gilmore, queen of Equestrian Trails, Inc., Corral 35 in Glendora, will participate in a poker ride to be sponsored by the corral Sunday.

It will begin at 10:30 a.m. at the Glendora Equestrian Park, 12000 Glendora Mountain Road and continue through the Wildwood Ranch in the Glendora foothills.

Participants will pick up poker cards at intervals along the trail. The best poker hands, according to Hoyle rules, wins.

First prize will be a set of binoculars, second prize, a $50 gift certificate, third prize a horseshoeing, and fourth prize, a month's free riding lessons.

Cost will be $3 to members and $5 to non-members. The public is invited.

Drinks will be available at the end of the ride. Riders may bring sack lunches. The ride will last approximately 3 hours.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Penny Bullock at 213 963-8032.

Prison chapel bill advances

A bill proposing construction of a $195,000 chapel and religious counseling center at the California Institution for Women in Chino cleared the state Senate Thursday.

Introduced by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., the legislation squeezed out of the upper house on a 28-5 vote despite complaints that other facilities at CIW could be used for worship.

A minimum of 27 yes votes was needed to approve the bill. The Senate vote sent the measure back to the Assembly for action on Senate amendments.

McVittie, whose district includes Chino, has pointed out that CIW is the only prison in the state without an established chapel for inmates.

Man shot; cousin is arrested

A Pomona man was shot and his cousin arrested in connection with his wounding Thursday night, police said.

The victim, Ernest Coster Harris, 46, was wounded in the buttocks and was released later after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The incident occurred in the driveway of Harris' home at 971 Terryview Ave.

Police, en route to the scene after receiving a report of the shooting, stopped the suspect, Sam Harris, 49, of 1769 S. Hamilton Blvd., in his car at San Antonio Avenue north of Second Street.

Harris was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and a woman questioned with him was released without charge.

Police were told that the shooting occurred during an argument, but the victim said later he had been shot accidentally. The suspect has refused to make a statement, they added.

Colleges name new director

Janet S. Hansen has been appointed director of the Claremont Colleges' Center for Continuing Education.

The center provides educational planning and counseling, administers a women administrators program, conducts a series of liberal studies seminars called colloquia, and offers, in conjunction with Claremont Graduate School, a master of arts program in liberal studies.

West Valley Transit seeking funds for bus bills, expansion

The West Valley Transit Service Authority gave final approval to an application to be submitted to the Southern California Association of Governments for funds to pay the bills for West End public transit.

The vote was unanimous with Mayor Harold Hayes of Montclair, Mayor Abner Haldeman of Upland, Councilwoman Eileen Carter of Chino, Mayor Bertye Smith of Claremont and City Manager Roger Hughbanks of Ontario present.

The group approved a claim of $321,697 for Article IV funds under Senate Bill 325. This total covers the six-month start-up period of the Omnitrans bus lines from January to June 1975 and 1975-76 fiscal year. The funds will take care of the operational expenses for these 18 months and include the costs of a new demand-responsive service for portions of Ontario and Upland.

Article IV SB 325 funds are gas tax monies earmarked for public transportation. Albert Kay of the San Bernardino County Transportation Department prepared the claim for the WVTSA and pointed out the dollar breakdown for the four West End cities in the claim.

The approximate totals for the respective cities are Chino, $51,672; Montclair, $57,242; Ontario, $51,671; and Upland, $59,605. The county's share for the service to the unincorporated areas in the West End is $101,507.

The claim also includes $33,000 for promotion and advertising. Before expenditures are made for this, the technical staff must return to the WVTSA for approval.

Hospital gives party for Russell Pitzer, 97

The Pomona Valley Community Hospital staged an informal party Wednesday to honor its first board president, Russell K. Pitzer, on the occasion of this 97th birthday.

Hospital employes baked a birthday cake, and a small group of close friends visited the Pomona Valley philanthropist at the hospital, where he now makes his home.

Pitzer was born in Iowa Sept. 3, 1878, and came to Pomona in 1893. He was instrumental in establishing PVCH as a community hospital in 1927, and served on its board of directors for 49 years. He gave the hospital Pitzer Home, the convalescent care unit.

Algae world's new breadbasket

One of nature's most basic processes — photosynthesis — and one of its most primitive life forms — algae — may hold the key to solving advanced civilization's most pressing problem — how to provide the future food and energy needs of the world's burgeoning population.

The potential of algae as a food supply or dietary supplement has long been recognized, but recent advances in the laboratory culture of the organism have made it possible to grow algae many times faster than nature does under ordinary conditions. Scientists at the University of California's Los Alamos, N.M. scientific laboratory have manipulated various genetically altered strains of algae to produce a nutritional balance of essential proteins, carbohydrates, vitamins and trace minerals.

According to biologist Victor Kollman of the laboratory, the capability on feeding thousands of times more people than the world's present population of over four billion by using just one per cent of the world's land is available today.

He foresees the time when a typical farmer could produce three million pounds of high-protein food a year from one acre of land — or more accurately, from a one-acre pond about one and a half feet deep. By contrast, the same acre of land would produce only about 5,000 pounds of a conventional crop such as corn.

The system would be nearly self-perpetuating and could be installed virtually anywhere in the world, with no restrictions on geographical location and no concern about the availability of large amounts of water.

If the algae ponds were located near power plants, two additional benefits could be derived: The warm waste water from plant operations could be used directly in the ponds, and carbon dioxide could be extracted from smoke stack gases and fed to the algae.

As animal feed, algae could perform another important function. Although a steer would return only about one-tenth of a pound of beef for each pound of algae, the cheapness and availability of this "feed" would make cattle raising more economical than the traditional feedlot method using grain.

In addition to its potential as a food source, algae could also supply large amounts of energy to replace the world's dwindling supplies of oil and natural gas. Across the country in Cleveland, Dr. Lester Kramptiz, director of the department of microbiology at Case Western Reserve Medical School, has been growing algae and diverting the photosynthetic process to produce hydrogen.

He estimates that the amount of hydrogen that could be generated in an area no larger than 175 by 175 miles would be enough to satisfy the world's needs in the year 2000. Hydrogen is easier to transport than natural gas, says Krampitz, and could be accomplished with only a few changes in existing pipelines. And we could afford to be wasteful then, because the solar energy needs to be only 10 per cent efficient.

"The beauty of using hydrogen is that you start with water and sunlight, you burn it and get back water. If you ever get the system working, you will have an endless source of energy."

All of this is very long term, of course. Much more basic work needs to be done in unlocking the secrets of photosynthesis. However, it is no pie-in-the-sky concept, says Krampitz. "Its development should not be very far down the road."

The Los Alamos researchers are even more optimistic. A practical technology for producing large amounts of hydrogen or fuel from algae could be developed within five years, they say.

Reducing handicap

Braillegrams for the blind and Large-Print Messages for the partially sighted, innovations announced the other day by Western Union, were much reported in the news.

These are just two, however, of a number of recent developments aimed at making life a little easier and more convenient for the 6.5 million Americans who suffer from some form of severe visual impairment, says the American Foundation for the Blind. Some others:

— Several New York restaurants now provide braille menus.

— Dallas airport has braille signs on doors and elevators.

— A blind person can play cards, Scrabble and Monopoly with braille versions of these games.

— The New York subway system has braille maps and the Chemical Bank of New York has introduced braille checking statewide.

Unfortunately, says the Foundation, only about 25 per cent of legally blind people are familiar with braille, and only some 12 to 15 per cent can read it with ease.

"Optacon" (short for Optical Tactile Converter), a device with a small camera attachment which converts printed type into raised letters that can be read with fingers, has been called a major breakthrough. But the device is still very expensive — almost $3,000 — and slow to use.

Anti-litter programs

Dear Editor: A resolution to support a national ban on non-returnable beverage containers was rejected by the National Governors Conference during meetings recently held in New Orleans.

The resolution introduced by Oregon's Governor Robert W Straub, was soundly defeated by a vote of 26-9. The conference, in refusing to pass the resolution banning non-returnables, reconfirmed the actions of legislators across the country, who are opting for more comprehensive anti-litter and resource recovery programs.

Foothill Beverage Company commends the governors for their insight into this controversial matter and for their refusal to be swept away by the emotionalism surrounding container legislation.

While Foothill Beverage actively supports anti-litter programs, aluminum can recycling, and the concept of resource recovery, we adamantly oppose forced deposit container legislation. — Terry W. Conner, Manager Environmental Division, Foothill Beverage Co.

Bayh vs. oil Goliaths

WASHINGTON — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., in one of the most audacious acts since David challenged Goliath, will attempt to break up the economic power of the big oil companies.

He is preparing for a bruising battle. A private memo, intended for his eyes only, warns that "the oil industry is beginning to mobilize" and that he "can expect fierce opposition."

But Bayh believes the only way to bring competition back to the domestic oil industry is to strip the big companies of their control over all stages of production from the oil well to the gas pump.

He has drafted legislation which would prohibit the majors from engaging in more than one of the four segments of the industry — production, transportation, refining and marketing.

Here's how Bayh's bill would work, according to a confidential analysis:

"In the case of the big eight — Exxon, Shell, Texaco, Amoco, Socal, Mobil, Gulf and ARCO — which have major interests in all four segments of the industry, each company would have to decide which area it wanted to remain in and divest itself of all interest in the other three areas.

The analysis, prepared by staff aide Howard Paster, contends that the oil industry is "essentially noncompetitive." The major companies control oil fields, transmission lines, tankers, refineries and service stations.

In other words, as Paster puts it in his memo, they "control the oil from the time it comes out of the ground until it is pumped into the gasoline tank." Reduced to statistics, "the 20 largest oil companies control more than 75 per cent of production, refining and marketing and more than 90 per cent of pipeline capacity."

This gives the oil giants the power to manipulate prices. The Senate memo cites "the infamous July 4th gasoline price increases" as an example.

Although the increases were strictly legal, "the oil companies were able to prevent competition from holding the increases in check by limiting refinery operations during May and June and thus creating a supply-demand imbalance for gasoline immediately prior to the peak driving season," the memo charges.

"If the same companies did not control the flow of crude," the memo contends, "the refinery operations and the retailing of gasoline by such . . a highly anti-competitive maneuver would not have been possible."

The memo also cites "the refusal of the major oil companies to sell lower-priced domestic crude to independent refineries until forced to do so", by the Federal Energy Administration.

"By trying to limit the independent refineries to higher-priced domestic and foreign crude," asserts the memo, "the majors sought to use their market control to destroy competition."

The ultimate victim of the oil companies' collusion, of course, are the customers who have been pouring more and more of their earnings into the pockets of the oil men.

Bayh believes he has a good chance of pushing his bill through the Senate. The oil barons are also beginning to get a little worried. "The industry originally did not get excited; however, that is changing," the memo advised.

But it warned: "We can expect fierce opposition, not only in the hearings but also in the media . . . and through the shareholders.

"Once uncertainty," adds the memo, "is the extent of the inevitable Administration support for the industry." Bayh responded to this statement by scribbling in the margin: "We can't win this one on the Hill alone."

But as the consumers dig deeper into their pockets to pay gasoline prices and heating costs, they may raise a howl that will be heard on Capitol hill. Then the Bayh bill may have a real chance.

COCAINE CRACKDOWN: A major crackdown on international narcotics is expected in Bolivia, the source of much of the illegal cocaine that reaches the United States.

With the vigorous encouragement of American authorities, Bolivian dictator Hugo Banzer is getting serious about stopping the dope trade.

In July, Bolivian drug enforcement officers met in Cochabamba with their counterparts from Peru, Chile, Argentina, Paraguay, and Brazil to map out a multinational anti-drug campaign.

Last year, Banzer fired the police chief of Santa Cruz, who was believed to be involved in narcotics trafficking. And this past June, he purged a host of other officers from that city's police force.

The good side of TV

CHICAGO (AP) — A Los Angeles researcher has concluded in a study that television has the potential for influencing adults in positive as well as negative ways.

Dr. David Loye, a social psychologist, said his study "seems to refute the notion . . . that television entertainment has no appreciable effects on adults except to amuse and divert."

Loye, a researcher at the University of California medical school at Los Angeles, presented his findings at the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association, which ended Wednesday.

A great many claims have been made about the effects of television, but little "hardnosed research" has been done to support these claims, he said. Loye, formerly a television writer, film producer, newsman and TV Guide editor, added that modern technology "has presented us the opportunity either to dramatically advance or to degrade and possibly annihilate ourselves."

He said, "In mass entertainment we have on hand what appears to be a powerful tool for driving us one way or the other."

Loye and his colleagues chose 260 married couples in the Los Angeles area to watch several types of television programs to determine, through tests, effects on the psychological and social functioning of adults.

The categories included groups considered helpful and hurtful, or violent.

Episodes of The Waltons, Mary Tyler Moore, Friends and Lovers and MASH produced the most positive effects — leaving viewers feeling affectionate, kindly, warmhearted and forgiving.

During the week of viewing, those who watched these programs also reported a decline in aggressive feelings.

On the other hand, those who watched violent programs, such as Hawaii Five-O, Cannon and Mannix, maintained an aggressive mood throughout the week.

Loye said that previous research has shown that emotionally arousing films of many types will increase aggressive moods.

But his research group also found that viewers watching prosocial, or positive, dramas had a decrease in feelings of aggression as their emotional arousal increased.

Those watching violent programs had a slight increase in aggressive mood as they were aroused.

"Violence on television is a serious social issue for those concerned about adult behavior just as it is for those concerned about child behavior," Loye asserted.

Television's apparent potential to effect positive change led Loye to conclude that such findings "support the hopes of those who would like to see television put to far, far better social uses."

Just in jest

Where will the desire to work and thereby earn the money to enable you to acquire a higher education get you? Well, apparently the loss of your job if one Federal agency has its way. At least, that's what could happen to some of the industrious lads who, instead of selling magazines from door to door in order to work their way through college, managed to get jobs at Knotts Berry Farm. For now, according to a recent news story, Knotts Berry Farm is about to be sued by the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission. The accusation is that Knotts Berry Farm is guilty of discrimination because it hires local college students instead of parceling those jobs out to members of minority races.

One wonders sometimes just how short sighted our government Big Wigs can be. Some day those same political masterminds will be searching our universities and colleges for Brain Trusters and Educated Whizz Kids who will be able to help them sell the Great American Public a bill of goods — and what they are going to have to settle for will serve them jolly well right.

Tom Tiede

A small incident in Lafayette park

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The gentleman had a military step, toes inward, knees stiff, 30 inches to the pace. He strutted thus across Pennsylvania Avenue and into Lafayette Park where he engaged in a ritual of sitting down: off with the coat, up with the sleeves, untie the shoelaces. "Grand," he said, which is a word almost no one says anymore, and he repeated it: "Grand."

It was midday. Sunny and hot. Just opposite the White House. Children were soaking in an open fountain, kids were frolicking under the shade trees, and the gentleman unfolded a wrapped sandwich to eat. One bite. Two. Peanut butter and jelly from the look of it. "Do you know," the gentleman said, stopping mid phrase to swallow, and then to reach for a Thermos, "do you know about the whooping crane?" he smiled. Another bite.

A neighbor on the bench turned.

"Yes," the gentleman said, politely, "the whooping crane." He placed his sandwich on its paper. "I am an authority on it." He licked jelly from his thumb. In turn he used a handkerchief to wipe the lick. He also blew his nose. And then continued: "For one thing it is the largest bird on the North American continent. By far, really. Fully grown it stands as tall as a boy — a big boy! Oh, yes. And wingspan: Six to seven feet or more."

A breeze began, ever so welcome, and caught the gentleman's lunch wrapper by surprise. It tumbled from his lap, to the walk, snagging momentarily on the bench leg before drifting over the grass to the fountain. The gentleman appeared not to notice. "Whoopers," he said. "that's what we call them for short."

The wrapper stopped again at the base of the fountain, whereupon a child crumpled it for use as a ball and quickly threw it into the water where it floated on the waves and in the foam generated by the bathers.

Tourists passed by, their cameras aimed at the White House, a grass stain souvenir occupied the rear of one woman's stretch shorts. Yak, yak, they said. Click, click. The gentleman was not distracted. "The bird is white," he went on, "always white, with black tips on the wings and a rouge head. And they don't whoop; that is what people think, but it's wrong. They trumpet, very loud, like this: oooomp, ooooooooomp!" The tourists turned to stare at the gentleman. He continued to trumpet. For effect, he put his hands to his mouth and ooomped in the direction of the White House gate.

The gentleman lifted off the bench with his calls. Then sat down quietly. "I'm sorry," he said, "I've made a fool of myself." He finished his sandwich, except for the crusts, which he broke into pieces and tossed on the grass for the squirrels. He touched the neighbor on the arm:

"The whooper is a buzzard you know, by relation at least. And most ungregarious, too. He will nest only if another whooper is not nesting nearby. They mate, but they do not flock. Nobody knows why. My opinion is they don't like each other that well." The gentleman screwed the cap on his Thermos.

The noon hour was ending. Brown bags were closing all over the capital. The gentleman stood to tie his shoes and button his sleeves. "What a show they are," he said. "soaring, catching the air. You know they migrate each spring from Canada to Texas, and go back again in the fall. It is a wonderful thing to see them in flight." The gentleman put on his coat, a lightweight suit jacket, and touched his fingers to an old-fashioned tie. "Of course," he said, laughing a little, "I've never seen them in flight."

The gentleman searched the bench, then his pockets. "I've lost my wrapper," he said. He felt under the bench. "It must have blown away." He rubbed his face with his hand and brushed the crumbs from his trousers. Then he saw the wrapper in the fountain. "Mustn't litter," he said, delightedly, as he went to the water's edge, slid over the concrete lip, and waded in to retrieve the trash.

When he came out he shook himself, turned, and pausing only to ask a child if she knew of the whooping crane, the gentleman left the park and walked back across Pennsylvania Avenue with a now soggy military step.

Gift tuna soothes metallic incident

I am writing to you because I believe this matter should be brought to the attention of someone but I do not know whom.

Recently I bought six cans of Priority Albacore White Tuna Flakes at a valley store. Upon opening one of the cans to make salad for lunch, I found two large pieces of metal mixed in the tuna.

I am thankful that neither my children nor myself swallowed one of the pieces. They are sharp and could have ripped our insides to shreds.

The distributor of these tuna flakes should be informed of this carelessness. — L. D., Pomona.

You sent us the pieces of metal and the label off the can of tuna.

Our inquiry to Sun Harbor Industries of San Diego, distributors of the product, brought an apology from J. W. Bellm, director of operations.

The apology took the form of a gift pack of tuna flakes to you.

He said Sun Harbor tries to furnish a top quality product under the Priority tuna label. The plant is under continuous supervision of federal and state government inspections, in addition to Sun Harbor's trained, experienced employes.

The cleaning operation, Bellm said, should have uncovered the metal particles but probably they were deeply imbedded in the fish loin before the shipment was received at the cannery.

You said the gift pack consisted of six cans of tuna fish. You accepted the apology, saying you realized there are several ways the metal could have ended up in the can other than through the direct fault of the company.

In thanking Action Line, you remarked that it is a comforting feeling to know that some one speaks up "for us little folk."

* * *

In Action Line I read a couple of articles about contests sponsored by the American Holiday Association.

I have entered a few of these contests and have gone as far as the third tiebreaker in a couple of them.

However, when rules are changed in the middle of the stream, I think contestants should be notified.

I have notified American Holiday that my solution resulted in a higher score than its "correct solution." I have not heard from the association.

You will see on the enclosed copy I have underlined where it says, "Words chosen must appear as entries in boldface type in the main vocabulary section of the new Merriam-Webster pocket dictionary."

In the new contest tiebreaker announcement, I have underlined: "All entries chosen must appear in bold-face type set flush with the left-hand margin of either column of type on each page in the main vocabulary section of the new Merriam-Webster Dictionary."

So you can see the difference in the rules. — M. T., Pomona.

Trudi Wilson, contest director, explained that the pocket dictionary formerly used went out of print so the new dictionary was adopted as official for contest use.

Some rule changes were made at the same time.

All contests are conducted independently of one another, she said, and are judged separately, so rules governing current tiebreaker puzzles have no bearing on puzzles completed and submitted before the changes came into effect.

She said you lost out because of use of the word "evaded" in a word contest. The word does not appear in boldface type in the 75-cent pocket edition used in the contest you entered.

Miss Wilson sent you a $3 check representing fees you paid in the contest you entered. She said it is the policy of the American Holiday Association to issue refunds to any contestant who does not understand any portion of contest rules or directions.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Saturday, Sept. 6, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's some preventive maintenance you can do today to ease the strain on the budget. Be a do-it-yourselfer wherever you can.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be sure to include a quiet friend in your plans today. If the invitation doesn't come from you, chances are it won't come from elsewhere.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The family should delegate shopping chores to you today. You know best how to get the most value for each dollar.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A chance to get a serious matter with a friend off your chest will present itself today. Talk it out till you're satisfied it's settled.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're sharp today where financial interests are involved. Pursue the profit motive. You won't be denied your fair share.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You've learned to profit from an unpleasant experience. Where yesterday you couldn't get on target, today you won't let yourself be misled.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your concern for those less fortunate today is very admirable. If a helping hand is needed, you'll be right there.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something that happened in the past has left an indelible impression. You're not about to make the same mistake again in handling the problem.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You mean business in going after your objectives today. Others recognize this and will step out of your way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A difficult decision will be necessary for you today. Though others may not agree, they'll admire you for sticking by your guns.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Stay on the fence today. Avoid controversy. Hug the middle of the road. You'll fare better than by taking one side or another.

Your Birthday, Sept. 6, 1975

An ally of long-standing will play an important role in your affairs this coming year. She will help you to avoid obstacles that could thwart your progress.

Ann Landers

Neither hag, nor go-go dancer

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter's wedding is only weeks away. After shopping for a dress until my feet nearly fell off, I finally found something I really like.

Well, the dress is causing so much commotion I'm ready to blow my brains out. It's a hot-pink chiffon, closely fitted, a little low in the neckline, but not what you'd call indecent.

Already four people have told me the mother of the bride should wear something "conservative" and not take attention away from the bride. They say it's the bride's day and everyone else should fade into the background.

I say it's MY day, too, and I want to look my best.

It took a lot out of me to raise this girl and I don't happen to believe the mother of the bride should look like a washed-out hag. I can't face another day of shopping, but I'll pay attention to what you say. Please be on my side. — Swollen Feet

Dear Feet: Sorry, dear, you lost me on two counts — the hot pink and the plunging neckline.

The mother of the bride needn't look like a washed-out hag, but she shouldn't look like a go-go dancer, either. Save the hot-pink number for your next anniversary and settle for a pastel shade cut along conservative lines.

Dear Ann Landers: May I comment on Dr. Chester Ewing's statement that "brown-nosing" is one of the four most terrible words for us teenagers to use?

In my high school classes, "brown-nosing" was applied not to students genuinely interested in learning, but to those who made every effort to display phony enthusiasm towards teachers in order to receive higher grades.

Brown-nosing is laughing hysterically at every dumb joke the teacher tells. It is unequivocal acceptance of every opinion the teacher holds — including his political beliefs. It is staying late after class and pretending to be consumed with the subject.

Brown-nosing reduces education to performances for the teacher's pleasure. It teaches the student how to squelch his individuality. It develops all the subhuman skills people need to support a fascist dictator.

As an "A" student, I'm thankful I never had to sink that low. — N.Y. Reader

Dear N.Y.: You sound like the guy (or gal) a lot of people want to sit next to during a tough history exam. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a respectable young woman (age 23) and am dating a young man who has asked me to marry him. I am going to say yes but I need to know something first.

In my freshman year of college I fell madly in love with a fellow I thought wanted to marry me. We had sex for several months. When he suddenly decided he wanted to be free to date others I felt really used. "The Romance of the Century" ended on a very sour note.

What I need to know is this: Is it possible for a man to tell if his bride is a virgin? He has never asked and probably never will, but I'd like to know the answer to my question. — Wish I Were

Dear Wish: The answer to your question is no.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Sunspots before your eyes

Home furnaces, air-conditioning, domed stadiums, cloud-seeding — nobody talks about the weather but everyone is doing something about it.

We'd all better start doing more about it if the prognostications of Dr. John A. Eddy prove accurate. Eddy, of the High Altitude Observatory of the National Center for Atmospheric Research, recently told members of the American Astronomical Society that sunspots pretty well disappeared in the late 17th and early 18th centuries, and a "mini-ice age" ensued, causing the royal teeth to chatter in Buckingham Palace and icebergs to floe as far south as New York (New Amsterdam).

What, you may ask, do sunspots have to do with the temperatures on earth? This is a good question and deserves an answer. But it won't get it. Not from ME, anyway. I try to mind my own business and let bygones be bygones, and my advice to you is to do the same. Idle hands are the devil's workshop.

Sunspots, as you, hem, know are cyclone-like masses of gas on the sun, similar to the condition of your stomach after ingesting a large Mexican dinner and four bottles of Carta Blanca. However, there are no Rolaids for the gas on the sun. It just has to suffer, poor dear!

And while that effulgent celestial orb, as it was once called by someone — possibly me — is belching its way through the blue empyrean, the earth turns chilly, people go ice skating on Puddingstone and snowplows are busy on Garey, Holt and Mission. (Will dog teams be permitted on the San Bernardino Freeway?)

Eddy is reluctant to categorically affirm the cause-and-effect of sunspots above and colder temperatures on earth, being cautious like a good scientist should, but the evidence is on his side. Whenever sunspots vanish, like a teenage girl getting over acne, Mother Earth has chilblains. Since the 1940's the sunspots have been disappearing and earthly temperatures have been dropping (kachoo!).

It won't be long before they will be skiing at Claraboya and having toboggan races along Central Avenue. Bob sleds will curl down the Chino Hills, Pomona secretaries will plod to work on snow shoes, and chains will be required on cars driving through La Verne and San Dimas.

"I seriously doubt if we're headed toward another Wisconsin glaciation," Eddy said, speaking of the last great Ice Age that smothered much of the Northern Hemisphere under huge sheets of ice more than 11,000 years ago. "But a cooling trend like this could bring on a little ice age."

That's cold comfort.

Dr. Lamb

Rapid heart beat is a mystery

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am being treated for mild high blood pressure with Hydropress and take Valium. I'm 46, male, 5 feet 9 inches and weigh 205 pounds. I'm a good 40 pounds overweight. My work is 60 per cent sedentary and I'm just recovering from a broken ankle that keeps me down.

My bad habits include smoking a pipe without inhaling and a drink now and then. I use decaffeinated coffee, and other than the above I have always been in good health.

My problem is attacks of rapid heart action. I can be sitting reading with a heart rate of 68 when it suddenly jumps to 100 or 125. Sometimes this is accompanied by very weak feelings. One attack was so bad my wife called the rescue squad, as I felt I was going under.

Also, in the morning hours I have very heavy, achy feelings in the thighs and calves of legs. I am tired and depressed, which is unlike my previous nature.

My doctor says everything is O.K., and my blood pressure is good with Hydropress, but I get no satisfaction on what causes the rapid heart attacks or what to do about it.

Is this a side effect of the Hydropress?

DEAR READER — To identify exactly what your rapid heart action is, it would be necessary to get an electrocardiogram during one. The description of sudden onset does suggest one of the tachycardias caused by an irritable spot in either the atria or the ventricles. They can be very disagreeable, often depending on how fast the heart rate actually is. I have seen rather healthy men with this problem who had attacks with rates of 100 to 120, and they never knew the heart was doing this. I suspect you are more aware of your body and its behavior than they were. That may have something to do with your general nervousness.

We don't always know what causes such attacks. Unless they are part of some other heart problem, they are usually not dangerous. They can be caused by an overactive thyroid — probably not your problem in view of your tendency to obesity — alcohol, coffee, anxiety and sometimes on the basis of an inherited variation in the heart's electrical mechanism.

If your attacks are severe and frequent, your doctor could give you medicine to calm your heart down. I do not mean another sedative, but medicines such as quinidine (there are now many others) that have a direct action on soothing the heart.

The Hydropress ordinarily does not cause these types of problems. If you have washed out a lot of potassium, though, from elimination of fluid as a result of Hydropress, then you might be more susceptible to such attacks. You could help ensure that you have enough potassium in your system by drinking three glasses of orange juice a day.

You really do need to lose that weight. Your blood pressure might be all right if you lost a good 50 pounds. I have been repeatedly impressed with the value of eliminating even a small amount of obesity in lowering blood pressure, often to normal levels. As soon as your ankle permits, I would recommend a daily, light exercise program, perhaps walking or swimming or both to help you get rid of your pounds and put you back in shape.

For more information on blood pressure, write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019, send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents and ask for The Health Letter number 18.

South wasted no time in the play. He won the first trick with dummy's king of spades and led a diamond. East went right up with the ace and led a second spade.

South's jack fell to West's queen and West cleared the suit. South ran the diamonds. But when he fell back on the heart finesse to try for his ninth trick, West took his king and two more spades to leave South one in the group.

South was bitter. "Just think," he groaned, "Three out of three cards wrong. Put the ace of diamonds, queen of spades, or king of hearts in the other hand and I would have been home."

"Just think' is what you should have done," said North. "Had you led dummy's queen of hearts at trick two and let it ride it wouldn't have mattered where those cards were. Your contract would have made easily."

Needless to say, North was right. South had failed to think.

Ask the Jacobys

A Nebraska reader wants to know what a "Temporizing" bid is.

A temporizing bid is one that sort of marks time. It is made in a forcing situation in order to get partner to give more information. Thus, if you open one diamond and partner jumps to two spades, you may make a minimum sounding rebid, such as three diamonds or three spades, even though you have a big hand and will take further action later on. Remember that once a game forcing bid has been made the bidding must continue to game.

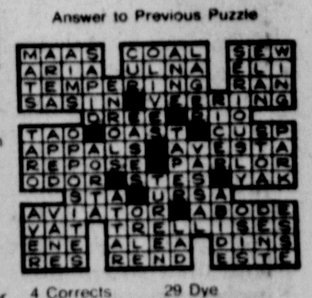
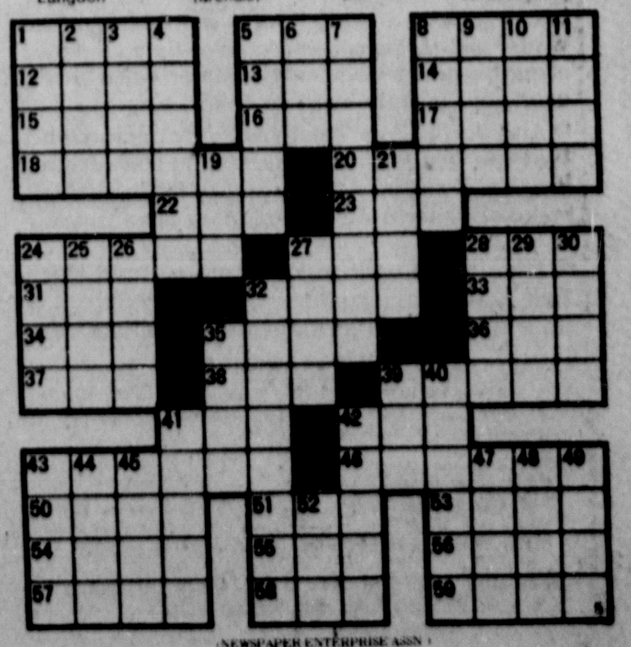
Answer to Previous Puzzle





(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Weeds have their place in the yard

Weeds are plants growing in the wrong places. Before proceeding to get rid of them, we should take note of a few of the benefits weeds give to the soil. They prevent erosion. Ragweed, for instance sends roots deep into the subsoil. Deep-rooted weeds bring up minerals and make them available to crop plants as well as provide passages for drainage.

Some weeds impart vigor and disease resistance and will even enhance the flavor of crop plants. Nettles will improve the aromatic quality of certain herbs and bindweed will make a better corn crop. The presence of dandelions helps flowers and fruits mature faster. Weeds help build soil. Both broad leaf weeds like lamb's quarter, pigweed, thistles, smartweed and the various grasses make an abundance of deep, dense roots. Even when the plant dies the fibers and root passages are there serving as channels for water and nutrients.

If the land has been farmed by chemical methods, weeds will pick up the excess salts that are in the soil. In fact, a farm which has been "worn out" or abused with chemicals can be brought back to good production by allowing it to be fallow for a year or two, letting a crop of weeds take over, both annuals and perennials, and then plowing them under. Nature will have restored much of the original balance and vigor.

Everything in nature has a message. Weeds are sending out all sorts of signals about the soil. Sour codk, cinquefoil, and sheepsorrel indicate a deficiency of lime (calcium carbonate). If wire grass, briar or goldenrod are present, the land is poor and impoverished. A waterlogged soil will grow weeds and equisetum. These are some of the conditions that suggest remedies to the farmer or gardener. Of course, weeds will also tell us something about the climate, soil type, etc.—things we cannot change.

To grow a crop, some weeds will have to be got rid of. Now that the soil is in good shape, the use of weedicides would be very bad judgment. Generally speaking, hoeing or hand pulling is the best way. Discing is good if done at the right time. Plowing or tilling will tend to make things worse. Weed seeds can be buried and dormant for years waiting only for the right combination of sunlight and water.

Some weeds may be persistently mowed until they give up. Many weeds can be choked out with crops such as barley, buckwheat, soybeans or millet. The farmer and gardener must come to terms with his weeds. Learn from them, utilize them, eat some of them, feed some to livestock and pull some out and recycle them as compost.

FOR BARE SLOPES — Trailing African Daisies are excellent for transforming bare slopes into areas of beauty. The fast-growing ground cover blooms for long periods, providing continuous color.

Now is time for ground cover

September is the time to "cover a lot of ground." Ground covers planted now in bare areas of the garden will get a good root start in warm and friendly soil conditions.

If covering large, sunny slopes, where low maintenance is desirable, the California Association of Nurserymen recommends such sturdy, drought resistant covers as Trailing Rosemary, an aromatic herb with small blue flowers, freeway tough Baccharis (Cyote Bush), Trailing Gazanias — with yellow or orange flowers — and heart-shaped Vinca Major.

For the added bonus of a rich display of brilliant berries in the fall and winter, shop for such spreading Pyracantha varieties as Santa Cruz. For rich green foliage and brilliant blue springtime flowers, Ceanothus varieties — Carmel Creeper, Santa Ana and Hurricane Point to name a few, will provide it in lavish fashion.

There are newer and refined Junipers for landscape use where low, spreading plants are required. Your nurseryman can show you these as well as many other ground covers that fill in beautifully. Extremely popular today is the Trailing African Daisy (Osteospermum.) The shrubby plants will cover quicker than you think — even planted 18-24 inches apart. A continuous profusion of large daisies, in white or lavender pink, is produced by these sun lovers. Use on slopes or fill in garden areas with them.

For covering a parking strip or lining a driveway, winter-flowering Gazanias are a top choice — they bloom almost all the time, when it's sunny — as is Verbena, ground hugging performer that blooms and blooms in shades of red, pink, lavender and white.

Home gardening classes offered by L.A. County

A total of 14 daytime and evening classes in horticulture, botany, and related subjects will be offered this fall and winter at the three facilities of the Los Angeles County Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens.

In response to rising public interest in home gardening, the majority of the classes are concerned with various aspects of this subject. The first classes of the semester will begin the week of Sept. 15 and most will continue for 10 to 15 weeks. The fee for most classes is $5 although some are more and some classes require an additional materials fee of $5 or $6. The classes at the Arboretum in Arcadia and Descanso Gardens in La Canada are cosponsored by Pasadena City College and those at South Coast Botanic Garden in Palos Verdes are cosponsored by Los Angeles Harbor College. For all classes students register at the first class meeting. Classes requiring fees for materials are limited to 35 students. All others are limited to 50 students.

Further information on these classes can be obtained by calling any of the three gardens: The Arboretum at 681-8411, Descanso Gardens at 681-0331, or South Coast Botanic Garden at 772-5813.

The starting date and time for each class is as follows: At the arboretum: Beginning and advanced bonsai, Sept. 15, 7-10 p.m.; home gardening, Sept. 17, 9 a.m.-12 noon and 7-9 p.m.; home gardening (fruit and berry culture), Oct. 23, 9 a.m.-12 noon; plant identification, Sept. 17, 7-10 p.m.; vegetable gardening, Sept. 24, 9 a.m.-12 noon.

At Descanso Gardens: home gardening (fruit and berry culture), Oct. 27, 9 a.m.-12 noon; home gardening, Sept. 16, 9 a.m.-12 noon; home horticulture, Sept. 17, 7-9:30 p.m.; poisonous, medicinal, and edible plants, Sept. 15, 7-10 p.m.

At South Coast Botanic Gardens: bonsai, Sept. 17, 7-10 p.m.; container gardening, Sept. 23, 9 a.m.-12 noon; home gardening, Sept. 25, 9 a.m.-12 noon.

Want a finer lawn? Then read this!

For nearly a half century our business has been growing and supplying sod for the finer lawns of America, golf course putting greens, athletic fields and other grass areas. About twenty years ago, because we were not satisfied with the quality of grasses then available, we established a research facility for the purpose of grass studies. Our hope was that we could find or develop better grasses. Today, we have under observation over 1,000 strains and species of grasses, many of which are outstanding in their performance. Several of our lawn grass developments have been patented and are available to the public in various parts of the United States and Europe. Others are to be released soon.

About ten years ago one of these new grasses, WARREN'S® A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS, now known as BenSun™ A-34, was introduced into California. Its performance has proven to be outstanding. BenSun A-34 Kentucky Bluegrass has several interesting characteristics. It is highly drought tolerant, does well in most soils and will tolerate up to 65% shade. It is quick to recover when injured, and is used extensively on athletic fields, golf courses, race tracks and other areas where rough usage or hard play can be expected. In spite of its hardy characteristics it makes a beautiful lawn and can be mowed as closely as one half inch when planted in open sunlight.

BenSun A-34 thrives in hot or cool climates, at high or low altitudes, is highly disease resistant and requires less fertilizer than most other grasses. It is the Aristocrat of all lawn grasses!

Because of its vigor and because of its small seed, one pound of seed is sufficient to plant 2,000 square feet of lawn area, about 1,000 seed per square foot. Its seed is actually less expensive than other grass seed because it goes farther, costing only 1/3¢ per square foot.

BenSun A-34 Kentucky Bluegrass is available from your Landscape Contractor or Nurseryman, and you need have no fear of the success of BenSun A-34 because it carries this guarantee . . . "If you are not satisified with the results obtained from this seed, return the empty box with proof of purchase within 6 months to Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc. You will be supplied with more seed or your money will be refunded, your choice."

For an excellent lawn next year, now is the time to plant BenSun A-34 Sod or Seed. BenSun A-34 Sod or Seed planted in late summer or early fall developes a strong root system through the winter and spring months to give you a carpet of exquisite green lawn next summer when you'll want your lawn to be at its peak.

And don't forget this! For every person who sees the inside of your home, 10,000 see the outside. BenSun A-34 Kentucky Bluegrass will make your lawn the outstanding lawn in your community.

Should you wish to know more about BenSun A-34 Kentucky Bluegrass, and where it is now in use in California, write or call:

Discredit new shark repellent

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A shark repellent reported to be "100 per cent effective" was poorly tested and may be worthless, say two Navy scientists.

Dr. Scott Johnson and Forrest Wood of the Naval Undersea Center said that they were skeptical about the value of the repellent, which is based on toxin secreted from a Red Sea flounder.

The September issue of Oceans magazine reported the toxin to be "100 per cent effective" against sharks after some reef white tip sharks turned away from the flounder offered to them.

The Navy men called the tests inadequate.

"It has promising aspects," Johnson said of the repellent. "But the idea of a chemical repellent is very suspicious."

He noted an earlier repellent called "Shark Chaser" used in World War II. It was successfully tested against dog fish, he said, but proved virtually useless against sharks.

He also said that the fish poison may be more repellent against humans than sharks.

Cut in ammo production will force big layoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says that nearly one-third of the employes at Army ammunition plants and commercial plants under contract to the Army will be laid off because of a reduction in ammunition production.

It said that more than 12,000 employes at 14 army ammunitions plants and 32 commercial manufacturers in 19 states will be affected by the cutbacks over the next year. More than 5,400 of the layoffs will be immediate, the Army said Tuesday.

An Army spokesman said the production cutback will result in cancellation of about $90 million in contracts and that another $290 million already appropriated by Congress for ammunition will be assigned to other purposes.

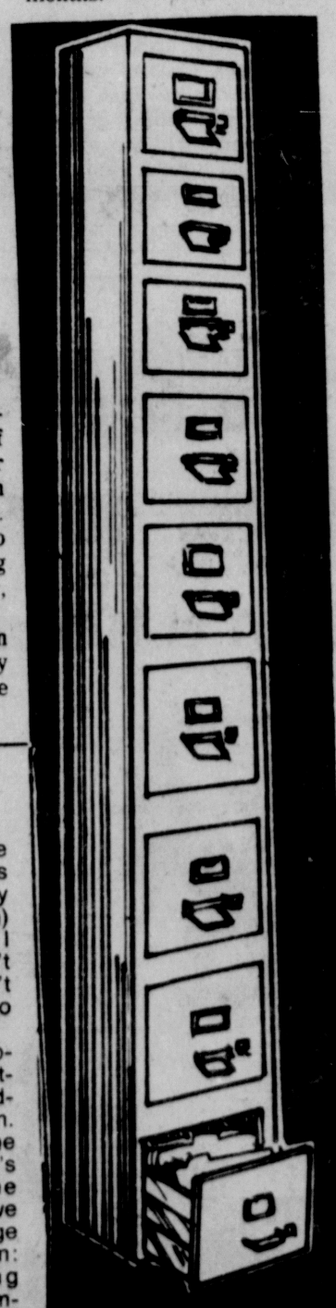
"The reduction of ammunition production is a direct result of the end of hostilities in Southeast Asia and the fact that American stockpiles are rapidly approaching authorized levels," the Army said.

Although the Army has been out of Vietnam for more than two years, it said, "It took some time . . . to assess the Army's readiness posture . . ."

The Army owns 26 ammunition plants which are run by private contractors. Three of those will be put on standby basis over the next nine months and three others are being studied for possible standby status. Eight plants will cut back their production, the Army said.

Of the remaining 12 plants, 11 already are on standby and one is operating on a reduced basis.

In event of a national emergency, the Army said, the mothballed plants could be brought back into production within four months.



Burglars get $150,000 in furs, jewels

ENCINO (AP)—An estimated $150,000 worth of jewels, furs and other valuables were stolen from the home of Bernice G. Yellin by burglars who gained entry by prying open a sliding glass door, officers said.

Among the items stolen in the burglary Tuesday were a Russian sable jacket, two mink stoles.

CHRISTIAN HOTLINE

Dear Jo: You claim the only way to God is through Jesus. Yet my friend (a non-Christian) is the kindest person I know. She wouldn't hurt anyone. Won't God receive her into Heaven? — Mary

Dear Mary: The problem seems to be equating degrees of "goodness" with salvation. Your friend may be truly good by man's standards. But the Bible teaches that we err because we judge ourselves by men: "they, measuring themselves by themselves and comparing themselves among themselves, are not wise" (2 Cor. 10:12). Jesus Christ is the standard. Let's hold ourselves up next to Him and see how we look! We see that we all have sinned, even the kindest person, as is your friend, and need cleansing before entering into the presence of God. Now God, in His love, gives us that cleansing in His Son. We only must accept Jesus into our hearts to receive that beautiful gift. But if we reject His Son, God will reject us. So if you really love your friend — show it! Lead her to Jesus.

College awards are available

College scholarships from $500 to $5,000 are available to all high school seniors through the Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living, now in its 22nd year.

Enrollment deadline is Oct. 31.

Each participating school will conduct a 50-minute written examination on Dec. 2. Written and scored by Science and Research Associates, Inc., Chicago, this exam is the first step in the scholarship program.

From the results, a Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow will be chosen from each participating school. Winners are recognized with special awards and the exams entered in state competition.

Each state winner receives a $1,500 college scholarship while every second-place winner receives a $500 grant. State winners also receive for their school a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America."

State winners, accompanied by a faculty advisor, will be the guests of General Mills next spring on an expense-paid tour of Washington, D.C. The All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow will receive a scholarship for $5,000. Second, third and fourth place winners will receive scholarships for $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 respectively.

Joyce Brothers

Where to begin?

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Our son was one of the last of the hippies and during the 60s he followed the whole pattern that is now, I guess, a part of the past. At that time, my wife and I were hurt and disgusted by his life style. When he started to live with a young woman who shared his views, we disowned them both and haven't seen them for nine years. We refused to contribute to their support even though we knew they had a child. We offered to raise our grandchild ourselves, as we felt they were totally ill-equipped to be parents. Because they didn't accept our offer we've never spoken to them since and we've never seen that grandchild nor another who was born later.

A few months ago, they contacted my sister who saw them and had them stay at her home overnight. She was very impressed with the children and also seemed to feel that our son and this woman had also changed. My wife would like to see them and to renew our relationship. I have no objection but I don't know how or where to begin. — S.N.

Dear S.N.: You will probably have to make the first move since, according to your letter, you rejected them. There's nothing wrong with expressing your confusion and admitting that you may have been in error and acted in haste. Tell them you'd like a second chance to get reacquainted. Explain that there are no strings attached and that you and your wife will try to look on them as individuals just as you wish they would view you.

In nine years, I'm sure they must have changed and matured. You may be surprised at their reaction and their ability to be open to your advances.

Some sociologists who studied the family life of the hippies of the 60s observed that many of the children are raised in much the same manner as those of middle-class, mid-America parents. One major exception, however, is that most of the fathers reject jobs that keep them away from their families and this may be a positive note in the development and emotional well-being of their children.

Occupational aspirations, they noted, were toward positions that provided considerable individual freedom with a minimum of supervision and no time clock. Social prestige and high incomes were deemphasized in favor of creativity, personal enjoyment and freedom to spend time with their families.

According to psychiatrist Bernard Pacella, hippies can make even better parents than more conventional people. Actually, in an orderly environment, those we call hippies can provide more in adequate relationships to a child than a busy parent who is too impatient to understand the child's need or to know the qualities necessary to bring up children.

Try not to prejudge your son and daughter-in-law but try to look at them with unbiased eyes focused on real values.

If you can do this, the chances are they will be able to do the same with you. If you want to renew your relationship, and I think it's important that you do, you'll have to forgive and, perhaps, even forget a great deal of what has happened in the past. This may be the only way to build a better future for yourselves, your children and your grandchildren.

GRIMACE AND BEAR IT

Tennis umpire William Fanning seems to be working harder than the players as he keeps tab on the action Thursday at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills.

Top seeds survive quarters

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Maria Bueno would give her right arm to be playing in the singles at Forest Hills, scene of her greatest tennis triumphs in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

But that arm, seven times operated on without success, forced her into premature retirement while her peers—Billie Jean King, Margaret Court and Virginia Wade—remained in their prime.

"There are a lot of things I've missed out on," said the dark-haired Brazilian, gazellel-like grace has made her one of the game's premier attractions. "The publicity, the big money...but I had everything else."

Indeed, she did. There was no money, but a lot of prestige, when she won her four U.S. titles between 1959 and 1966. And the fans haven't forgotten. She's here at Forest Hills, foregoing pain in her arm for the pleasure of at least playing doubles and rubbing elbows with today's youthful, and wealthy, stars.

"This is my favorite tournament, it's nice to be back," she said of her first appearance at the West Side Tennis Club since 1969. "I draw crowds; people still ask for my autograph— they're still interested."

Her only contemporary left in the tournament is Virginia Wade, the No. 2 seed from Great Britain who won here in 1968.

Although Miss Wade, at 30, is the oldest of the four women's semifinalists, Miss Bueno, 35, says age doesn't make any difference.

"You can be five or 50," she said. "Everything happens on the court."

With that in mind, she assessed the chances today's women's semifinals.

—Chris Evert, 19, seeking her first United States crown: "She has a pretty good chance. She's been winning every match in the place."

—Martina Navratilova, 18, of Czechoslovakia, also looking for her first title: "Yeah, why not?"

—Evonne Goolagong, 24, of Australia, twice a runner-up but never a winner: "I like the way Evonne plays, but you never know when she's going to play well."

—Miss Wade, of Great Britain, seeking her second title: "It'll be a close match."

The pairings shaped up with No. 1 Miss Evert vs. No. 3 Miss Navratilova and No. 2 Miss Wade vs. No. 4 Miss Goolagong.

It is the first time since the tournament became an open event in 1968, and some knowledgeable observers say the first time in memory, that the top four seeds have survived the quarter-finals.

Four of the top-seeded men also are into the semifinals— No. 1 Jimmy Connors, No. 2 Guillermo Vilas of Agentina, No. 3 Manuel Orantes of Spain and No. 5, Bjorn Borg of Sweden.

Connors, a whiz on any surface who is seeking his second straight Open title, breezed past Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 in Thursday's shortest match, only 1 hour, 13 minutes.

Vilas, virtually unstoppable of late, took only slightly longer in downing Jaime Fillol of Chile 6-4, 6-0, 6-1.

Orantes needed 2 hours, 11 minutes for a controversial 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 triumph over eighth-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania. Borg, who opened the day's play before a sellout crowd of 15,627, gave them their money's worth for 2 hours, 55 minutes before he downed a tenacious Eddie Dibbs, troubled by leg cramps, 6-4, 7-6, 4-6, 7-6.

Connors simply overwhelmed Pattison, while Vilas equally outclassed Fillol, reeling off 12 games in a row starting with the ninth game of the first set.

Dibbs, who downed fourth-seeded Arthur Ashe in the quarter-finals, matched his two-fisted backhand with Borg's in a match of baseline duels and long rallies. In the first-set tiebreaker, Borg took it 10-8, but he had a much easier time in the second tiebreaker, 7-1, when Dibbs was nearly doubled over with cramps.

The Nastase-Orantes show was somewhat of a replay of Orantes' triumph over the fiesty Romanian in the Canadian Open after Nastase lost his spirit over a disputed line call in the first-set tiebreaker. By his own admission, he quit trying in that match, a move that cost him an $8,000 fine handed down only Wednesday by the joint Professional Tennis Council.

The dispute in Friday's match came in the final game of the final set.

Nastase had just been broken to trail 3-5 and on the first point for 0-15, he then hit a ball down the sideline which would have made it 0-30 and put him enroute to being even again with service in the set. Linesman Adrian Clark called it out. Nastase got mad, umpire Jack Potter over-ruled Clark, that made Orantes mad. Finally, referee Mike Blanchard intervened, upholding the umpire.

Then Nastase frittered away three of the last four points, giving Orantes the match.

VICTORY STROKE

Jimmy Connors returns ball to Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia in their quarter-final match at Forest Hills. Connors won 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 to qualify for the U.S. Open men's semi-finals.

Doug Rau beats Reds, L.A. vs. Braves tonight

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ATLANTA — The Dodgers open a three-game series against the down-trodden Braves needing to win two games to ensure a winning (4-3) road trip.

That would also keep them three and one-half games ahead of the Giants, who don't figure to win more than one (if that) against Cincinnati. The Dodgers-Reds season series is a standoff again (8-8) after the Dodgers won 3-2 Thursday night.

Pitching matchups for the Dodgers-Braves series shape up like this: Burt Hooton (14-9) and Mike Thompson (0-5) tonight (4:30 p.m. PDT). Rick Rhoden (1-2) and Carl Morton (16-15) Saturday night and Don Sutton (16-12) and Jaime Easterly (1-8) Sunday at 11 a.m. (PDT).

Andy Messersmith has been given an extra day's rest and will open the 10-game homestand against the Giants Monday night.

If the attendance for the Dodger games in Cincinnati (57,393 for two games) seems small, the turnout here in Atlanta will be minute.

In their last two games the Braves have played before their smallest crowds ever, 1,119 Wednesday and 1,062 Thursday. That's a two-game total of 2,181! The Atlantans have drawn only 495,930 this year with just nine more home games left, including the three with the Dodgers.

Dodger coach Tommy Lasorda and one time Dodger pitcher Jim Bunning have been mentioned as possible successors to interim manager Connie Ryan of the Braves.

Although the Dodgers are 7-5 for the season against the Braves, they are only 2-4 here in Atlanta.

Doug Rau's strong effort against Cincinnati Thursday night evened his career mark against the Reds at 5-5. It was the slender lefthander's fourth straight win and seventh complete game of the season.

It also enabled him to match the number of victories he had last year when he finished with a 13-11 mark, his highest number of wins.

"I think Rau has shown steady progress," said manager Walter Alston. "Improved control is the big thing and he holds his stuff better (longer) than he used to. I used to look for six or seven innings from him. Now he's so strong he can go nine."

Rau (13-9) held the powerful Reds to four hits, three singles and George Foster's 22nd home run. The homer came in the second inning. The three singles, by Pete Rose, Merv Rettenmund and Joe Morgan, accounted for the other run in the sixth inning.

After Morgan's hit, Rau retird the last 11 batters in a row. He now has pitched 229 and one-third innings as compared to 198 last year and his earned run average is down to 3.22. Last year he wound up at 3.73.

"If I finish with 250 innings that's a major league season, what do you think?", Rau asked writers. "Bleep. I don't think complete games are a big thing anymore."

Rau claimed that his arm is much stronger because, for the first time, he did not play winter ball last year.

"I started pitching when I was seven or eight and I pitched the year around every year," he said. "That's bound to take it's toll sooner or later. Last year I had a rib cage pull which was kept quiet and I wasn't effective the last part of the season. But this year I've had no pain and my arm feels live instead of dead like it always has the last month."

The Dodgers scored all three runs in the first inning before a batter was retired. Davey Lopes singled and went to third on a wild pickoff throw by loser Clay Kirby (9-5). Lee Lacey singled for one run and Willie Crawford homered for two, his eighth of the year.

"That puts us even with the Reds," smiled Alston. "They must be playing the other teams better than we did. Seriously, it's been a disappointing year. But I've been around long enough to know you get one of those every once in a while."

DODGER DATA — Lopes stole his 62nd base and had three hits (a double and two singles) to raise his average to .261. The run scored gave him 88 for the season.

Steve Garvey went hitless and his 10-game hitting streak ended.

Cincinnati cooled off Thursday but arriving in Atlanta this morning, the Dodgers found it exactly like Cincy had been Wednesday . . . humidity around 85 percent in the daytime and daytime temperatures in the 90's.

Weekend openers for college grids

By Associated Press

Alabama, Penn State, North Carolina State and Maryland get a jump on the other members of The Associated Press Top Twenty when the college football season gets under way this weekend.

N.C. State, ranked 13th, and No. 17 Maryland, two of the powers in the Atlantic Coast Conference, will be the first of the ranking teams to see action. Both are at home against nonleague opponents—the Wolfpack entertaining East Carolina while Maryland faces Villanova.

Sixth-ranked Penn State is the only Top Ten team scheduled for action Saturday. The Nittany Lions meet upset-minded Temple at the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field and the game has been designated an official Bicentennial event for the City of Philadelphia by the board of directors of "Philadelphia '76."

Television viewers will have to wait until Monday night for their first taste of action when ABC-TV airs the intersectional clash between second-ranked Alabama of the Southeastern Conference and Missouri of the Big Eight from Birmingham, Ala. (9 p.m., EDT).

Four games are on tap in various conferences. Saturday afternoon, Western Michigan visits Central Michigan to help the Chippewas, last year's national College Division champs, make their debut in both the University Division and the Mid-American Conference. After dark, Drake is at New Mexico State and West Texas State at Wichita State for Missouri Valley Conference games while Fullerton State makes its Pacific Coast Athletic Association—and Division I—inaugural at Fresno State.

The only other daytime games find Pitt at Georgia, Lamar at Houston, William & Mary at North Carolina and Eastern Michigan at Ball State. The rest of the night schedule has Mississippi at Baylor, Mississippi State at Memphis State, Southern Methodist at Wake Forest, Texas-El Paso at San Diego State, Western Carolina at Toledo, Western Kentucky at Dayton, Southwestern Louisiana at Long Beach State, Pacific at Northeast Louisiana, North Texas State vs. Texas-Arlington at Irving, Tex., Northwestern Louisiana at Arkansas State and Marshall at Akron.

Penn State and Temple met 13 times from 1938-52 with the Lions holding a 9-3-1 lead after losing three of the first four intrastate battles. Coach Joe Paterno wasn't ecstatic when the resumption of the series was announced but has changed his tune.

"I thought when the series was scheduled that it would not be good for us," he says. "I was wrong. Temple has done a great job of rebuilding its program and it should be a good series for both schools."

Three common faults

Al Geiberger says the three most common faults of golfers are incorrect posture, improper timing and improper use of the legs.

Geiberger, director of golf at Silver Lakes Resort and winner of the MONY Tournament of Champions (open only to tournament winners) and the PGA Tournament Players Championship last Sunday, will demonstrate the proper techniques to eliminate these faults during a series of four clinics.

Geiberger, who'll celebrate his 38th birthday Monday, has won $170,957 thus far this year and is the sixth leading money winner.

"Most golfers are too stiff-legged when they address the ball and slouch too much," said Geiberger. "They should flex their knees a little and bend slightly from the waist. Most golfers also overreach with their left arm. They should let the arms hand down in a relaxed manner.

Alabama judge okay by McKay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Athletic directors John McKay of the University of Southern California and J. D. Morgan of UCLA agree that a federal judge in Alabama acted correctly.

"I'd like to shake the hand of the judge who made that ruling," said McKay, also the USC football coach, after the temporary injunction was issued against a National Collegiate Athletic Association order.

Judge Sam C. Pointer Jr. ruled that university football teams should not be limited to 48 players on games away from home could travel with 60, the same number permitted at home.

McKay and Morgan said they felt there should be no changes affecting athletes already recruited.

"I am in favor of not having any such restrictions placed on youngsters you have recruited to date," said Morgan. "If you must put restrictions on football and basketball squads, you start with people not yet recruited. Otherwise you are putting restrictions on those who were recruited under a different set of rules."

"If you allow a home team to have 60 players suited up and the opposing team can only have 48, that's not fair to the visiting coach," said McKay. "If we go to Notre Dame and they have 60, we'll also have 60."

Morgan said that UCLA travels to the Air Force Academy in mile-high Colorado Springs. "We should be able to have as many suited up as they do," he said. "Basically it would be unfair to our team otherwise and the altitude would make it additionally difficult."

McKay told a story:

"Several years ago, we had a game at Washington State which we won 70-30 or something and our last touchdown was scored by Clarence Davis, our No. 1 tailback. That was because we had a 46-player traveling squad limit in the conference and our secondstring tailback had hurt a shoulder.

"I was called everything in the world that you'd find on a bathroom wall, but I had to play Davis because the rules say you can't put a tackle in the backfield.

"If the game is worth having, I see no reason why we shouldn't be able to suit up anyone we want to suit up.

"The NCAA said the 48-man limit was to save money. Well, if you get your tail beaten too often you'll lose gate receipts. There's one way for a college to cut expenses and that's to cut scholarships. There is no rising cost of athletics; it's the rising cost of education that's got us all."

Angel skipper preaches unity

ANAHEIM (AP) — Dick Williams is preaching unity.

He is also demanding it.

"The majority of the players on this team are selfish because they haven't been taught any different," Williams was saying Thursday night after his California Angels roared from behind on the power hitting of Lee Stanton to subdue the Texas Rangers, 6-4.

"We're having to correct a lot of things up here," Williams said of his young team. "I can finish last with a .280 hitter but maybe I can finish third with a .260 hitter who busts his tail for the team."

Stanton definitely did that for Williams Thursday night.

With the Angels trailing 3-0 in the seventh, Stanton unloaded his 14th homer, a two-run jolt off Ranger starter Jim Umbarger to get California close.

After Mickey Rivers coaxed a bases-loaded, two-out walk from Mike Foucault to force over the tying run in the eighth, Stanton cleared the bases with a double to left that just eluded a desperate dive by Texas outfielder Mike Hargrove.

"I thought he had it," Stanton grinned. "Then I saw the ball roll free. Beautiful."

"If we can get a hitter or two our outlook for next year is very good," said Williams.

"But we have to have unity. I sat a player down for five days because he was too concerned about his average. That's not how to play this game."

The Angels meet the Kansas City Royals in the opener of a four-game series tonight which features the return of Williams' former third base coach Whitey Herzog, now the skipper of the Royals.

Steve Busby, 15-11, will pitch for Kansas City against Ed Figueroa, 12-11.

Joe Lovitto drove in three Ranger runs with a two-run single in the second and his first home run of the year in the ninth against winner Jim Brewer, who picked up his first American League triumph.

Stan Thomas, the second of three Texas pitchers, drew the loss to level his record at 4-4.

Jeff Burroughs also homered for the Rangers, his 24th.

Jerry Remy had three of California's 10 hits.

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP) — Woody Green and Rich Lewis, happy over their acquittal of rape charges, are eager to get back to their National Football League teams.

A jury unanimously found them innocent Thursday after 1½ hours of deliberation. Their trial lasted seven days.

Green, 23, is a running back for the Kansas City Chiefs. Lewis, 24, is a linebacker for the New York Jets. Green is married to Lewis's sister.

Nicklaus favored at Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, who came within three or four strokes of destroying this event, occupies his customary position as an overwhelming favorite in the weekend World Series of Golf.

Tom Weiskopf, Tom Watson and Lou Graham offer the opposition in the 36-hole, Saturday and Sunday affair that brings together the winners of all the world's major tests of golfing greatness.

Nicklaus, a four-time winner and a five-time runner-up in this elite event, qualified for a 10th appearance with his victories in the Masters and the PGA. And he almost made this a one-man tournament.

He missed a playoff for the British Open crown, won by Watson, by a single shot. He could have won the U.S. Open with pars on his last three holes but lost to Graham by two shots. And he lost the Canadian Open—the first alternate spot—in a playoff to Weiskopf.

Provision is made for three alternates in the World Series of Golf in the event someone wins more than one of the four qualifying tournaments. But Nicklaus came within four strokes of winning all four, plus the first alternate spot—the Canadian Open.

"If he'd won all of them, plus the Canadian, I don't know what we'd have done," one tournament official said.

But it didn't happen. It was close enough to prompt Nicklaus to call this one of his finest seasons ever, but it didn't happen. And, since it didn't happen, he comes into this one with a little something to prove.

Instead of becoming complacent, he has a point to make.

He was a little miffed about losing to Weiskopf in the Canadian. And he still smarts from Weiskopf's 1973 World Series victory, the last time either played in this event.

And so the man who is unapproached as the greatest performer of his era is in his most dangerous frame of mind — he feels he has a challenge.

"Challenge, competition is what the game is all about," Nicklaus said.

He's at the peak of his game. He's won more tournaments, more money and has a better stroke average than anyone else in the world this year.

And the World Series is being played on his most happy hunting ground, the famed Firestone Country Club course. Nicklaus has collected almost $375,000 in winnings from this course alone. In addition to his four World Series titles, he also won the American Golf Classic here and copped the PGA on this course just a little more than a month ago.

"He is not unbeatable," said Weiskopf, who ranks as his biggest challenger for the $50,000 first prize. "Jack can be beaten."

Weiskopf has won twice this season, as has the 25-year-old Watson, one of golf's most promising young players. Graham's only victory came in his U.S. Open upset. He and Watson are World Series rookies.

The event offers $15,000 to the second place finisher, $7,500 to third and $5,000 to fourth. It is the last time it will be played as a four-man tournament. It's scheduled to go to an expanded format at an unannounced site next season.

NBC-TV will provide national television coverage both days, 2-3:30 PDT.

Dallas faces Oakland

By Associated Press

The struggling Dallas Cowboys, once the scourge of the National football League, will get no sympathy from the Oakland Raiders when the two meet tonight in a nationally televised exhibition game.

"Oakland is the most aggressive team in the NFL, offensively and defensively," said Dallas assistant coach Ermal Allen. "They also lead the league in penalties, but most of those come from hitting, piling on or goring the quarterback. Oakland will strike you."

Undefeated in four outings, the Raiders will find a different Dallas team than the one that went to the Super Bowl for two straight years, losing to the Baltimore Colts in 1971 before crushing the Maimi Dolphins the following year.

Gone are defensive tackle Bob Lilly, center Dave Manders and fullback Walt Garrison, all of whom have retired, and wiide receiver Bob Hayes, traded to the San Francisco 49ers.

"It takes time to replace players," said Cowboys Head Coach Tom Landry. "I wish I could have a magic wand and do it."

In Saturday's games, St. Louis faces Minnesota, Atlanta meets Buffalo at Tampa, Fla., Philadelphia takes on Los Angeles, Cincinnati travels to Detroit, Chicago is at Miami, New Orleans plays Pittsburgh and Green Bay meets Kansas City.

Sunday schedule pits the New York Jets against Washington, the New York Giants versus Cleveland at Seattle, Denver at San Francisco and San Diego at New England. Baltimore and Houston will tangle in the Astrodome Monday night.

While the Raiders have been waylaying all comers, Dallas finally got into the winning column last week after three straight losses. One new wrinkle by the Cowboys is a spread formation with quarterback Roger Staubach lining up five yards behind center. He might have to drop even deeper to escape the Oakland rush, which has recorded 14 quarterback sacks already, recovered five fumbles and intercepted nine passes.

The Oakland-Dallas clash will be the first of three nationally televised games this weekend. Other games to be trotted before the TV audience will be the St. Louis-Minnesota encounter and the Jets-Washington Redskins clash.

The NFL will give Tampa fans an early look at the league's brand of football. The Tampa Bay Buccaneers begin NFL play in 1976. Atlanta may start top draft choice Steve Bartkowski of California at quarterback. But the Falcons will be hurting in the defensive line where they lost Claude Humphrey for the season last week. Buffalo, 2-2 in preseason play, as are the Falcons, will take a closer look at their No. 1 draft choice, linebacker Tom Rudd of Nebraska, who recently signed.

Philadelphia at Los Angeles matches two teams with 3-1 records. Either former Ram Roman Gabriel or young Mike Boryla will start at quarterback for the Eagles while James Harris will guide Los Angeles.

The Cincinnati Bengals have won the last four preseason meetings over Detroit, but neither has been that impressive this year. The Bengals are 2-3 while Detroit has won only once in four outings. Quarterback Ken Anderson is scheduled to start for Cincinnati after taking off last week. Greg Landry will lead Detroit after Bill Munson reinjured his right shoulder last week.

Chicago's defense is okay, having given up only 39 points in four outings. But the Bears' offense is still having trouble as Chicago has posted a 2-2 record. Miami was knocked out of the unbeaten ranks last week as safety Dick Anderson reinjured his left knee and middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti broke his thumb.

The defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers are having a tough time this year with a 2-3 mark. But quarterbacks Terry Hanratty and Joe Gilliam along with running back Reggie Harrison are due back from injuries. New Orleans, on the other hand, will be without quarterback Archie Manning, who was injured last week.

never lost to Kansas City, 1-3. This week promises to be the same. Kansas City's quarterbacking situation is still unsettled with veteran Len Dawson and youngster Don Adams sharing last week's chores in a losing cause. G een Bay's John Hadl looked sharp in directing the Packers to a halftime lead last week.

Besides Tampa, another team will join the league in 1976 — the Seattle Seahawks. And like Tampa, Seattle fans will see NFL action this week. The surprising Giants, 4-0 and coming off a victory over the Steelers, will go with Craig Morton, although Carl Summerell is due for second half duty. For Cleveland, Eddie Brown will sstart at free safety for the injured Thom Darden.

The Jets-Washington Redskins clash will probably see the 1975 debut of New York quarterback Joe Namath. But the Jets, 3-1, will be without running back Emersson Boozer. Washington, 3-2, had its best outing last week in a victory over Detroit.

San Francisco's fourth annual Mayor's Youth Bowl Game will find Denver, 2-2, taking on the 49ers, 1-3. Steve Spurrier, Tom Owen and Norm Snead are all battling for the No. 1 quarterbacking job for the 49ers, while Denver's Charley Johnson is ready to make his first appearance of the preseason.

Quarterback Dan Fouts will probably start for San Diego, 1-3. New England, 2-2, is going with it's frontline troops.

American League roundup

Bosox aren't fading

By Associated Press

Remember how the Boston Red Sox were supposed to fade in the stretch? As soon as they started to feel the pennant pressure in September, critics claimed, the Bosox would fold like an accordian.

Well, consider this: Boston's magic number is 18.

"It'll be tough for them to catch us now," said Boston rookie Fred Lynn, echoing a tone of confidence heard in all corners of the Red Sox' locker-room after they beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-1 Thursday night to complete a sweep of their "crucial" two-game series.

"You never really think you're in until it's clinched," said Red Sox veteran Carl Yastrzemski, "but I kind of like our situation now."

Boston's situaion, which is looking better and better, is this: the Red Sox have opened an eight-game bulge over the Orioles in the American League East, and with 25 games left to play, any combination of 18 Boston victories or Baltimore defeats will mean a division flag for Beantown.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City Royals blanked the Chicago White Sox 7-0, the New York Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers 8-1, the Cleveland Indians outscored the Milwaukee Brewers 10-5 and the California Angels defeated the Texas Rangers 6-4. Oakland and Minnesota were not scheduled.

With Luis Tiant a late scratch because of muscle spasms in his back, Boston Manager Darrell Johnson decided two Red Sox pitchers might do the job of one. So he split the mound time between Dick Pole and Dick Drago, and the result was a five-hitter.

Pole, just four days off the injured list after recovering from a line drive to the head June 30, went the first five innings and allowed just two hits and one unearned run. Then Johnson handed the ball to Drago, and he scattered three hits the rest of the way to notch his 10th save and third in the last four games.

Boston scored two runs in the first inning on a wild play which saw Baltimore commit two throwing errors. With the bases loaded against Mike Torrez, 16-8, and one out, Jim Rice hit a grounder to Brooks Robinson, who tagged third for a forceout. Then Robinson threw wildly past first as one run scored. Lee May ran down the ball and threw home, but the ball got past catcher Dave Duncan for another run.

Royals 7, White Sox 0

If you're looking for the pennant race in the American League, you might have to take Horace Greeley's advice and head westward.

While the East race has fizzled, the Kansas City Royals are doing their best to heat things up in the West. They posted their fourth consecutive victory as Paul Splittorff blanked Chicago on seven hits to pull to within six games of the first-place Oakland A's.

"It's all very simple now," said Splittorff. "We're six games out and have six more with Oakland. Sure we could use some help from other clubs, but it is still up to us to beat 'em head to head."

Frank White, on his 24th birthday, and Jim Wohlford drove in three runs apiece to provide most of the Kansas City offense, while four Chicago pitchers issued 15 walks to make life easy for the Royals.

Yankees 8, Tigers 1

Thurman Munson drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Rudy May, 12-10, tossed a five-hitter for the Yankees, who broke the game open with five runs in the fifth inning off Ray Bare, 8-10.

Indians 10, Brewers 5

Joe Lis slammed a three-run homer and got another RBI on a sacrifice fly to pace the Cleveland attack. It was only Lis' second game since being promoted from Oklahoma City.

Three-time winner makes it four in annual Baldy run

Chuck Smead made his return to the 8-mile Mt. Baldy to the Peak race a triumphant one on Labor Day, outdistancing a strong field to arrive at the peak in 62 minutes, 44 seconds. This time is within a minute of his own course record of 62 minutes, 20 seconds, set in 1972.

Smead, winner of the event in 1971, 72, and 73, was not present for the race last year, and the title of "King of the Mountain" went to Ken Moffitt. This year Smead led the race from start to finish, and added minutes to his lead during all phases of the race. Second place went to Bill Scobey in 66 minutes and 55 seconds, over four minutes behind Smead, while third went to last year's winner Ken Moffitt in 67 minutes and 29 seconds. With a big lead acquired early, Smead may not have had the proper mental set for the maximum effort necessary to set a new course record, but he came close to it.

The race saw 84 of 85 official entrants finish, and new division records were set in two classes. In the womens division, Donna Sanchez set a record with a finish of 89 minutes and 19 seconds. In the Boys 13-15 Division, Frank Assuma set a new record of 74 minutes and 58 seconds. Other Division winners were Dick Durand in the Mens 40-49 Division, Bob Long in the Mens 50-59 Division; and John Montoya in the Mens 60 and over Division. R. Cook and J. Kelly tied for first in the Boys 12 and under Division. Louis Silva took the Mens 16-19 Division race.

The race was run under nearly ideal conditions except for strong, cold winds near and on the peak. Water and first aid stations set up by the Mt. Baldy Fire Department at the Notch the Devil's Backbone gave competitors a chance to take on some liquids on the run. Except for a few blisters, no problems were reported by the runners.

Trophies donated by the Mt. Baldy Chamber of Commerce were awarded to overall and Division winners and runners-up. Times and places for the award winners is as follows:

OPEN DIVISION: 1. Chuck Smead, 62:44; 2. Bill Scobey, 66:55; 3. Ken Moffitt, 67:19; 4. Mike Harrie, 68:51; 5. Jeff Rawlings, 69:09; 6. Mark Kushner, 71:48; 7. Steve Durand, 72:11; 8. Roger McGrath, 75:13; 9. R. Glenn, 75:30; 10. Alan Hass, 75:49. VETERANS DIVISION: 40-49. 1. Dick Durand, 77:52; 2. Bob Holtel, 79:43; 3. Gil Perez, 83:12; 4. Ed Gookin, 86:17; 5. Dick Richards, 88:08. 50-59. 1. Bob Long, 91:50; 2. John Garcia, 93:17; 3. Ed Halpin, 94:49. 60 AND OVER. 1. John Montoya, 95:29. WOMENS DIVISION: 1. Donna Sanchez, 89:19; 2. Vicky Cook, 93:17. BOYS DIVISION: 16-19. 1. Louis Silva, 69:51; 2. Brian Stephenson, 72:53; 3. Roger Innes, 75:20; 4. Mark Trilevski, 75:44; 5. Tom Colley, 76:02. 13-15. 1. Frank Assuma, 74:58; 2. Matt Ebiner, 87:47. 12 AND UNDER. 1. R. Cook and J. Kelly, tie, 89:50.

Teenagers lead women's amateur

Two smooth-swinging teenagers are leading the Southern California Woman's Amateur at Pomona National Golf Course after 36 holes.

Sixteen-year-old Tamara Snook of San Clemente shot a 75 Thursday to take a three-stroke lead in the 54-hole tournament which annually attracts the finest women amateurs in the Southland.

Snook's 155 leads the tourney, but 18-year-old Irene Zuniga of Santa Ana fashioned her second straight 79 Thursday for a 158 total. Marshall Canyon's Shelby Myers slipped to an 83 after an opening day 77 and holds third place with 160.

Gail Chow of Montebello also shot 83 Thursday for a 161 total.

The final round of the tourney will be played today.

Low gross leader in the first flight is Jean Cox, 82-84—166; while Marion McGrath of Pomona National leads low net contestants with 144.

Jean Schlick, 150, is in second place after two days.

Low gross leaders in the second flight are Jo DeBos, Los Serranos, and Fay Kulp, Marshall Canyon, tied at 193. Net leader in the flight is Mary Ellen Wagner of South Hills with 145.

Mears in comeback

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — "We were driving about 100 miles per hour in the dust and when the dust cleared, I'd already started off the cliff.

"Probably another five feet and it was straight down into the water."

"Fortunately, two guys on horseback happened by and we finally talked them into pulling the car up from the precipice. They couldn't get it all the way out, so we later got a truck and hauled it up.

"Under those circumstances, an accident like that doesn't really bother me. You're running in the dust and then get two wheels off the edge and when the dust clears you're already off and there's not much you can do about it.

"Next time I might slow down a bit, but really, I don't know."

The 28-year-old Mears, who now lives in Costa Mesa, Calif., defends his title this weekend in Mickey Thompson's closed-course off-road race at the Riverside International Speedway. Nearly 200 other drivers will try to break the Mears hold on the title.

Rick Mears won, in 1973 and Roger in 1974. "I think I fear my brother more than any other driver," admitted Roger, who got into the off-road brand of racing when his brother won a chassis and the family put together a racer.

"I really got to like off-road racing because it is such a challenge both for the car and for yourself," he says. "You really have to be in the best shape physically to take the pounding."

Still, Roger aspires to drive an Indy car around the smooth 2½-mile ovals. He'll be competing in midget and sprint cars this season trying to attract attention to himself-not from the fans but from a potential sponsor.

"It's getting tougher and tougher in these financial times," Roger admits.

Sports briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Halfbacks Kenny Lee and Carl Zaby ran ahead of 1974 starters Wendell Tyler and Eddie Ayers as the UCLA football team concluded two-a-day football drills on Thursday.

A team spokesman said Tyler was not playing as well as the other backs while Ayers was being brought along slowly following a knee operation late last spring.

DALLAS (AP) — Cliff Speegle, executive secretary of the Southwest Conference, said Thursday Southwest Conference football teams could carry 60 players on the road for one week until the NCAA appeals a federal judge's ruling striking the 48-player limit.

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Carleton R. Crowell, track and cross-country coach at the U.S. Military Academy for the last 25 years, died of a heart attack Thursday following his customary morning jog. He was 62.

Tourney draws top stars

Many of the superstars of tennis will be on hand Sept. 13 when the 1975 Pacific Southwest Open Tennis Championships get under way at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

For the first time in its 49 year history, the tournament will not be played at the Los Angeles Tennis Club.

Firm entries have been received from Arthur Ashe, Wimbledon champion; Raul Ramirez, star of the Mexican Davis Cup team; Marty Reissen, one of the top rated U.S. players; Harold Solomon, finalist in the 1974 Pacific Southwest; Roscoe Tanner, the power server from Lookout Mountain, Tennessee; Stan Smith, a top ranking U.S. player for the past 8 years; and Dick Stockton, who has represented the U.S. in the Davis Cup play.

Prize money is $100,000 and the tournament will provide bonus points to the participating players for the Commerical Union Grand Prix with its 1975 bonus pool of $750,000.

In addition to the regular tournament, there will be a renewal of the popular Grand Masters event featuring such great past champions as Frank Sedgman, Vic Sexias and Pancho Segura. This will be held on the Sept. 13-14-15 weekend.

The first round of mens play will commence September 13 with two days of daytime matches. On September 15 there will be afternoon and evening sessions through Saturday, September 20. Finals will take place on Sunday afternoon, September 21. Tickets are on sale at Pauley Pavilion, the L.A. Tennis Club and all Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies. The move to the Pavilion will provide seating for over 12,000 people with parking facilities for 4,000 cars.

The Pacific Southwest is sponsored by Thrifty Drug and Discount Stores and Big 5 Sporting Goods. It is a major fund raising effort for the Southern California Tennis Association. This body is responsible for conducting tournament play in the area and for development of the Southland's junior players.

Skillful shooters bag dove limits

BIG CAT — Frank Winkler of La Verne landed this 44¾ pound flathead catfish last weekend about two miles above Imperial Dam on the California side of the Colorado River. Winkler also caught a 25 pounder. Both were taken using a deep sea rig with 50-pound test line and live bluegill for bait. Winkler also bagged his limit of dove Monday and Tuesday, working the Arizona side of the Colorado in the grain fields near Fisher's Landing where he has a mobile home on leased government land.

The Coachella Valley south of Indio and the Palo Verde Valley bordering the Colorado River near Blythe provided most of the action for the abbreviated opening Monday of the 1975 California dove season.

Fish and Game wardens in both areas said hunters numbered in the thousands, and that most skillful shooters succeeded in getting a legal limit of 10 doves.

Hunter numbers were down, however, in other traditionally good dove-hunting areas, possibly because the opening of the season fell on a Monday.

From the Imperial Valley, Capt. Curt Kastner reported hunter numbers down about 25 per cent from last year, but that still left thousands in this heavily hunted area.

Warden Douglas Baker of Lancaster said hunter pressure in the Antelope Valley was down about 50 per cent, with just a few hundred hunters. Because most of the doves had left the valley prior to opening day, success was minimal. The best area was on the west side of the valley from 60th Street west.

Kastner said hunting was good in the Imperial Valley, with three areas standing out: the southern part of the valley along the Mexican border, east of Holtville along the East Highline Canal and on the Wister Unit of the Imperial Wildlife Area.

Five hunter casualties, two of them serious, were reported in the combined Imperial Valley-Coachella Valley area, one in the Palo Verde Valley.

Eighty-nine citations were issued in the Imperial-Coachella area, approximately 50 in the Blythe area. One of the most flagrant was the case of two hunters near Indio who had a combined total of 58 doves, 38 over the limit.

Despite the closing of the Yuma Indian Reservation to hunting, success in the Bard - Winterhaven - Yuma area was excellent, with white-winged doves constituting about 50 per cent of the bag.

Capt. James Reynolds of Blythe also reported large numbers of white-wings taken above Blythe in the Lost Lake and Wilson Road area. In the Palo Verde Valley, the white-wing bag was about one bird per limit.

Reynolds said the number of hunters in the Palo Verde Valley was the most in his memory. Despite the large number of cut grain fields available in which to hunt, some areas were crowded with hunters, he said.

Dove hunters were reported out in fair numbers again today in the Palo Verde Valley, although in other parts of California most of the hunters had gone home.

The Coachella Valley was another area to draw a record number of hunters, possibly hunters who would have gone to the Imperial Valley if the season had started on a Saturday. The best hunting was near Mecca and Thermal and along Jefferson Street near Monroe. A large number of doves remained in these areas today.

Pomona crashes hurt 3

Three persons were injured Wednesday when the autos they were in were involved in separate one-car crashes in Pomona, police reported.

James Collins, 27, 2487 Hemlock Way, Pomona, was hurt when his car hit a curb and overturned at Towne Avenue and Indigo Court shortly after 2 a.m.

And Maria E. Miranda, 25, 1398 S. Palomares St., Pomona, and her passenger, Rosa M. Moreno, 18, 1400 S. Palomares, Pomona, were injured when their car hit a fire hydrant and utility pole at Grand Avenue east of Rebecca street shortly before 7 a.m.

All three victims wer released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

A young Pomona man remained in good condition at Pomona Valley Community Hospital under treatment for injuries suffered Tuesday night when the motorcycle he was riding hit a dog in Pomona.

The rider, Andrew D. Stephens, 22, 954 E. Phillips Blvd., suffered a leg injury and pavement burns in the accident in Bonita Avenue west of Melbourne Avenue.

JILL MARIE HAWTHORNE, 10, was named Little Miss Liberty Los Angeles at the first children's Miss USA Liberty Pageant held in Arcadia. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hawthorne of Pomona.

New La Verne 4-H officers

Cathy O'Donnell has been elected president of the La Verne 4-H Club.

Other new officers are Colleen Woith, vice president; Peggy Ice, secretary; Margaret Munro, treasurer; Andrea Jones, reporter; Carla Bauer, photographer; and John O'Donnell, sergeant-at-arms.

The club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the La Verne Community Building.

Mexico Independence fete set in Pomona

Mexican Independence Day will be celebrated three days early Sept. 13 at Sharkie Park in Pomona.

The fiesta will begin at 2 p.m. and continue until 9 p.m.

Dances will be performed by Judy Torres and her group. There will be music by Los Jaramillos, and a puppet show will be presented by Pomona Public Library.

Sharkies and Sharkettes will operate refreshment booths.

The event is sponsored by the Bicultural Steering Committee of Pomona. The purpose of the committee is to create awareness and appreciation of the various ethnic cultures of the City of Pomona. The city Parks and Recreation Department is assisting the committee in preparations for a series of community events.

Anyone interested in joining the committee may contact Mrs. Nancy Lopez, chairman, at 628-8151.

Small investor stands to take biggest lump if N.Y. defaults

NEW YORK (AP) — Those involved in the complex fiscal problems of New York City agree that small investors, especially those concerned about retirement income, hold the lion's share of the city's bonds and notes.

With the city now face-to-face with a possible default, the owners of the city's $7.4 billion in bonds and $4.6 billion in notes may find that the purchase of the tax free municipal issues was not the solid, conservative investment they were seeking. If the city did default, payment of interest on its bonds would be delayed indefinitely.

The big New York City banks hold large amounts of city debt and have been involved in the complicated negotiations surrounding the city's fiscal crisis, but bond market dealers have been hearing from the smaller investors holding city paper.

"I bought New York City bonds because I needed all the income I could get as a widow with two children in private school," one woman told her broker.

"I bought them for college for my two sons and maybe something left over to start them in marriage or a business or something," one New York City man says.

Another told his dealer, "I bought them in case the time comes very soon when I want to tell the boss what he can do with his job."

Mayor Abraham D. Beame says he is in the same boat as many other city residents, holding $90,000 in city obligations.

Firm figures on who owns how many of New York City's bonds can not be verified, though, because banks are not required, and are unwilling, to disclose specific bond holdings. Also, the bonds themselves, unlike stock certificates, do not bear the names of the owners.

No records of ownership are kept by the city or anyone else.

James Lebenthal, executive vice president of the bond dealer Lebenthal & Co. says "certainly more than 100,000 and possibly as many as a million" small investors across the country own New York City issues.

Seth Glickenhaus, head of the bond dealership Glickenhaus & Co., puts the figure closer to 100,000.

In terms of dollars, a spokesman for New York City Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin estimates that perhaps 40 per cent or about $5 billion of the city's debts is held by individual investors, many of whom are former city employes on retirement.

"They bought city paper for safety. They may have risked marketability, But they never, never thought they were playing around with their life savings," says Lebenthal.

Who are these individuals? According to bond dealers, a typical New York City bond holder is in his 50s probably living in or near the New York area nearing retirement, with taxable income of at least $25,000 or more, looking fo steady, safe income.

In the past year, when yields on New York's securities went soaring to 7, 8, 9 per cent and beyond, the rank of individual bond holders expanded to include many more middle income families, many of whom, according to Lebenthal, were "inexperienced and unsophisticated.

"Individuals were faced with irresistible 8½ to 9 percent tax free yields," he says.

Last year the city made it possible for middle income people to buy notes that matured quickly by lowering the denominations to $10,800. Before the current fiscal crunch, the lowest note denominations were $25,000, out of the reach of all but wealthier individuals, banks and other institutions.

Where the rest of the city's bonds and notes are is equally unclear and the subject of much discussion among Wall Street analysts.

It is widely assumed that most of the city's debt not held by individuals is held by banks in and around the New York metropolitan area.

Analyst Warran Marcus of Salomon Brothers estimates the top six New York City banks hold around $800 million to $900 million in city debt right now. A recent study by Drexel Burnham & Co. analyst George Salem put the figure at $1.3 billion.

Scattered around the country are banks that hold perhaps $3 million to $5 million apiece in New York City debt, Marcus says.

And besides what the banks hold in their own portfolios, they are known to manage millions of dollars in city debt for their customers and trust accounts.

Three in area now deputies

Two Diamond Bar residents and one from Walnut were among 98 men and women who received graduation certificates recently from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Academy in ceremonies at the Hall of Administration.

Their graduation culminated an intensive 24-week period of basic police training which included courses in socilogy and psychology as well as aspects of law enforcement.

The class included 66 members of the sheriff's department in addition to officers from 14 other agencies.

Valley residents who were graduated were Connie L. White, 27, Walnut, who is a graduate of Manuel Arts High School in Los Angeles; Gregory N. Christopherson, 24, Diamond Bar, formerly of Long Beach; and Charles L. Bryant, 25, Diamond Bar, formerly from Portland, Ore.

Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess awarded the certificates and welcomed the class into law enforcement.

Chino permits show first drop

For the first time this year, monthly building valuations in Chino in July fell below the figure for the same month of 1974.

Valuations totaled $2,714,649, compared to $3,403,506 for July 1974.

However, building activity continues to set a record pace for the year, with $23,375,055 recorded for the first seven months of 1975. This compares to a $14,809,880 total for the same period last year.

Last month's valuations include a $1.3 million permit for the new San Bernardino County court building under construction at the Civic Center site.

Also 20 single family dwellings were valued at $824,937, 44 additions and repairs, $74,020, and 14 swimming pools, $70,217.

Detente dilemma: U.S., Russ refine, add missiles

LONDON (AP) — China's missile program has slowed down, but the United States and the Soviet Union continue to sharpen their nuclear strike forces despite detente, the Institute for Strategic Studies reported today.

At the same time, a new arms race is under way in the oil producing countries, the institute said. Iran and Saudi Arabia each tripled their military budget in the past year. Iran now spends more money on arms than Britain.

The institute, an international body of experts, analyzes data from government, military, academic and intelligence sources. Findings were published in "The Military Balance 1975 1976," the 17th of the institute's authoritative annual surveys.

"China continued her nuclear program more slowly than earlier projections have indicated," the institute said. It said there have been no Chinese nuclear tests since the 16th was conducted in June 1974.

An unspecified number of intermediate range ballistic missiles in the 1,750-mile category were added by Peking during the year. But the multistage intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) with a range of 3,500 miles sufficient to reach Moscow is still not deployed and there has been no full range test of China's planned 8,000-mile ICBM, although both have been under development for years, the institute said.

Turning to the superpowers, the institute said although the Vladivostok summit last November proposed ceilings on the number of strategic nuclear weapons, it has not checked their development by the United States and the Soviet Union.

In the past year, the United States completed programmed deployment of 550 Minuteman, 3 Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles each with multiple warheads, and deployed Poseidon missiles with multiple warheads in 25 submarines, among many improvements in its nuclear arsenal.

The Soviets, among other things, added 40 ICBMs to their stockpile over the past year, and deployed a new family of more accurate, large payload ICBMs identified by the institute as the SS-17, SS-18, and SS-19. Accuracy was reported to be within a quarter of a mile, comparable to U.S. missiles.

All these developments conform to guidelines agreed upon at Vladivostok for limiting offensive nuclear weapons until 1985. But the institute stressed that both sides are increasing their nuclear arsenals to permitted limits while little progress has been made in reducing conventional forces.

As it has each year since 1968, the institute listed a Soviet advantage in ICBMs over the United States — Russia's 1,618 to America's 1,054 on the 1975 count.

V.A. hospitals alerted on drug

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The top medical officer of the Veterans Administration has told its 171 hospitals to clamp tight controls on the drug suspected in a series of deadly respiratory failures at the VA hospital in Ann Arbor.

Dr. John D. Chase said the powerful paralyzing drug Pavulon, a derivative of the poison curare, should be locked up and handled with the same security precautions as narcotics.

In a telephone interview Wednesday, Chase confirmed the alert was sent last week over a teletype system serving the VA hospitals.

He said he recommended the hospitals "take precautionary measures and review the adequacy of security for patients."

Eleven persons have died at the Ann Arbor facility after suffering respiratory arrests since July 1. But officials said they plan to return to a more normal admissions policy on Monday, more than three weeks after the FBI was called into the case.

Admissions in recent weeks had been restricted to an emergency-only basis while the VA and a large detail of FBI agents sought to determine if a phantom killer was loose in the big hospital.

Some 51 major respiratory failures were recorded from July 1 to Aug. 15, when the FBI was called in. Eleven of the patients died, including Robert Antil, 41, of Detroit, who died Monday.

A mystery angle was added to his death when investigators found a blue substance in a breathing machine he used.

After an intensive 24-hour investigation, Dr. Ronald Bishop, chief of the VA medical service, said Wednesday, "My interpretation right now is that this material got put into the testate's humidifier as a result of an honest mistake."

He explained the solution, made up of one-third parts of sodium chloride, acetic acid and hydrogen peroxide generally is used to flush the bladders of patients under treatment for certain conditions.

He said if heat were applied to the three-part solution it would turn blue, as did the Antil solution.

Dr. Bishop said he could not say for certain how irritating the blue solution would be to a patient's lungs.

BOMBER PILOT — Megann Streeter, 19, flies four-engine DC6 planes to combat forest fires. With Miss Streeter is her father who operates Trans-West Air Service in Salt Lake City.

Woman, 19, mans cockpit of forest-fire bombers

By MIKE McCLOY
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A teen-aged woman has been in the cockpit of aircraft used this summer in battling some of the West's largest forest fires.

It takes strength and lots of concentration, says 19-year-old Megann Streeter, but she says she likes flying the four-engine, DC6 "slurry bombers" better than driving on a highway.

"You've got a job to do just like the men do, and if you can do the job, they don't say much," said the Salt Lake City woman, who flies with a charter airline operated by her father, John Streeter.

"It just takes time ... and age. I started flying when I was 13, and you can't solo until you're 16, can't get a private license until you're 17, or a commercial until you're 18."

She was a copilot on a DC6 used to drop fire retardants on a 13,000-acre fire in the Tonto National Forest of central Arizona and smaller blazes around the state.

Later, she was sent to Southern California when two major fires and a host of smaller ones broke out.

Miss Streeter, who has logged 1,200 air hours and holds a commercial multi-engine pilot's license, says there aren't as many crashes as is popularly believed. She adds, "There aren't as many maniacs in the air as there are on the ground.

"Flying forest fires tends to be a little more hazardous. You're flying low to the ground, and up canyons."

In a strong wind or an emergency, Miss Streeter said she uses both arms and legs to operate the copilot's controls.

When she's not flying, Miss Streeter often is on one-hour flight standby.

"It's a little hard on dating," she said. "Every time you go out, they call. It's almost guaranteed."

The job has long hours and lots of travel, Miss Streeter said.

"I don't think too many would like it — man or woman," she added.

But there's a special feeling about being airborne.

"It's just kind of a feeling that you're more alone than on the ground," Miss Streeter said. "And you're working with people that know what's going on."

Adam and Eve didn't eat an apple, but an apricot

OJAI (AP) — Nestled in the courtyards at the Presbyterian church here, Mary Lapham Hunt has a garden with 50 of the 200 plants mentioned in the Bible.

Conspicuous by its absence is the apple tree.

"Adam and Eve didn't really eat an apple," Mrs. Hunt said. "Apples didn't grow in the Mideast until about 50 years ago.

"But Milton called it an apple in 'Paradise Lost' and that popularized it. Most botanists today agree it was an apricot."

Mrs. Hunt's garden sprouted from an exhibit of Biblical plants she exhibted at a garden club flower show more than 20 years ago.

"I just got fascinated with the question of whether the Biblical plants that grew 2,000 years ago would grow in Ojai today where the soil and climate or so similar," she said.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Sept. 5, the 248th day of 1975. There are 117 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1774, the first Continental Congress assembled at Carpenter's Hall in Philadelphia.

On this date:

In 1670, William Penn was arrested for holding a Quaker meeting in Grace Church in London.

In 1882, members of labor unions held the first Labor Day parade in the United States as 10,000 workmen marched in New York City with placards and banners.

In 1885, Jake Gumper of Fort Wayne, Ind., bought the first gasoline pump to be manufactured in the United States.

In 1905, the Treaty of Portsmouth, N.H., ended the Russo-Japanese war.

In 1941, during World War I, German forces captured the city of Rheims.

In 1939, the United States proclaimed neutrality in World War II.

Ten years ago: Fierce battles broke out south of Danang air base in South Vietnam.

Five years ago: American B52 bombers hit Viet Cong targets in the Mekong Delta of South Vietnam.

One year ago: British police thwarted an attempted theft of the famous Stone of Scone from Westminster Abbey.

Today's birthdays: Former Att. Gen. John N. Mitchell is 62. Movie producer Daryl Zanuck is 73.

Thought for today: Common sense is not an issue in politics — it's an affliction. Will Rogers.

Bicentennial footnote: The Continental Congress met in Philadelphia, then adjourned, from day to day, until Sept. 13, because of insufficient business.

Skating record

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Clint Shaw, who claims a new record for endurance roller-skating, wants to skate the length of the Great Wall of China.

But the 34-year-old Canadian, who completed 179 continuous hours on his skates Monday, sees one problem with the 1,500-mile wall.

"I talked to some people who had been there and they said it would be pretty rough — the wall is very uneven," he said.

He began circling a rink in suburban Reseda Aug. 23 to break the previous mark listed in the Guinness World Book of Records of 147 hours set in 1935.

Shaw, who holds two long-distance skating marks, took five-minute breaks each hour. Otherwise, he ate and even changed his socks while continuing to skate.

"It's the greatest sensation I've ever felt," said Shaw.

In London, England, policemen are called "bobbies." Here is how they got their name:

Many years ago, before there were any real policemen, the job of protecting life and property was usually performed by ordinary citizens.

One day, a famous British statesman named Sir Robert Peel got the idea of organizing a trained police force that would always be ready to deal with almost any emergency.

Since Sir Robert's nickname was "Bobbie," the first uniformed policemen were called "bobbies," after Sir Robert, and the nickname has stuck with them ever since.

American policemen are often called "cops." In earlier days, policemen were called constables. The nickname "cop" is a shortened form of "copper," a name that refers to the copper buttons and badges policemen once wore.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (C/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Attitude testing in Pennsylvania schools stirs some parent griping

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's government wants to know more about your child than just whether he can read, write and multiply.

Does he enjoy school? And like his teachers?

Does he get along with pupils of different races and religions? Smoke marijuana or drink beer if his parents do the same?

And what's his opinion of himself?

The state Education Department says measuring attitudes is as crucial as testing ability to read.

However, a group of parents and educators, and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) disagree. They call attitude testing an invasion of privacy, damaging to children who are sensitive about revealing their innermost thoughts.

The five-year-old testing program is called Educational Quality Assessment (EQA). Each year, one-third of the public school pupils in the fifth, eighth and 11th grades receive the four-hour tests, which require 500 responses. About 80 per cent of the questions involve attitudes.

The purpose is to measure what taxpayers are getting for their $2 billion-plus annual investment in public schools.

All questions are related to Pennsylvania's 10 goals of quality education, including teaching children to understand themselves and others, acquire a positive attitude toward learning, be creative, prepare for a changing world and acquire basic word and number skills.

"You can't get away from the fact that attitude has an influence on learning," said J. Robert Coldiron, director of the program.

"For instance, when there's a close relationship between home and school, students perform better in school."

In the testing students are asked whether parents enjoy hearing about school, if parents feel school does a good job, and also whether mom and dad support school programs.

The results provide information on an entire school, not the individual student. Only a written request from parents can excuse a youngster from the entire test, but the pupil can independently decline to answer individual questions.

Because some schools administer tests over several days, students are required to include their names on the answer sheets — which are collected and returned. The name is torn off before the multiple choice sheet is finally handed in.

Starting with the next round of testing in March, names won't be required at all.

"We don't want kids having their constitutional rights violated," Coldiron said. "There was a possibility of teachers doing that (by seeing the names) and we eliminated that possibility."

The opposition is not satisfied.

"We don't think it's enough," said J. Thomas Menaker, a Harrisburg attorney and chairman of the ACLU's committee on the testing program. "We don't think schools ought to be in this kind of thing — Big Brother watching over you to see if you like your mother."

Joan Januro of Pittsburgh, president of the Pennsylvania Coalition for Basic Education, a parent-educator group, agreed.

"Just being asked questions such as 'I don't like myself very much' could be upsetting to a sensitive or serious child," she said.

She also questioned whether the answers given are accurate in predicting behavior.

Mrs. Janaro, a former New York City teacher who has children in Pittsburgh schools, said there are 500 subscribers to her group's newsletter. There is no membership list.

Coldiron said the test results provide districts with comparisons to similar schools elsewhere. For instance, a ghetto school will not be compared to one in the affluent suburbs.

"There's a fear the state is taking over," Coldiron said. "It's purely up to the school districts as to how they use the results. They have the ultimate decision to make. The district can disagree with what we're measuring and discount those scores."

To give each school a score and a ranking the state picks the right answer to each question, although results are tabulated only for the entire school — not for individuals.

"If the kid doesn't enjoy work at school it's scored as wrong. But the answer shows the school should look at its programs," Coldiron said.

What have schools done after receiving test results?

The Mechanicsburg School District in suburban Harrisburg wasn't satisfied with answers to questions on understanding others.

"In one building youngsters have written letters to the elderly," said Marlin Lippert, assistant superintendent. "In another building there were conversations in classrooms about others who are different."

The Education Department also uses the results to show thinking of students across the state. For example, Coldiron said, 11th grade results show:

—There's a decline in attitude toward school and learning but greater appreciation of individual achievement.

—There's more discomfort between students of different religious backgrounds than between those of different races.

—Students feel there's not enough variety in classrooms, with teachers of different subjects using the same teaching styles.

—Most students feel teachers know what they're talking about.

—Most students are pretty sure of themselves.

—Almost half the students feel the schools have too much control.

The Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA), representing most of the state's teachers, has cautiously accepted the testing.

"We support the EQA proposition in its objectives, but our membership must be knowledgeable and have an understanding of it," said the group's magazine, the Pennsylvania School Journal. "We will monitor its actions and results."

Slide rule obsolete?

LA JOLLA (AP) — Mathematics students can no longer find a slide rule at the University of California at San Diego.

"Slide rules are totally obsolete," says Paul Mares, bookstore manager.

Instead, there are electronic calculators ranging in cost from $60 to $800.

The slide rules have been taken off the shelves or sold, Mares said recently.

SET TO SING — Ray Woods, director of the Pomona Community Chorus, shown here at a recent concert, will open the chorale's fourth season with auditions and first rehearsal at 6:45 p.m. Monday in Room M-1, Garey High School, Pomona. All singers are invited to try out.

Fourth season

PCC sets auditions

A busy season of concerts, including performances at the Los Angeles County Fair, Cal Poly, a women's prison and a chorale festival, will be launched by the Pomona Community Chorus at its first rehearsal in Room M-1, Garey High School, Pomona, at 6:45 p.m. Monday.

Auditions for new singers will be held at the same time. The chorus is open to adults and young people, male and female. Ray Woods directs. The repertoire includes religious, classical, folk, jazz and popular music.

Now in its fourth season, the chorus will open its concert schedule with a program at the Los Angeles County Fair Sept. 27.

Three concerts will be given in the University Theater of Cal Poly, the first being a Christmas program Dec. 13. Other concerts scheduled are at the California Institution for Women, Chino, Oct. 18; a Southern California choral festival March 6, and a Spring Pops Concert May 15. The chorus also accepts invitations to perform for churches, service clubs and other community organizations throughout the year.

Audition appointments can be made with Woods at 623-5251, Ext. 332, or at 983-5265.

Veteran actors surface

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two new movies have corraled a sizeable number of Hollywood's veteran performers.

The Seplling-Goldberg Production for ABC-TV, "Murder on Flight 502," includes such figures as Theodore Bikel, Dane Clark, Laraine Day, Peter Lawford, George Maharis, Hugh O'Brian, Walter Pidgeon and Robert Stack. Also Sonny Bono.

Paramount has a bigger crew doing "cameos" in the vintage Hollywood comedy, "Won Ton Ton, The Dog Who Saved Hollywood." Among them: Don Ameche, Joan Blondell, Rory Calhoun, Lee J. Cobb, Jackie Coogan, Dennis Day, Yvonne DeCarlo, William Demarest, Andy Devine, Stepin Fetchit, George Jessel, Dorothy Lamour, Victor Mature, Virginia Mayo, Ethel Merman, Ann Miller, Aldo Ray, the Ritz Brothers, Mickey Rooney, Rudy Vallee, Henry Wilcoxon and Henny Youngman.

Chamber symphony plans five concerts

The California Chamber Symphony, conducted by founder-director Henri Temianka, will give five evening concerts at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center and UCLA's Royce Hall during the 1975-76 season.

The series, celebrating the Bicentennial, will feature prominent American soloists in programs tracing America's musical evolution from pre-Independence times to Gershwin, Bartok and Barber.

Harpsichordist Anthony Newman, joined by Susanne Shapiro and Elizabeth Hamilton, will be featured with the orchestra in the two Bach Concertos for Three Harpsichords during the Baroque Marathon at the Music Center Oct. 22. The program entitled "Before the Dawn's Early Light," will also include Bach and Handel violin sonatas.

"What Else Happened in 1776?" is the title of the Nov. 16 concert at Royce Hall, featuring works by Mozart and Haydn written in 1776, including the Mozart Concerto for Three Pianos with James Fields, Patricia Michaelian and Kiyoko Takeuti, a trio of young artists already launched on their international careers.

Leonard Pennario is the soloist in the Dec. 7 concert entitled "Dvorak Discovers America in 1892," with two major works by Dvorak, and the First Piano Concerto by the late Russian composer, Dimitri Shostakovich.

Violin prodigy Dylana Jenson will play Barber's Violin Concerto in the Jan. 11 program called "Declaration of Musical Independence," which will also include music by Gershwin, Milhaud and Weill.

The final concert Feb. 1, with Efrem Zimbalist Jr. as narrator, has as its theme "America, Haven for the Oppressed," with music by the great composers who sought refuge in America, from Bartok to Korngold and Schoenberg.

Season tickets are on sale at the Chamber Symphony Society of California, 2373 Westwood Blvd. Information is available at (213) 475-8761.

Ex-reptile

The Atlantic green turtle is a reptile adapted for life in the sea. The front legs are developed as broad flippers. Most species of turtle can draw the head, legs and tails into the shell for protection.

Hollywood Bowl in final week

Erich Leinsdorf, former assistant to Arturo Toscanini and onetime conductor of the Cleveland Symphony, the Boston Symphony and the Metropolitan Opera, will direct the Los Angeles Philharmonic in concerts Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the final week of the summer season at the Hollywood Bowl.

The husband-wife piano duo of Misha and Cipa Dichter will present a joint recital at the bowl Wednesday night. Misha Dichter will also be soloist in Brahms' Concerto No. 1 in D Minor for Piano and Orchestra in the Tuesday night program.

The Thursday night concert will include Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" and Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 in D Minor ("Choral") with soloists Delcina Stevenson, soprano; Nina Hinson, mezzo-soprano; William Harness, tenor, and Marvin Hayes, bass-baritone. The Los Angeles Master Chorale, conducted by Roger Wagner, will take part.

The Friday and Saturday night concerts will offer Grieg's Concerto in A Minor for Piano and Orchestra with pianist Earl Wild as soloist. Also on the program will be Liszt's Concerto No. 1 in E Flat for Piano and Orchestra, with Wild as soloist, works by Johann Strauss Jr., and Handel's "Music for the Royal Fireworks." The latter will be accompanied by the traditional fireworks display.

All four programs start at 8:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the box office and at Liberty, Mutual and Wallich's agencies.

PUTTING ON THE DOG — The popular rock group, Three Dog Night, will perform at 8:15 tonight through Sunday at the Universal Amphitheater, Los Angeles. The group's title derives from a phrase of Australian sheepherders who used their sheepdogs for warmth when sleeping in the open. A "three-dog night" is very cold. The group has 14 gold records, including "Easy To Be Hard" and "One."

Duke film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie rights to the life of the late musical great Duke Ellington have been acquired by Larry Harmon Productions.

Harmon announced that he has completed negotiations with the musician's son, Mercer Ellington, for a film biography. The producer hopes to release the film by Christmas 1976.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Question: which of the title roles in "Mother, Jugs and Speed" will be played by Bill Cosby and Raquel Welch?

Answer: Cosby will be Mother in the 20th Century-Fox comedy-action caper, and Miss Welch plays Jugs. They play ambulance drivers in the film to be directed by Peter Yates ("Bullitt"). Still to be cast is Speed.

MERRY MAID — Dick Gautier as Robin Hood has a frolic with Misty Rowe as Maid Marian in Paramount Television's new comedy series, When Things Were Rotten. The show, spoofing the legend of Robin Hood and his Merry Men, airs on ABC-TV at 8 o'clock Wednesday nights.

Dance school to open

The new dance studio is equipped with wall mirrors, barres and raised wooden floors.

The curriculum offers dance classes for girls and boys from 3½ years up and for adults. Included are preschool ballet, classical ballet, jazz, tap and Highland dancing, as well as tap and ballet classes for teenagers and mothers.

A new dance school, Valley Dance Arts, will open Monday at 6040 Riverside Drive, Chino. Open house and registration for classes will be held from 6 to 9 p.m.

Teacher-director of Valley Dance Arts is Linda Parker who has danced professionally since the age of 13, including appearances in Broadway stage productions and television shows. She has taught in the Chino area for two years

NOTICE TO CREDITORS OF BULK TRANSFER AND OF INTENTION TO TRANSFER ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE LICENSE(S)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the Creditors of LARRY N. LOWE AND PATSY R. LOWE, husband and wife Social Security No. 404 40 5874, Transferor and Licensee, whose business address is 1600 West Holt, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California 91768, that a bulk transfer, is about to be made to JOO YONG LEE AKA WILLIAM J. LEE and JUNG SOOK LEE, Social Security No. 567 25 2103, Transferee and Intended Transferee, whose business address is 1435 W. Laurel No. 7, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California 91768.

The property is described in general as: All stock in trade, fixtures, equipment and good will of a certain drive-in dairy business known as DRIFTWOOD DAIRY and located at 1600 West Holt in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and transfer the following alcoholic beverage license (or licenses): off sale beer and wine Number 20-13803, now issued to premises located at 1600 W. Holt, Pomona, California for the premises located at 1600 W. Holt, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

That the amount of purchase price or consideration in connection with said transfer of said license (or licenses) and said business, including the estimated inventory, is the sum of $16,500.00, which consists of the following: Checks drawn on account of transferee executed by transferee $5,000. Tangible property to be replaced by cash executed by transferee $7,500, intangible property $4,000.

All other business names and addresses used by the Transferor within three years last past so far as known to the transferee are: same.

That it has been agreed between said licensee and intended transferee as required by Sec. 24074 of the Business and Professions Code, that the consideration for the transfer of said business and transfer of said license is to be paid only after said transfer has been approved by said Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

That a sale, transfer and assignment of the aforesaid stock in trade, fixtures, equipment and good will of said business will be made, and the consideration therefor together with the consideration for the transfer and assignment of the aforesaid license (or licenses) is to be consummated on or after the first day of October, 1975, at the escrow department of Bank of America NT & SA El Monte Office, at 10943 Valley Mall, in the City of El Monte, County of Los Angeles, State of California, provided that the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has approved said transfer of said license.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
Loan No. 032-028072
T.S. No. 16383-1
Langbecker

DAYTON INVESTMENT CORPORATION as appointed Trustee under the following described deed of trust will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash (payable at time of sale in lawful money of the United States) all right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust in the property hereinafter described:

TRUSTOR: DALE ALLEN LANGBECKER AND ELVIRA LUPE LANGBECKER, husband and wife; BENEFICIARY: PIONEER MORTGAGE CORPORATION, a California Corporation; Recorded June 25, 1974 as instr. No. 1591 in book T8893 page 926 of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of Los Angeles County; said deed of trust describes the following property:

Lot 39, Tract 14919, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 311, pages 49 and 50 of Maps, in the office of the county recorder of said County.

1045 Gothic Way, Pomona, California. "(If a street address or common designation is shown above, no warranty is given as to its completeness or correctness)."

The beneficiary under said Deed of Trust, by reason of a breach or default in the obligations secured thereby, heretofore executed and delivered to the undersigned a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and written notice of breach and of election to cause the undersigned to sell said property to satisfy said obligations, and thereafter the undersigned caused said notice of breach and of election to be Recorded May 20, 1975 as instr. No. 3511 in book M5017 page 488, of said Official Records, Los Angeles.

Said sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest as in said note provided, advances, if any, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust.

Said sale will be held on Tuesday, September 23, 1975 at 11:00 a.m., at the front entrance to the Los Angeles County Courts Building located at 12720 Norwalk Blvd., Norwalk, California.

Date: August 21, 1975.

If YOU purchase a FIAT from Frank White Imports
In The Month of September 1975 — Frank White will pay
ALL MAINTENANCE ON YOUR CAR . . .
Drive FREE for 12 Months or 12,000 Miles!!!!!

The Fiat 128.
More legroom for passengers in the front seat than America's most luxurious cars.

The $9,000 Imperial 42.8 inches
The $9,500 Continental 43.3 inches
The $10,000 Eldorado 43.4 inches
The $2,741* Fiat 128 43.8 inches

At Fiat, we've designed our cars to make the most of what they have.
80% of the Fiat 128 is for people and luggage. Only 20% is for the engine.
Our car will cruise all day at 80 mph, powered by an engine that's 1/6 the size of the Cadillac's.
And the 128 has standard equipment that isn't in the opulentmobiles even as options. Does this mean we expect you to give up your desire to buy a Cadillac and buy a Fiat? No.
It means you shouldn't give up your desire for a Fiat and buy a Cadillac.

1975 Manufacturer's suggested retail price POE. Inland transportation, dealer preparation and local taxes additional. Overseas delivery and leasing arranged through your dealer.

FIAT
A lot of car. Not a lot of money.
